

Travelers Hit As Result of Plane Strikes

Bus, Train Lines Face Rush of Holiday Traffic

By the Associated Press

Thanksgiving holiday travel emphasized the effects of a continuing strike against two of the nation's biggest airlines which grounded nearly 400 commercial aircraft and threatened to snarl other forms of transportation.

A walkout by members of the Flight Engineers International association has halted Eastern Airlines flights since last Monday.

The International Association of Machinists struck Trans World Airlines last Friday, with TWA flight operations halted on Monday.

About 35,000 employees have been idled.

Non-striking airlines have put every available plane into service but block bookings — passengers reserving space on a number of non-striking airlines in the hope of getting aboard one of them — ironically has left empty seats on some airline flights.

All Facilities Used

Bus and rail lines have been doing a rush business, with all available facilities pressed into service. Confronted by crowding and delays, thousands of persons traveled by auto or stayed at home.

Wages and working conditions figure in the contract disputes.

The "third man" issue is proving a stumbling block in the strike by the flight engineers against Eastern airlines.

The company contends the engineers need pilot training so they can coordinate with the captain and co-pilot of jet equipment the line expects to put into service in 1960.

Decision Reserved

The union claims the pilot training offered amounts to little more than training on light planes. Wages and working conditions also are in contention.

In Miami, Fla., yesterday Federal Judge Emmett C. Choate reserved decision on the "third man" issue in considering a petition by the airline for an injunction against the striking engineers.

Choate, although saying "management has the right to require reasonable qualifications," noted that any ruling for the company could not halt the walkout. The union still could continue to strike over wage demands, an "economic issue."

2 Guardsmen Die In Plane Crash

New York—An Air National Guard plane crashed into Jamaica bay yesterday while heading in to Floyd Bennett field in Brooklyn. Two men died, one is missing, and a fourth was rescued.

The twin-engine C119, called a "flying boxcar," was attempting a radar-directed landing in rain and fog.

Recovered from the bay shortly after the crash were the bodies of Capt. Ramon Duke, 28, of Brooklyn, and Lt. David B. Hall, 29, of The Bronx.

The missing man was identified as Sgt. Ferdinand Roessner, 29, of Elmhurst, Queens.

Rescued by a police helicopter was Lt. Richard H. Westerberg, 22, of Brooklyn. He was taken to St. Albans Naval hospital, Queens, where his condition was described as good.

The cause of the crash was not immediately determined.

Navy Brass Upset by Girl In Academy

Annapolis, Md. — A 17-year-old high school girl upset navy discipline by pulling on a uniform and spending several hours inside the naval academy.

Navy brass—when they recovered—pulled the stripes from the sleeves of three middies Miss Johnson and ordered two others to face disciplinary action.

"The unauthorized presence of a young lady in Bancroft hall at an unauthorized time" was, said the academy, "an immature prank."

The academy, in a statement yesterday, said the incident occurred "about two weeks ago."

The girl, Susan Johnson, a senior at Annapolis High school and daughter of a well-known Baltimore surgeon, Dr. Marius P. Johnson, stood evening meal formation in a mid-dies uniform, then marched into the dining room and ate with the 3,500-man brigade.

Her mother termed the incident "just a prank."

The navy took a sterner view.

Cmdr. Marcy Dupre, academy public information officer, said the three demoted midshipmen officers were not directly involved but "had positive knowledge of the incident and failed to take proper corrective action."

Involved in the incident, he said, were William R. Evans of Trenton, N.J., and Michael J. Brown of Guyman, Okla., both seniors. They face disciplinary action.

Demoted were James P. Wilson of Philadelphia, the brigade commander; Robert L. Vogt of Norfolk, Va., a battalion commander; and Douglas Volgenau of Clarence, N.Y., a company commander.

3 Kenoshans Die After Auto and Truck Collide

Kenosha — Three Kenosha young people were killed and a fourth injured critically early today when the car in which they were riding collided with a truck. Their deaths raised the state's 1958 traffic toll to 737 compared with 825 on this day one year ago.

Killed were: Michael Baker, 20, son of Kenosha City Attorney Robert Baker; Sue Miller, 19, and Robert Luebke, 19, all of Kenosha.

In a critical condition at Kenosha hospital was Robert Pearson, 19, son of Dr. J. B. Pearson, Kenosha physician. The four young people were riding in a car driven by Baker that collided with a truck semi-trailer at the intersection of Highways 50 and 192 five miles west of Kenosha at 1 a.m. today. The truck driver, Donald Tracy, 29, escaped with minor injuries.

Recovered from the bay shortly after the crash were the bodies of Capt. Ramon Duke, 28, of Brooklyn, and Lt. David B. Hall, 29, of The Bronx.

Single Close Contest at Alaskan Polls

Democrats Take
Other Offices
By Landslide

Juneau — The new state of Alaska had its tent pitched solidly in the Democratic camp today as the ballot counting from Tuesday's general election took a Thanksgiving day recess.

Except for one major office, the Democrats turned the election into a landslide. They picked up both of Alaska's U. S. senate seats, the state's lone seat in the U. S. house of representatives and the governor's mansion. They won absolute control of Alaska's first state legislature for good measure.

Leading the Democratic parade was Alaska's long-time, non-voting delegate to congress, E. L. Bartlett, 54, who was a runaway winner over Republican R. E. Robertson and independent Keith Capper.

Bartlett, who has represented Alaska in congress for the last 14 years, was figured to be a shoo-in. Neither Robertson nor Capper waged anything more than a token campaign. Bartlett won U. S. Senate Term A.

Close Contest

Ernest Gruening, Democrat, battled in a tight race for the senate with Republican Mike Stepovich for Term B. Both men are former appointed governors of the territory.

Gruening trailed Stepovich in the early counting Tuesday night, then picked up steam as returns from the traditionally Democratic Fairbanks-Anchorage area started coming in and moved out into a 1,000-1,500 lead he did not relinquish.

Stepovich, with 74 out of 287 precincts left to be heard from, refused to concede the election to 71-year-old Gruening, a native of New York who was appointed governor in 1939. He stepped down in 1953. Stepovich, appointed by President Eisenhower in June, 1957, was trailing by 1,933 votes.

The lone seat in the house delegated to Alaska will be occupied by Ralph Rivers, 55, a former territorial attorney general who beat back the challenge of Republican Henry Benson, Alaska's commissioner of labor.

William Egan, the president of Alaska's constitutional convention, was chosen to become the 49th state's first elected governor.

Object of the wide search was Spence Edwards, 35, who escaped Tuesday from a prison camp near Dalton, Ga.

A brother, Harry Edwards, 30, is in jail at Murfreesboro, Tenn., charged with murder, and authorities first feared Edwards might try to free himself. The brother said he'd "rather die" than try to escape.

A nightlong vigil at roadblocks brought no trace of Edwards, and the state patrol said he might have holed up in the rugged Cumberland mountain county near here.

Helicopters took off at dawn to change before and after it to join the search.

The patrol said only coded messages were being broad-cast since Edwards could be in a 13th consecutive year, ten in the radio of his commandeered patrol car. He reported the higher figure was armed with a shotgun and said President Eisenhower thinks it would be foolish to practice economy where foreign aid spending is concerned.

They said Eisenhower and Sec. of States Dulles consider a vigorous foreign aid program particularly important at this time to offset Russia's moves in this field.

The budget bureau is currently screening the program drafted by foreign aid specialists.

Killer Sought In Georgia

Fastens Trooper, Kidnap Victim to Tree, Flees in Car

Lebanon, Tenn. — State troopers in radio-silent cars and helicopters scoured middle Tennessee today for a Georgia killer who bound a patrolman and wounded kidnaper victim to a tree and fled in a patrol car last night.

Billion Added to Foreign Aid Goal

Agencies Boost Demands
Despite Economy Drive

Washington — The Eisenhower administration has tentatively added about a billion dollars to its new foreign aid budget despite a White House drive to cut federal spending.

Government agencies have put together a package calling for about $4,200,000,000 to $4,300,000,000 in economic, technical and military aid to and authorities first feared Edwards might try to free himself. The brother said he'd "rather die" than try to escape.

Proposes to Let UN be Watchdog After 6-Month Period for Negotiations

Moscow — The Soviet Union today declared void the 4-power occupation agreement for West Berlin and offered in its place the creation of a demilitarized "free city" of West Berlin.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko handed U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson, Jr., a 24-page note proposing a 6-month period for negotiations to arrange the new status for West Berlin.

The Russians suggested that the United Nations act as watchdog of West Berlin's freedom, saying "the Soviet government does not object to the United Nations participating in observing the status of the free city of West Berlin."

The foreign ministry announced Soviet Premier Khrushchev would hold a news conference in the Kremlin this afternoon to discuss the new proposal.

The note said during the 6-month period of negotiations there would be no change in control of existing transport links over which the allied garrisons in West Berlin are supplied.

If no agreement is reached between Russia and the west during that period, the Kremlin said it would go ahead with liquidation of the occupation controls. In other words, it will transfer control of the allied traffic to the East Germans.

Renounces Agreement

A Soviet announcement by Tass said the Kremlin had notified the U. S. government it "regards as invalid the allied (occupation) agreements on Germany." A companion note delivered to the East German government in Berlin said the Soviet government is determined to end its occupation of Berlin and "considers it unfeasible to take any further part in the upholding of the occupation regime in Berlin."

The proposal for creation of a free city applies only to West Berlin. The East German government already has sovereignty over East Berlin. Its capital, and Russian troops are there by a 1957 agreement between the East German regime and Moscow.

The Russians made clear that even if West Berlin becomes a free city, they intend for East Germany — which surrounds it completely — to control traffic to and from.

The note said: "It is envisaged that the (East) German democratic public must fully control questions affecting its space, i.e. exercise her sovereignty on land, on water and in the air."

End of Contacts

"At the same time there will be an end to all contact representatives of the armed forces and other officials of the Soviet Union in Germany and correspondent representatives of the armed forces and other officials of the United States, Great Britain, and France on questions pertaining to Berlin."

The Soviets offered to act as go-betweens in negotiations to secure East German agreement to creation of a free city in what East Germany contends is her territory. The Russian note said preliminary talks already had been held with the East Germans.

The Russians also suggested that the four occupation powers and West and East Germany agree formally not to create a free city in what East Germany contends is her territory.

Elegance Keynote In Holiday Slippers

Trimmed With Glitter, Gold, Silver Braid

BY CAROLE RICHARDSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Slippers are among Santa's favorite gift parcels and this season's styles have sparkle enough to trim a Christmas tree.

Elegance is the keynote in holiday slippers. Soft velvets of vivid colors or black are trimmed with glitter and gold or silver braid. Dressy slippers for wear with negligees or lounging costumes feature open toe styles and fluffy, synthetic fur.

In selecting lounge footwear, match gold or silver fibers to those in a robe or lounging pajamas, or choose black slippers with embroidery in the same color as the robe. The shoes also can be purchased in the same solid color as the robe with which they will be worn.

Practical Gifts
For extra dainty mules, nylon is sprinkled with silver glitter and gathered into rows and rows of fluffy ruffles. These are available in a variety of pastel colors, white or black. On some plain black velveteen slippers nylon also is used for a silver-sprinkled, full-blown rose trimming the vamp.

There are always some practical minded people on everyone's gift list and the classic leather slippers, with warm, sheepskin linings will please their tastes. This season they are available in a rainbow of colors from deep, jewel tones to soft pastel shades.

Everyone from 2 to 92 loves a cozy pair of mule slippers for winter wear. Shoppers should have fun making their selections from the gaily trimmed styles being shown in Fox Cities stores.

Natural leather moccasins for comfortable lounge wear are a good gift choice and they are available in a wide range of styles.

Clothes are dear to her heart—ask any woman from 13 to 19, and wardrobe items will win enthused thanks. A pretty blouse touched with filigree lace for jumper or skirt, a kitten-soft pastel sweater, a smart checked casual jacket—all are favorites.

Tuck-In Gifts
Tuck-in gifts for the stocking might include a car-warmer knit cap, gay lightlets or stockings, fancy nylons, a luxurious stole, or delicate lingerie.

Welcome, too, are perfume, cologne and toilet articles, particularly well-received if floral or woody scents are chosen. The dainty purse-size

Practical but Still Feminine are the leather slippers at left. Gold beads decorate the vamp and the soft leather is warmly lined with sheepskin and bordered in bunny fur. A functional lounging boot is the pair at right. The canvas top can be laced or worn open and deep-pile sheepskin provides warmth.

Items are especially prized for dress-up evening use.

Jewelry trinkets, the bigger the better, will light up any teenager's eyes. Selection might include medallions, ropes, charm bracelets or

Claims Too Many Work
On Things Destructive

Socorro, N. M. —A leading American physicist says this country's main need is wise leadership in science "not just large numbers of technical people."

"Most of our high class technical people in industry today are working on things destructive," said Dr. Merle A. Tuve. "This is a mistake in public policy. We need more foreign aid in productive directions and less in weapons."

Dr. Tuve, director of the department of terrestrial magnetism at Carnegie institute, spoke at an informal gathering of scientists at New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology.

Tuve called United States moon shoots "a multi-million dollar sky-rocket hysteria and an acute national disease."

etchings, delicate water colors with a Far Eastern influence and scenes of early America, who covered landscapes and country settings.

Leading the roster of famous amateurs is Winston Churchill, whose reproductions include "Bottlescape," a still life of multi-shaped glass vessels, and "Winter Sunshine, Chartwell," a large card with a print suitable for hanging.

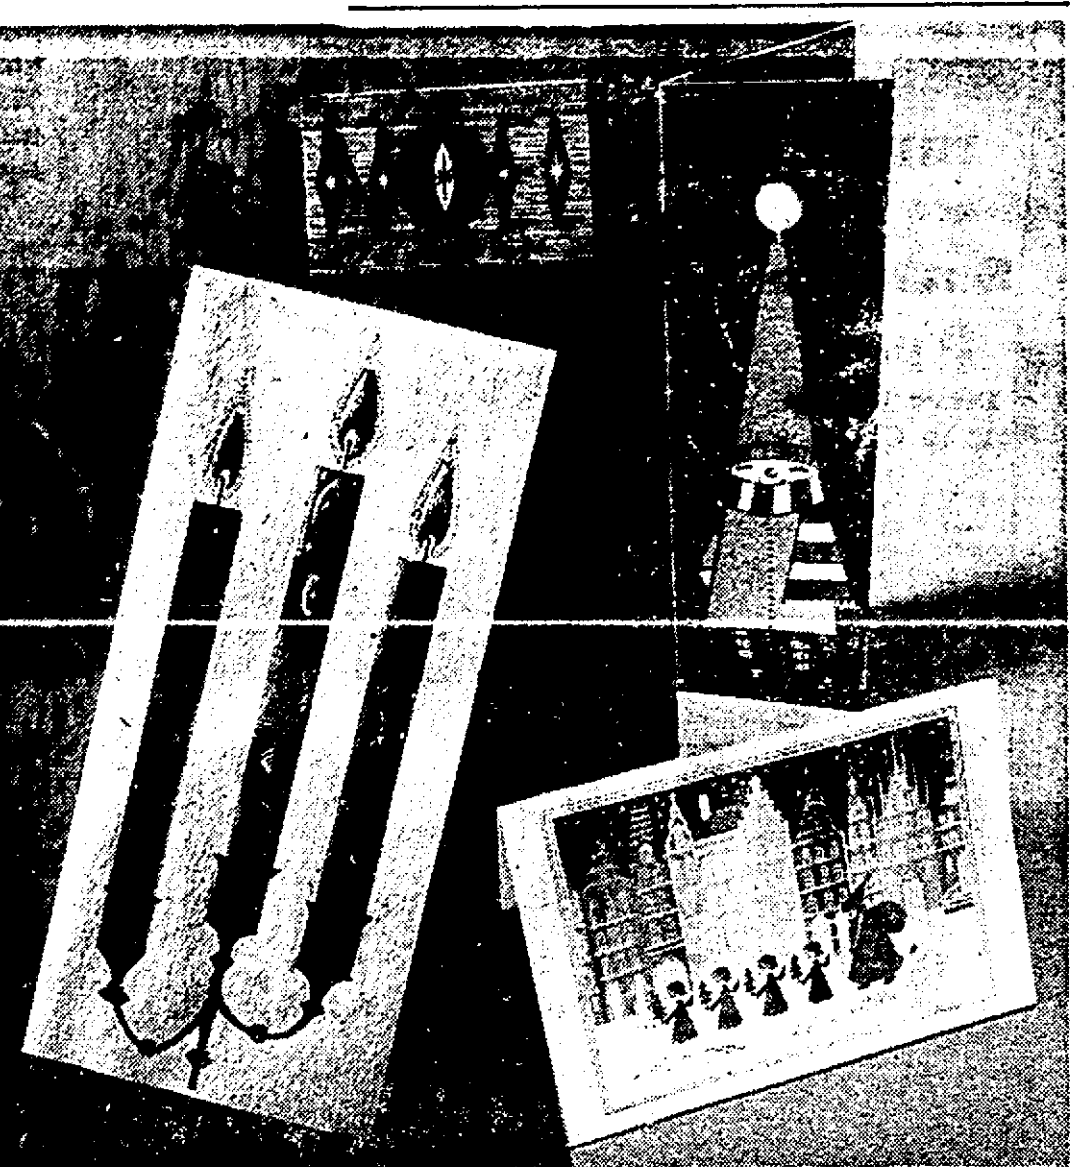

Tyrus Wong is represented in cards radiating a pureness in beauty and color. One of his groupings portrays the flight into Egypt by the Holy Family. Four hours of the flight are depicted by dawn, noon or "refuge from a golden midday sun," twilight and evening or "peace and respite as evening falls." The cards are available in single units or a folder type showing all four hours.

Saul Steinberg

A number of poker-faced Santa Claus figures appear in designs of Saul Steinberg, whose drawings are familiar to New Yorker magazine readers. One of the Rumanian-born artist's cards is a Santa Claus cutout, a card opening to nine Santas, each with a different vibrantly colored costume with a gold paisley design, but all with expressionless faces.

A lithographed Currier and Ives print on satin fabric, "The Road in Winter," depicts two 19th century Easterners in a horse drawn sleigh whipping across a winter landscape.

T. Hee cleverly has portrayed modern pastime pursuits in greeting card form. One, in shades of red-orange and lavender, has a group of jazz cats furiously tooting with Santa keeping the beat at the drums. The message: "A cool Yule

Long, Slim Cards Characterize many holiday greetings. A modern design effect is achieved with the three green candles with gold flames on the white parchment paper. A print design background was used for "Noel" greetings on the small card. Typical of many cards is the bundled little man in the snowstorm. A furry fabric has been added for the cap tassel. The Santa and angel card in the lower right corner is an imported West German greeting.

Foreign Language Cards are available in many designs. Poinsettia leaves decorate the Polish greetings, while a ski scene is used in the Scandinavian card. The German card is typical, with its abundance of glitter and ornateness.

Christmas Cards Have Boomed Into Gigantic Industry

Bold Color Use, Design Simplicity Mark All; Beginnings in 1843

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Since its origin in 1843 when John Colcott Horsley, an English artist, was commissioned to pen the first holiday message of goodwill, the Christmas card tradition has blossomed into a mammoth industry. Although designs and color schemes vary from year to year, the cards remain a symbol of love and fellowship.

This year's collection is characterized by bold use of color, simplicity in interpretation of the Christmas message and a fusion of traditionalism and modernism in design.

Religious Themes

Metallic sculpture, a new treatment of gleaming foil, results in a third dimensional appearance with the design embossed on the foil material. One card, with the additional elegance of a gold foil lined envelope, has a red and gold evergreen design embossed on the card.

Religious themes dominate much of the assortment. The traditional symbol of the Three Wise Men is transformed into a modern design on one card with three crowns cut from gold paper and placed against a black background.

Clear, brilliant colorings are seen in a number of cards with stained glass window effects. Raised black lines add to the illusion. Muted color shadings are used in other religious scenes to convey a spiritual message.

Several card publishing houses have used reproductions of still life paintings, and a frantic first 2 U." On another with a fairway motif, he paints St. Nick's face on a golf ball.

Since cold, wintry landscapes are not characteristic of Christmas everywhere, Ralph Hulett has designed a card for those celebrating the holiday under sunny skies.

Santa, in a red bathing costume and floppy straw hat, is seated with two sophisticated reindeers, one with a cigarette holder, at an outdoor table. The three are leisurely sipping from a watermelon half. In the background sailboats drift on a tranquil lake.

Studio cards with their sly cynicisms become more abundant each year. Although similar messages to those for other occasions are included, the witticisms are generally softer and in keeping with the holiday spirit.

One "gloomy guy" in shabby dress stands miserably alone on the front of a card, printed in black and white. His message on the inside: "Joy to the world."

A sad looking gremlin is perched on the front of another card dejectedly holding a banner proclaiming, "yea." Inside is the message: "Hope your holiday is filled with merriment."

Less subtle are the types including a splattered, roughly drawn design with the announcement: "If you think this Christmas card looks cheap, you should see the ones I send people I don't like."

Also Imports

Another with a couple in luxurious dress, the man in a tuxedo and the woman swathed in furs, sings out, "Don we now our gay apparel." Inside, clad only in barrels, the couple mourns, "Next week it will be a barrel."

A matron costumed in red with pursed lips on one card says, "I had a sweet little Christmas gift for you... but the floor walker made me put it back, so Merry Christmas." Another charges "Don't stand there, deck those halls!"

Several Fox Cities card shops have a wide selection of imported cards from West Germany, Sweden, Belgium, Holland and Italy. Photographs of ski scenes are typical in the Scandinavian group, while the German cards are ornate, decorated with sparkling glitter. Foreign language carols, "Just little ol' me in the spirit of things, wishing you the gayest of holiday flings."

Cane Decorations Can be Made Easily

Traditional red and white Christmas canes, suitable for lapel decorations, place cards or for decorating packages, are simple to make from pipe cleaners and red and white rick rack tape.

Simply interlock a strip of red and a strip of white rick rack around pipe cleaner. Bend into shape when the cleaner has been covered. Stitch the ends under and finish the cane by adding a small green bow.

Dramatize Yule Decor With Glitter

to tamper with West Berlin's status as a free city.

The Russians put their proposal on a take it or leave it basis.

"If this proposal is not acceptable to the governments of the three western powers," they said, "the government of the U.S.S.R. emphasizes there is no topic left for discussion of the Berlin issue by the former occupying powers."

In a companion note the Kremlin informed the East German regime of its proposal and said its planned measures would be taken in the 6-month period "so that the western powers can adjust themselves correspondingly to the change in the situation."

The note to the United States repeated previous charges that West Berlin is being used as a bridgehead for subversion against the Soviet government.

The Soviet note denied emphatically that its proposals involved any desire for the communist annexation of West Berlin.

"The Soviet Union does not aspire to any conquest," said the note. "The only thing it wishes is to put an end to an abnormal and dangerous situation which came into being transport from West Berlin to West Germany as carried out by the United States, Britain and France."

It added that such a period of time is regarded as sufficient to provide a sound basis for a solution to the question arising from the changed situation in West Berlin.

The Soviet government in its note to the United States said it "wishes the necessary changes in the situation in Berlin to come about in a quiet atmosphere without haste or unnecessary friction and with the maximum possible consideration for the interests of all parties concerned."

The fact that Khrushchev himself was conducting a news conference was the measure of importance the Soviet government attached to its proposals. Newsmen here recalled that this was the first time—certainly since he became premier—that Khrushchev had held a news conference.

The Soviet note warned that if no adequate agreement on West Berlin is reached within the 6-month period, "the Soviet Union will then carry out an agreement with the German democratic republic."

"It is understood in this connection," the note said, "that East Germany, as any other self-dependent state, should deal in full with questions pertaining to her territory and exercise her sovereignty over her land, waters and air space."

Some Snow Flurries are forecast for tonight for the lower Great Lakes with snow or sleet in the central plains, Oklahoma, Missouri and South Dakota. Showers are slated for Arizona and southern Utah, with rain in southern California. It will be generally fair elsewhere. It will continue cold in most of the east with some warming in Iowa, Missouri and Montana.

10 Degrees Above

Coldest Weather of Season Chills Area

The coldest reading of the season — 10 degrees above zero — was recorded at the Wisconsin - Michigan Power company weather station Wednesday night.

Indications are that this will be one of the coldest Thanksgiving holidays in recent years. The temperature at 8:30 a.m. had moved only one degree higher than the overnight low.

Forecasters say the cold air mass will hold over Wisconsin at least through tonight when readings again are expected to dip to a few degrees above the zero mark.

A slight warming trend could take place Friday but it will be short-lived. The extended forecast calls for readings 4 to 6 degrees below normal. Normal high in the north this time of year is 27 to 34 and 36 to 40 in the south. Normal lows range from near 12 north to the upper 20s extreme south. Forecasters see only minor precipitation during the next five days.

Skies over Appleton Wednesday night were clear and the strong daytime wind subsided as night fell.

A bright early morning sun did little to warm the frigid holiday.

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Madison — There will be curiosity about the reason why Gov.-Elect Gaylord Nelson in a speech after the election uncovered a proposal for a major departure in state policy that he never mentioned in the hundreds of speeches and press releases made during the six months of his drive for the governorship.

At Green Bay a few days ago Nelson surprised by suggesting that the state will be required to bond itself for financing of a highway improvement program of the pace that today's traffic and prospective traffic require, in spite of the fact that current highway tax revenues are higher by a considerable margin than ever before in history.

It could scarcely have been an impetuous remark. A man preparing to enter the high office of governor guards against saying something he hasn't thought over pretty carefully. Yet as a policy proposition, it is perhaps as important as anything he has committed to the public ear during his career.

REASONS
Among the reasons may be the realization that joining the promise of a vast highway works program with his earlier proposition to bond for state institutions will strengthen the appeal of the latter considerably.

There is no more powerful group interest in Wisconsin than that which is represented in the building, maintenance and management of the vast public roads program. It dwarfs for example the punch of that more amorphous group that might be concerned about straight out bonding of the state for state colleges and university building, as an alternative to the building corporation device the Republican administration conceived as a way to circumvent the ancient debt prohibition of the state constitution.

Nelson could probably count on the backing of a few teachers, a few academic critics of the present building corporation device, and perhaps some far-seeing liberals who would recognize in the breaching of the constitutional debt clause for building a precedent for further bonding at another time for some of their favorite projects, including public power development.

But it would scarcely be enough. An alliance with the powerful highway industry in all of its ramifications, however, would bring elements ever to come from His holy lips.

May He forgive us our sins of ingratitude and lead us to keep God in His proper first place this Thanksgiving.
H. E. Simon
Appleton

On this whole matter the American Society of Public Administration takes a middle of the road view. It does not think downtown can win back all motorists from shopping centers, but it will continue to prosper by serving those who remain in the city, those who drive in from the trade areas and by its appeal to pedestrians.

It's an important discussion and only time will bring the final answer. But downtown areas can prolong their lives by facing the situation, working aggressively to relieve traffic and other impediments, and by generally remaining alert to changing conditions.

President's View on Deficit Spending Hazy During Campaign

From the New York Times

In the course of a news conference President Eisenhower said:

"For six solid years I have preached exactly what I preached in this campaign. You will remember in 1952 I was talking about unnecessary spending, believing that the national debt had gotten to the point where it was going to be too hard to carry. We have got a problem that falls on our economy of such kind, such an intensity that all of us have got to wake up to this thing."

As a statement of sound policy Mr. Eisenhower's observations here are hardly open to serious question. Moreover, last winter when a good many spending proposals were put forward that the President regarded as excessive or ill-conceived he showed a great deal of courage in standing firmly against them. This much should be set down to his personal credit.

Perhaps if he had been able to convince the voters of the country that the Democratic party, or "the radical wing" of that party, had a political monopoly, or semi-monopoly, on excessive spending the results might have been different. But that is a big "perhaps." In the first place, though Mr. Eisenhower may have been convinced that this was the case, he offered no documentary support tending to disabuse the country of its general impression that Republicans and Democrats, faced with a recession and approaching elections, were vying for popularity by supporting spending proposals on every hand.

Topping these considerations, however, was the fact that during the closing weeks of the campaign the President seriously compromised the soundness of his principles on deficit spending and inflation through statements that, however carefully they were studied, seemed to put him in the position of playing both sides of the street.

He set the pattern for this new and puzzling posture at Chicago two weeks ago, when he declared that the country had achieved recovery without resorting to the "massive public works" and "avalanche of public spending" for which the "radical wing" of the Democratic party had clamored last winter. It is hardly surprising that the voters, who had seen a prospective balanced cash budget degenerate in the short space of a few months into a budget with a $13 billion deficit, failed to share the President's enthusiasm on that occasion and that they found strangely incongruous his observation that the encouraging improvement in business was "firmly anchored to a fiscal policy that is sane, sensible and trustworthy."

Are You Giving Thanks To God on This Day?

Editor, Post-Crescent:

We are about to join our fellow Americans throughout the land in celebrating Thanksgiving. There's been the usual pre-Thanksgiving activity — the rush in the stores as people buy Thanksgiving fowl and other holiday foods, the rush of last minute preparations for the holiday visit, maybe the rush of dad and brother to northern Wisconsin or Upper Michigan to get one more shot at that elusive buck.

And in the midst of these louder and more noticeable preparations there is another, that quiet preparation of churches for Thanksgiving services.

Comes now Thanksgiving day — with its visiting, its food-laden tables, its share of stomach aches, and hangovers, and accidents — also quietly with its opportunity for people to do what the holiday's name declares: Give thanks to God.

It seems so unnecessary to point out that a Thanksgiving without the giving of thanks to God must surely be an awful mockery to the Giver of every good and perfect gift. It would seem simply natural that we of Appleton, at least those of us who call ourselves Christians (and certainly almost all of us do) would flock to our churches and crowd our Thanksgiving services, as we "enter into His Courts with praise."

Long ago Jesus gave a wonderful gift of healing to ten lepers. Only one returned to worship Him and to give thanks.

"Were there not ten cleansed? Where are the nine?" cried Jesus in one of the most heart-rending statements ever to come from His holy lips.

Looking Backward

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Nov. 29, 1879.

The heavy rain of the night previous rendered Thanksgiving Day a very disagreeable one — dark, damp and uncomfortable.

The attendance at the different churches was very light. Union services of the Methodists, Congregational and Baptist churches were held at the M. E. Church. Appropriate services were held in the Episcopal, Presbyterian, Lutheran and Catholic churches.

The streets were literally deserted — but few persons to be seen out.

There were the usual assemblages around the well-spread tables "at home" where sociability and good cheer made all bright and happy within, despite the ill-tempered weather outside.

For Us, Plenty; For Others, Dreams

Lawrence Vambe, a journalist from Rhodesia, after visiting the United States wrote the following:

I do not think the average American appreciates the fact that he is enjoying a standard of living which he and he alone in this world is enjoying, and that the vast masses of the people of Africa are living in grinding poverty and hunger. I never knew that the average American had so much food—food to throw away—an unnecessary amount of clothes, houses that pass for dreams in Africa, automobiles and other material possessions, which most of my people can never hope to have. When I saw American men and women eating those huge meals, or sailing away in big powerful cars, or watching TV, or discussing their children's progress at college, I wondered whether they realized that individual Africans, who had applied themselves 10, 20, 50 times more, had none of these things. I wished there was something I could do to convince the Americans, young and old, that they should go down on their knees every day and thank God for what they have! I am not saying that they do not deserve the things they have; they do, because they have worked hard for them. But I say that in Africa even the hardest toil brings little return, or none at all.

It is interesting that Thanksgiving, the only widely-observed religious holiday that originated in America, should have been started by a people who were to have more to be thankful for — in a material sense anyway — than any other people on earth. In that sense it is perhaps our most important holiday, for without this annual reminder that the bounty we enjoy is ours only through the grace of God, we Americans might well have become the most self-satisfied, complacent and arrogant people in history.

The difficulty in being truly thankful does not relate so much to those things which even we still recognize as luxuries — the new car, the pleasant home, the well-stocked larder — but rather to those things we regard as ordinary and naturally ours. How difficult it is, for example, to be genuinely thankful for the fact that one has all one's limbs, or that our homes have not been destroyed by war, or that our children's bellies are not bloated by starvation, or that some loved one is not rotting in the cell of a political prison! When we say our prayers of thanksgiving how many of us really feel gratitude for the clothes that are on our backs, for the roofs over our heads, for such simple things as children's voices in the yard, the handshake of a friend, the beauty of a wildflower touched by morning's first light?

In commenting on world and national affairs in these columns we have sometimes wondered if we Americans have retained enough of the humility — from which springs thankfulness — of our forefathers to really use to their best effectiveness the wonderful tools the Creator has put in our hands. We sometimes wonder if we might not better understand the true spirit of Thanksgiving were we to sit down not to a table groaning with plenty, but to a crust of bread, and then humbly give thanks for our blessings.

Inflation, Our Greatest Problem

Bernard Baruch, who is 88 years old and very wise, says he is shocked by the American public's seeming apathy toward issues of grave national importance. While our "nothing can be done" philosophy is a real threat to the nation, "down deep in our hearts we know how to cope with inflation, how to assure our security, how to overcome all other dilemmas that may beset us," Baruch says.

While Baruch doesn't go into detail about a cure, Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia recently expressed some thoughts on the subject in an article published by the Reader's Digest. Sen. Byrd is 71 years old and he has had vast experience in government finances and, no doubt, Baruch would agree with what he says.

Sen. Byrd says that inflation comes about through the manufacture of money. "There are several ways, he says, which we have been manufacturing it. 'I wish to concentrate on just one which seems to me to be the most important,' he says, and continues:

When the government spends more than it collects in taxes, the difference constitutes a deficit. How does the government pay for this deficit spending? It sells its IOUs—notes, certificates, bills, etc.—to the banks. The banks pay for them by putting a deposit credit on their books for the amount of the government IOUs, and the government can then draw checks against this deposit to make its own payments. In this way bank deposit money is created. More dollars are in effect manufactured. This is what is meant by deficit financing.

Sen. Byrd is of the opinion that federal deficit spending has been the greatest single factor in the cheapening of the value of our money. That it is a means of "manufacturing" money is plain enough and no doubt it was the chief factor in increasing our total money supply from $36 billion at the end of 1939 to $135 billion in April, 1958, which is a jump of 275 per cent. In the same period the rate of production of industrial goods increased by only 119 per cent, Sen. Byrd says; he adds that during the same time the cost of living went up 108 per cent.

To cure this condition Sen. Byrd says we should balance the federal budget and assure the people that it will stay balanced except in extreme emergencies. We will never halt inflation until we do this, he claims. He points out that President Eisenhower made a fine start in 1953 in seeking to balance the budget although he was confronted with President Truman's Korean war budget prepared for the fiscal year 1954 of $87.6 billions. He succeeded in reducing it to $67.8 billions. Then, Byrd points out, he did an even better job in 1955 when he reduced the expenditure to $64.6 billions, approaching his announced goal of a $60 billion budget.

Sen. Byrd then notes that there was a change in 1956 when the budget was increased by $2 billions and again in fiscal 1957 when it was increased $3.8 billions. Finally, in fiscal 1958, there was proposed still another increase of $3.6 billions. Thus, he says, there was an increase of $9.4 billions over the 1955 budget. Then, during the past January, the budget for fiscal 1959 was submitted which came to $76.6 billions or $12 billions more than for 1955. On June 30 last, the deficit for the fiscal year 1958 was almost $3 billions and the prospective deficit for 1959 is estimated at $12 billions. The inflationary effect of these deficits is all too plain.

Sen. Byrd points out that during the past 27 years we have had 22 deficits and now we have two more in prospect. Those who favor deficits as anti-recessionary measures contend that it will be "temporary" but, the senator points out, there is no such thing as temporary large-scale deficit financing. We know, he says, from 28 years experience that deficit spending is not turned off and on as if controlled by a spigot. If the 1959 deficit is as large as is now clearly indicated, federal deficits will continue as long as anyone can foresee.

Sen. Byrd has mentioned several things we should do to end this inflationary climb. First, eliminate pump-priming public works. He thinks it is a mistaken belief that they create employment of any value to the nation in a recession, for they nearly always fail to get underway until after recovery has already started.

He suggests we stop launching new spending programs such as federal aid to school buildings, the crash highway building appropriations and nearly all state aid programs. Such programs, once started, are practically never stopped. He points out that where we had 18 such programs in 1934 costing a total of $126 millions, today we have 57 programs costing more than $4 billions.

He also thinks we should try to halt the constant expansion of established spending programs and he suggests that the history of our roads, housing and farm programs as well as aid to veterans should be sufficient warning. He mentions the "emergency" programs in foreign aid. He says when the Marshall plan was adopted President Truman gave solemn assurance to the American people that it was an emergency plan limited to four years at a cost of $15 billions. But, he adds, such aid has already run for 11 years. Gross expenditures have totaled more than $75 billions including loans, grants and the use of foreign currencies. Of this, he points out, only $22.5 billions have been spent in direct military assistance while $52.5 billions have been spent for economic aid.

Even defense spending should be reviewed occasionally for efficiency and to make sure every dollar counts, Sen. Byrd warns. Finally he says, there is hardly any agency of government that cannot reduce administrative or so-called overhead expenditures by 5 or 10 per cent and still function effectively. This is a broad and fertile field for reduction, he says, since we have 2.4 million regular federal employees.

As Baruch said, we know what to do to handle this most pressing problem but as Sen. Byrd makes clear, the cure is a very difficult one. It calls for sacrifice and character and honesty, not only in our federal officials but in our people as well. The real test of our national ability and in fact in our right to self-government will be made in the handling of this problem in the months and years ahead.

Sen. Johnson Shows Virtues

From The Atlanta, Ga., Constitution

By virtue of the Democratic landslide in the congressional elections, Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas as majority leader in the U. S. Senate holds responsibilities exceeded only by the President and perhaps one or two others in the national government.

In the past Sen. Johnson has demonstrated an ability to rise above partisanship in supporting measures in the best interests of the nation.

Recently, before a United Nations committee studying the outer space problem, the Texan continued to show his sense of responsibility. Appearing at the request of President Eisenhower, he told the committee not to mistake "the essential unity of the American people." He reminded its members that United States' outer space proposals have the backing of both parties as well as that of the President.

Warm Hands, Warm Hearts With Gloves

Cold hands, goes the old proverb, indicates a warm heart. But gifts of warm and good looking gloves will warm many more hearts than will proverbs.

Long a traditional Christmas gift, gloves will be more acceptable than ever this year because of their excellent styling and practical new features.

In both dress-and sports-type gloves, there is a great deal more emphasis on decorative stitching. It is naturally more restrained in the dresser gloves, but the stitches are as bold as those found in custom-crafted saddlery in the rugged leathers planned for wear with tweeds.

Give mochas, suedes, cape-skin and chambray for wear with your man's business clothes. Select grays for wear with blue, gray and black; browns and tans for use with greens and browns.

Color goes all out in sports gloves with knits in brilliant sweater shades, some with ski sweater patterns. Double gloves—leathers with detachable wool liners—can be worn separately or together.

Late model exposure meters are a welcome gift for camera owners.

Handsome slide projectors are popular with the many camera fans. The new models are the last word in easy-to-handle units.

Post Office Prepared to Handle Annual Rush of Yule Cards, Packages

Speed is of the essence if post office patrons want their Christmas cards and parcels to reach the proper destination on time, Postmaster Francis Sumnicht says.

Sumnicht, of course, suggests mailing cards and parcels early. Christmas is a little over a month away and the post office is ready to insure delivery of all Christmas packages and cards by Dec.

25. But cooperation of everyone is required.

Check Christmas card lists carefully and make sure each address includes the full name, street number, city, zone and state, Sumnicht Local Delivery," and "For Out of Town Delivery," can from the post office telling about packaging and wrapping parcels for mailing. Another pamphlet will give full details on domestic postage rates and fees. Stock up oned in any other position can-stamps rather than purchasing two or three at a time. People can hurry arrival of Christmas cards by sorting and typing them in two bundles, one for local and the other for out-of-town deliveries, with all addresses facing full in the same direction. Free labels reading "For Local Delivery" and "For Out of Town Delivery," can be obtained at the post office. It is important that stamps be placed in the upper right corner of envelopes, Sumnicht says. Stamps placed in any other position cannot be machine - cancelled, thus slowing up work of postal employees and delaying delivery.

Bundles of cards can be handed in at the parcel post window, instead of being dropped in the mail slot. The postmaster suggests that patrons leave the bundles tied. Those with many cards to mail can ease the postal workers' jobs by bringing the cards to the post office, rather than stuffing them in a corner mail box.

A small investment in heavy wrapping paper, sturdy em-p- is authorized for cards mailed at the third class 3-cent rate.

Cards smaller than three by four inches, or of any odd age. Cards with glass, tinsel or any other decoration also must carry 4-cent postage, he said.

Regulations on mailing packages vary according to class of post office, Sumnicht said, but postmasters will explain the rules to people who have questions. Inquiring ahead of time can eliminate delay, he noted. Liquor, matches and lighter fluid cannot be mailed.

Because of distance and frequent handling, parcels must be wrapped in strong containers and tied as well as taped, out of a tall cardboard box covered with red crepe paper in a manner to resemble bricks. The top can be decorated with cotton batten sprinkled with artificial snow.

It is suggested that the chimney be erected about a week before Christmas so that visiting friends can drop gifts into it when they call.

The chimney is a nice way of delivering gifts to an ill or shut-in person.

A placard should be placed across the face of the chimney warning, "Do not unload until Christmas."

Santa Chimney Can Take Place Of Yule Tree

In apartments too small for a Christmas tree the yuletide decor can be enlivened with a Santa Claus chimney. The chimney can be made.

Sumnicht said. Humidity sometimes loosens tape. A card with the return address should be placed inside the parcel to insure delivery in case the outside address comes off or becomes illegible.

Man Never Can Have Too Many Neckties

Among the reasons for the popularity of neckties are the facts that a man never has too many, they present no size problem and they are among the most personal gifts that can be offered, whether to a friend or to a close relative.

Just a little thought in the selection of gift ties will make them mementos of your thoughtfulness as well as a testament to your good taste. The first thing to remember is that many of the old ideas about the selection of gift ties no longer apply. Young men do not necessarily like bright neckwear, nor do more mature men unanimously go for the subdued type of four-in-hand.

There are even divisions of tastes within the several groups of dressers which can be taken down into three major categories — namely, the average business or professional man, the Ivy league type, and the fashion leaders who like to be "first."

The average business or professional man is apt to vary his selection of neckwear. He will have both subdued and bright ties that he will wear according to his mood or his outfit. He will go for both traditional fabrics, colors and designs as well as some of the more modern and imaginative motifs.

Ivy fans, who now range from nine to 90, are strong for the traditional ties. These fellows dote on the rep stripe in everything from the regimental colorings to the newer multi-hued creations that combine as many as five colors.

The Ivy man also favors the subtle challis wool ties. These carry small printed figures in either the paisley-type, geometrical designs, or sporting themes.

Another Ivy favorite are the deep-toned madder foulards. These have a soft dusty tone of red, green, brown and blue accented by golds, yellows and touches of other bright shades. These fellows also like the solid colored knits in both dark and medium shades. And many Ivy enthusiasts like the square-end novelty prints that are among the most advanced styles.

Big Prints

Fashion leaders will be interested in the newly revived big print designs. Some of these are enlargements of the traditional paisleys while others have floral motifs and abstract designs eminently suitable for the man with more advanced taste.

These men also like the luxurious woven grenadine ties with their almost lacey weaves. Satins, brocades and other silks in both smooth and textured weaves hit the spot here, too.

Here are a few hints to remember when shopping for gift ties:

Browns and greens look best on men of ruddy complexion. Red is the color most generally liked by men, but in most cases they prefer partly red or red-accented rather than all-red ties. Men with gray hair look best in the warmer tones of neckwear, while blue ties or ties whose basic color is blue complement men with blue eyes.

For an off-beat gift idea in the neckwear field, give the one you have an mind a formal set of matching bow tie and cummerbund to wear with his tuxedo. These come in a tremendously wide assortment of fabrics and colors as well as the traditional midnight blues and blacks.

'Purr-fection' Gifts Available For Family Cat

The family cat wants to be remembered at Christmas too, and specialty shops and pet stores offer a variety of gifts to please the most discriminating feline tastes.

A soft carpet features a zipper closing to place fresh catnip inside. It makes a comfortable kitty bed and the pet's favorite place to curl up.

Personalized meal mats can be ordered with the kitten's name imprinted. A chemical preparation which repels animals from furniture will be appreciated by the kitty's family.

Cats will discover purr-fection in a little cat-nip toy attached to a fishing line suspended from a pole. Families will laugh with delight and have as much fun watching as the kitten will have chasing the mouse that constantly eludes it.

Evergreen Cutting Is Extensive Industry

Conservation Department Issues 1,400 Licenses a Year for Tree Harvesting

BY LETTIE RITCHIE

Royalton — The cutting of evergreens for Christmas has become a burgeoning industry in Wisconsin where these trees once were merely an added obstacle to the settling of the land.

The state conservation department issues annually from 1,300 to 1,400 licenses to Christmas tree dealers. Although there are no statistics on the total number of trees cut, shipped out of the state or used here, it has been estimated the state harvests some 2.5 million trees a year. Shipping tags are furnished with each license and additional tags are available at an additional fee. Licenses are obtainable from agencies in several counties other than the conservation department in Madison. In Waupaca county they are available from the game warden.

Gifts of Less Than 6

The state does allow the cutting and shipping as gifts of not more than six trees, but they are subject to inspection.

The law protects all evergreen trees and prohibits the cutting of trees or any part of a tree without the written consent of the owner whether the land is privately or publicly owned.

The prevention of indiscriminate cutting is the purpose of the law.

For 25 years reforestation has been practiced and some 3,300 communities in 47 states are promoting the practice.

Leader in Acreage

Wisconsin is the leader in community forest acreage.

There are 290 school forests in the state and the Trees of Tomorrow, Inc., is attempting to bring back the appearance of the virgin stands that covered the state 100 years ago.

Waupaca county has a forest in the town of Fremont. It acquired 120 acres by tax deed and 80 acres by purchase. Scotch pine was planted in what was mostly unproductive waste lands.

However, the stand was attacked by disease and in the winter of 1947-48, private firms were sold the trees and reforestation with other evergreens was carried out.

Fashion-Conscious Little Girls Will love this doll available with blonde, black, brown or red hair and with a variety of costumes for every occasion. Included are a bridal dress, stewardess uniform, sports outfit, several cocktail dresses and formals, a satin dinner dress with a mink cape and a negligee ensemble.

Life-Like

Christmas Means New Doll to Most 'Little Mothers' on Santa's List

Christmas is always a long-anticipated, glittering day for children. To little girls, more often than not, it means becoming the mother of a brand, new doll. And this year's dolls are so pretty and life-like they are almost as much fun to shop for as they are for little ladies to play with.

One toy manufacturer features a 10-inch doll available with blonde, red, black or brown hair and clothed only in a dainty set of underthings. A whole wardrobe of clothes, which might be found on a larger scale in the most up-to-date dress shops, is available to fit the doll.

Thumb-Sucker
Costumes include a mauve satin cocktail dress topped with a mink stole, a lacy negligee, ensemble, a stewardess uniform, a suburban outfit featuring a car coat with matching slacks, a formal dress, a matching coat and hat with accessories, and a dinner dress accented with a real mink hat and muff.

A baby doll that sucks its thumb, cries and nods its head like a real infant is being displayed in Fox Cities stores. It is bundled in a fuzzy, pink blanket and is made of a soft, unbreakable vinyl plastic.

A Baby Doll That is almost real—it cries, nods its head, sucks its thumb and performs any number of actions like a real infant, is shown by a sales clerk. The doll is snugly wrapped in a soft blanket and little girls especially love to care for the helpless baby doll.

Real tears can be shed by another baby doll which comes with a sunsuit outfit, a ruffled dress and a package of locally-produced paper tissue to dry her tears. Other dolls have real hair that can be washed and set with its own wave-setting solution.

Little mothers will like some of the doll accessories being shown on Christmas shelves. There is a doll carrying case with a clear plastic top so little girls can keep watch on their charges, a steamer trunk is decorated with travel stickers from Paris, Rome, London and other far-off places.

Laundry Kit

A laundry kit with diapers, cotton-tipped sticks, clothespins and a diaper pail is a must for a little girl who takes care of a baby doll. Feeding

Many Hues Add Interest To Footwear

Jewel-Toned Leather Shoes Blend or Contrast With Outfit

Parties are fun — whether you are entertaining or being entertained — and more than half the fun is getting dressed up. A high point of the current party season are the beautiful jewel-toned leather shoes — which are high of heel and pointed of toe.

For vibrant-hued dresses there are shoes of leather hues that can either blend exactly with your dress or give added excitement by introducing a new color. There are shoes of glaucous smooth leather with a jewel-like brilliance to wear with your satins, chiffons and luxury silks. There are soft and glossy suedes to go with your velvets and tissue wools. And elegant gold leather for your gold brocades... some with rhinestone bracelets for straps.

Shape of Shoe
There are leather shoes in cyclamen pink to wear with royal purple, and others in pale lilac to wear with raisin-toned satin. There are leathers in a hundred colors — sharp lime green, American beauty red, and rich garnet.

sets with formula bottles, spoons and baby food also are necessities.

For older youngsters who haven't yet outgrown their love for dolls (and what girl ever does!) there is a wide selection of beautifully gowned large dolls. Most have fluffy hair and long, fluttering eyelashes. Made from vinyl plastic, they are washable and withstand hard wear and tear. Dolls are dressed in everything from sun suits to long, formal gowns and should delight any little girl on the Christmas list.

to name but a few — that exactly match your gown.

The shape of the shoe can be the narrow patrician pump with elongated point and a thin, straight heel up to three inches and a little bit over in height. Or it can be the wider empire pump with a curvy low heel.

At-home fashions are equally elegant. High in favor is the spire-heeled mule that encloses the whole front part of the foot and rises up to a point over the instep. It's wonderful in slinky black smooth leather with your tight black pants, and in gold leather with your gold brocade pants or hostess skirt.

There are also many imaginative styles in low-heeled at-home shoes. One flat sandal especially for Christmas has bright green leather sole and insole and red leather thong. Another sandal in red suede leather has a gold leather instep strap and a leather ring for the toe that's

'Tom Dooley' Still Rates As Fox Cities' Top Tune

No. 1 for Second Week Here, Hits First Place in Nation This Week

"Tom Dooley," the nation's No. 1 tune, continues to live in the Fox Cities. For the second week the sad ballad sung by the Kingston Trio remains in the top spot. "Lonesome Town," another ballad, is No. 2 this week. "Problems" and "I Got Stung" have moved up respectively one notch.

There is one new tune in the top 10 this week. It's "Heartbeat" by Buddy Holly, the sixth ranking tune. Here's the top 10:

1. "Tom Dooley" by the Kingston Trio.
2. "Lonesome Town" by Ricky Nelson.
3. "Beep Beep" by the Playmates.
4. "It's Only Make Believe" by Conway Twitty.
5. "To Know Him Is to Love Him" by the Teddy Bears.
6. "Heartbeat" by Buddy Holly.
7. "Problems" by the Every Brothers.
8. "I Got Stung" by Elvis Presley.
9. "Bimbo" by Jimmie Rodgers.
10. "Letter to an Angel" by Jimmie Clanton.

Nationally this week, "It's Only Make Believe" is in second place. Ten years ago "On a Slow Boat to China" was a top tune and five years ago "Many Times" was the favorite of many folks.

In the new tune spotlight for this week are the following: "Lucky Lady Bug" by Billie and Lillie, a top-notch novelty tune with cute words is based on the idea of good luck charms. A calypso, it's good for dancing as well as for listening. Well done little song with a good orchestral backing.

"Save My Soul" by Jack Scott is his latest addition to his parade of hits. There is a good beat in this rock and roll number with the flavor of an old time revival meeting.

New albums this week: "The Star Carol" by Tennessee Ernie Ford. Some of the traditional carols are sung with deep religious feeling. Just in time for the Christmas season it includes "Joy to the World," "Little Town of Bethlehem" and other familiar carols.

"Have Band, Will Travel" by Lester Lanin and orchestra is a nice group of happy old time revival meeting.

NBC-TV Star Steve Allen poses with his Vietnamese foster son and his own three sons as they look over a show script. Nguyen Van Thong, whom Allen supports through the Foster Parents plan, was flown to the United States to meet his foster family. The Allen boys are, left to right, Steve, Jr., Brian and David.

Teen's Idol Plays in 'Big Fisherman'

John Saxon Not Sold on Industry's Catering to Youth

Palm Springs, Calif. —

The bearded young man in the desert robes was neither an apparition nor a beatnik. He was John Saxon, the No. 1 film idol of the teenagers.

He is playing an Arabian prince in "The Big Fisherman," which is on location here, but John is strictly from Brooklyn. As for being a member of the beat generation, he says no. But he admits to a kinship with the beats.

"I know what they are after, and I feel a sympathy toward it," he said thoughtfully. "It's a search for an identity of your own, and every generation tries to find it."

Critical of Industry "In show business, I've seen it happen with bright young folk singers and comedians. Instead of trying to fight their way up through the established night clubs, they start with coffee houses and build their own audiences."

You'd think that a lad with John's enthusiastic following would have no career problems.

TV Isolation Booths Sold For Super Doll, Bath Houses

New York—

The 10-year-old daughter of Stanley Goldman, N.Y., is going to have the biggest doll house on the block. Her daddy bought her an isolation booth.

Goldman and Bernard Berg of River Edge, N.J., were announced as the buyers in an auction of two booths from the ABC-TV show "Who Do You Trust?"

Each paid $150. Goldman is going to convert his into a super doll house for his daughter. Berg will use his as a poolside bath house.

Became Dead Wood The booths are 4 by 4 by 8 feet, built of solid soundproofed timbers with glass doors and wall to wall carpeting.

Don Feddersen productions, producers of the show, used a newspaper advertising campaign to dispose of the booths, which became dead wood when the show's format was changed.

Dignity of suggestion for the booths' eventual use—and size of the offers—won out for Berg and Goldman.

Other offers came from: A mother — to isolate her young son, a trumpet player. A freight company—to shelter pier watchmen on frosty nights.

A pigeon fancier — to use while rounding up birds during the cold and rain. A funeral parlor—to use as a telephone booth.

A midtown bar—for solitary drinkers.

Fiorello LaGuardia Subject of Musical

New York — A musical based on colorful incidents in the life of New York's famous Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia is being prepared for Broadway.

Jerome Weidman, author of the best seller, "The Enemy Camp," is doing the song lyrics and script while Jerry Bock is doing the score.

The show, tentatively titled "Fiorello" is the second stage project inspired by the late mayor's peppy career. The other, "Comic Strip," was an off-Broadway production last season.

A Bright, Twinkling showcase of beautiful sweet-smelling Christmas gifts awaits the shopper. Rows of tiny ornaments set off a black vial of lipstick, left front. Behind is a shower kit in white plastic enclosing cologne, soap and body powder. Rear is a tiny Santa and chimney atop a lipstick tube. Also shown rear is two-toned green and gold foil wrapped cologne package. Fluffy plumes and small ornaments deck a bath oil bottle, center rear. At right rear is a smoked glass atomizer detailed with large gold

Some American Women Put On Airs With European Titles

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

New York — There are no titles of birth or aristocracy or nobility in the United States, perhaps only because they are forbidden by the Constitution.

Of course, plenty of American women have gone abroad and had them. Sokolsky serves married to various titled persons in foreign lands. While they are in this country, they may be addressed by their foreign status, but the title has no particular meaning in this country except as a courtesy.

Titles are on the wane, anyhow. Russia, Germany, Italy, the Austro-Hungarian empire and other places where once monarchs ruled in medieval splendor are now republics and ancient titles are no longer of any legitimacy in those countries. The British titles are, of course, legitimate and important. The British government awards titles for major achievements in every line of human endeavor. It is therefore not unusual in that country to find a member of the House of Lords wishing that he were a commoner with a good salary to boot.

Distinction Normal

Distinction by marriage is normal in the human race, most wives basking in their husband's success. However, a European title often does not indicate particular success, but rather descent from a very remote ancestor who did well for himself in the numerous enterprises available during feudalism, some of which are nowadays regarded as not permissible such as chopping off a head or putting poison in the soup for profit. If all of us got to looking into our ancestries, we might be not a little embarrassed. Certainly those who criticize Frank Costello or the gentlemen of the Apalachin mafia must not ever have a look at the house which gives them a grandiloquent name.

New York and Washington, each winter, fill with titled folks, most of whom are delightful people. They form a pleasant society of luncheons, dinners, flirtations and polite conversations. A few are very hard working diplomats. Some are married to American wives and not a few have difficulties arising therefrom.

In the current world, distinction seems to go only to the distinguished, particularly in the sciences and the arts and nobody worries much where anybody was born or from whom. Most of the rulers of the great and powerful nations in the year 1958 have no especially notable ancestors and their wives do not know how to curtsy or to be curtsied to. That makes it all very difficult.

The phonies are mostly Americans, that is, American women who got some kind of a title by marriage and cling to it grimly. The most favored title in this country is Missus, generally spelled Mrs., and remaining so unchanged until death do us part. It may be a very narrow-minded, provincial, even parochial attitude but it is as American as baked beans on Saturday night in New England.

I should imagine that Mrs.

Jewelry Makes Yule Sparkle

Many Cuff Links Available; Satisfy All Male Tastes

Is your man a jewel among men? If he is, give him a gift of jewelry this Christmas—a jewel box to help him keep his links, tie bars and accessories handy, or even a jewel box filled with good selection of handsome yet inexpensive masculine accessories.

No size problem here—cuff links fit the shirt regardless of size and tie bars or tie tacks hold the cravat regardless of shape.

He may like the stark simple modern designs in link and tie holder sets; he may date on free-form abstract models; or he may treasure the replicas of antique pieces that have been so skillfully reproduced this year. In any event, there are a multitude of ideas in the jewelry department from which you can make your choice.

Colorful stones and glowing pearls are also used to decorate some of the jewel sets.

Emily Post who knows about such things has somewhere written a decision as to whether American women, in their own country, are called upon to curtsy to ladies bearing foreign titles and under what circumstances. Curtsy-ing has become quite a business in New York and generally looks silly because to do it beautifully, one needs to be trained in childhood. The normal salutation hereabouts is a handshake which is tough on a lady if the man is indelicate.

The Wonderful Story of Christmas

Christmas Scenes Will be the theme of 4-H club floats in Saturday's Christmas opening parade down College avenue. This religious float won second place for the Friendly Neighbors 4-H club, Kaukauna, in the parade last year. As usual, Santa will make his appearance, also.

Annual Santa Claus Parade Saturday

Marks Start Of Retailers' Yule Season

Santa Claus returns to Appleton this year at 1:30 p.m. Saturday to kickoff the retail Christmas season.

He'll be greeted by eight county 4-H clubs and city and civic leaders at Lawrence college and will be paraded down College avenue to Memorial drive. Several thousand children are expected to be on hand.

Santa will make the parade in a horse-drawn sleigh atop a float, Robert W. Weyenber, general Christmas plans chairman, reported.

The eight 4-H clubs have designed floats along the "Christmas Scenes" theme and will enter them in the parade, competing for trophies.

Judges are unnamed, Arnold Selfert, chairman of a 5-member parade committee, said.

College avenue was decorated by Appleton Downtown Retailers association. Some 15 new figures for the lamp posts were erected last week.

Harold Steckling, chairman of a 4-man work committee, said. The city pays for electricity used.

Christmas music from atop the Aid Association for Lutherans building begins Friday night, the first of the retailers' officially designated Christmas shopping nights. The music will continue every night stores are open until Christmas.

Stores, said Giles Flanagan, association secretary, will be open nights on all Mondays, Thursdays and Fridays in December until Christmas and on Tuesday, Dec. 23.

Santa Claus will be available for parties and other events through the chamber of commerce office.

Fewer Hours

Meals are prepared in less than three hours a day, by today's homemakers in today's modern kitchens — compared to nine hours daily meal preparation time for yesteryear's homemakers.

Handkerchiefs Make Good Gifts For Men in Family

This year, as always, a gift of handkerchiefs makes an excellent Christmas remembrance. Here are a few pointers offered as an aid in selecting gifts of handkerchiefs for the men on your Yuletide list.

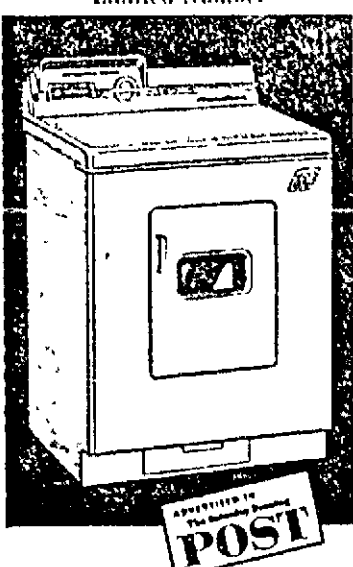

Like most other items of men's and boy's wear, handkerchiefs fall into dressy and sports categories. The dressiest are the ones used for formal and business occasions—fine linens, some with hand-rolled edges and hand-embroidered initials or monograms.

While formal wear handkerchiefs must be in pure white, those worn for business may be colored or white with colored borders.

Sportswear handkerchiefs are almost always colored and can be made of linen, cotton or silk. The newest of these come in oversize squares and carry sporting motif prints covering the entire area. Folded diagonally, these may be worn as neckerchiefs with open collar sport shirts.

Silk pocket squares have made a big comeback this year and their beautiful foul- and designs helps brighten up sports jackets as well as tweed and country suits.

On These Models—Just Keep Children Away From Setup

BY JACK GLASNER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The trouble with these plastic model kits is the children department that they're for get in your way something terrible.

I mean, when you get one of these planes just about done, who shows up but the kid. You'd think that just because the kits are in the toy department that they're for kids.

Well, I'm here to tell you they are not. I just finished one with thousands of pieces to put together. Man, I haven't touched a jig-saw puzzle since I discovered kits.

However, a word of warning. Build them late at night, after the kids are in bed. Also, hang them from the ceiling or put them on a high shelf. If the kids get near the models, they play with them. It's terrible.

Keep 'em Away

And building them — the trouble is that if you get wing just glued together, along comes Junior and picks it up. It just ruins the set and you have to do it over. And if you're painting a Spad or Spitfire, the kid'll thumbprint it all over the place.

Believe me, kids and models don't mix.

One of the companies making kits couldn't figure out why men buy them and build planes, ships, cars and all the rest. According to psychiatrists, men build the models because it's a change from the regular job, from TV and spectator sports, from specialized jobs which seldom permit use to see an initial idea through to completion. Also, say the head shrinkers, it makes us feel young again.

I dunno about all that, but you ought to see the 24 planes I've got hanging out of the reach of the small fry. For one thing, I won't have to paint the ceiling for a long time!

Works Director Against Buying Present Regional Plan Proposal

Says Too Much Money Will Go Toward Fact Gathering, Too Little to Applied Planning

He's all in favor of regional planning, but Director of Public Works Duszynski won't advise Appleton aldermen to spend money on the current proposal for development of a master plan.

In a line by line analysis of the proposal by Metropolitan Planners, Inc., Indianapolis, he cited for city and regional planning commission this week substantially the same objections he offered May 19 to basically the same proposal.

Generally, he said, his objection is that too much of the $72,000 total cost of the proposal, plus an enlarged local planning staff, will be spent gathering facts already at hand and too little on applied planning.

(Appleton would pay $17,110.80 a year for three years while the master plan was being drafted, with this year's $8,000 assessment going toward first year costs.)

Engineers to Meet After a lengthy discussion, Charles W. Wood, regional commission chairman, told city commissioners a meeting of all engineers of the 10 member municipalities will be called shortly to iron out available and what the commission wants, he said.

"Write your own specifications for a master plan instead of having the consultant do a sales job on you—and write the specifications with the accent on applied planning," he urged. "I can't imagine that the consultant doesn't want it this way. It would mean he's being told exactly what's expected of him and he won't have to guess at cost estimates for gathering material which he only suspects exists."

Change Membership? Hammond said the commission advisory committee composed of engineers for member municipalities met once, in November, 1957, and has never been asked for comment on the proposal.

This, plus a report that the only other contact with the commission's executive committee is a mailed copy of minutes, led Martin Unmuth, city commissioner, to suggest a revamping of executive committee membership.

Present executive committee members are all citizen members. They don't have prior knowledge of their municipality's planning problems nor a tie with their municipal governments, he said. Someone from the government, the mayor or engineer, ought to be on the committee, he said.

(Executive committee appointments are forbidden by commission bylaws for any municipal government official.)

In Attorney's Hands

Wood revealed that the contract, now in the hands of attorneys of member municipalities, provides for supervision of master plan work by the mayor, town chairman or village president or his delegate. It also provides for deletion of a maximum of $6,000 worth of projects. In case of controversy, it puts final decision in the hands of the commission chairman.

The contract will have to be signed by all 10 member municipalities, because the commission has no power to levy taxes or assessments against members and cannot commit tax money expenditures in the future.

Pass Resolutions Wood said a meeting of all attorneys will be called before the contract is presented to members for signing.

City commissioners recommended council approval of resolutions offered by the regional commission and calling for:

1. Change of the commission fiscal year to a calendar year basis. The commission can operate on its 1-year budget, set June, 1957, until the end of next year without change of staff, Wood said.

2. Payment of this year's $8,000 assessment now, with the understanding it applies toward first year master plan costs.

3. Hiring of Metropolitan Planners, with the condition the city approves the master plan proposal which is part of the contract after the upcoming meetings.

Coeds Report of Theft Confusing To Policeman

Urbana, Ill. — Two University of Illinois coeds called at the police station to report thefts of their purses.

It proved too much for Sgt. Al Konradt who listed compact, lipstick, small change, identification cards, glass cleaners, etc.

To fill out the list on the police blotter, he added: "And various other necessities of a woman's fancy."

Neenah Man Admits Hitting Alarm Box

Raymond Flieth, 51, 303 Gruenwald street, Neenah, has been identified by Appleton police as the driver of a car which knocked down a 2-inch post and fire alarm box, sending in a false alarm Sunday night.

Two witnesses saw Flieth's car drive over the curb and knock down the alarm box at E. Wisconsin avenue and N. Lave street. They wrote down the car's license number in the snow while waiting for police to arrive.

Flieth admitted hitting the post, but told police he didn't think he had damaged it. Fire department officials estimated the damage at $250.

Flieth was ordered to appear in municipal court Friday.

Children Today Prefer Information in Books

BY CLARA HUSSONG

Post-Crescent News Service

If you're one of the many parents, grandparents, aunts, uncles and others who will be buying books for children this Christmas, here is good advice from publishers, librarians and others who have been studying the books children like.

Modern children like the "fact" field, these want information more than they want entertainment.

Don't buy the book that appealed to you when you were a child—get him (or her) a well-illustrated volume on the ocean, archeology, insects and others who have photography or something like. Modern children like the "fact" field, these advisers tell us. Like that of a child's, children's reading tastes have been gradually swinging from fiction to non-fiction in the last 10 years.

Fiction and fantasy for both adults and children will always be popular, but the recent trend in reading is toward finding the answers to the "how" and "why" of the things in the world around us. Science and nature books have never been as popular as they are today.

These books are well-illustrated, often in color. They may not read any better than they did in the past, one reviewer of children's books says, but they look better. "The skilled artwork is generally better tied into the text, and better printed than it was in the days of the great illustrators."

Most of the new science and nature books are for children from the age of 10 or 12 and up, but there are some for younger ones too. These are usually called something like "The First Book of —"

One new science book, meant for junior and senior high school students, and even for adults, is "The World of Science," published by Simon and Schuster. This shows how scientists do their work in such fields as astronomy, geology, mathematics, chemistry, physics, biology and engineering.

Wisconsin Author

The book is illustrated with 265 colored pictures and diagrams. Text and pictures are meant to be a "look-over-the-shoulder" of scientists at work in laboratories or in the field. The author, Jane Werner Watson, is a former resident of Fond du Lac.

"Wild Treasure," by Adrien Stoutenburg and Laura Nelson Baker, is the story of David Douglas, explorer of the northwest for whom the Douglas fir was named. This is for junior high school age and up. For somewhat younger readers is "Andy's Wonderful Telescope," by G. Warren Schloat, Jr. Both of these books are published by Charles Scribner's Sons.

Among the Viking Press' juvenile books in the science and nature field are "Louis Agassiz," by Aylesa Forsee, the story of the naturalist who came to this country from Switzerland and "Satellite of the Sun," by Athelstan Spilhaus, an introduction to geophysics. These are for teenagers. For younger students is another Viking juvenile, "A Beaver's Story." If you've ever visited the other "zoo" near Winona, Minn., you may have met the author, Emiliers.

For Teenagers

Teenagers might be interested in such books as "The Nine Planets," by Branley (Crowell); "All About Famous Scientific Expeditions," by Holden (Random House); "Strange Plants and Their Ways," by Hutchins (Rand McNally); "Winter - Sleeping Wildlife," by Barker (Harpur); or "The Animals of Dr. Schweitzer," by Fritz (Cow-McCann).

First Thanksgiving

Plimoth Plantation Is Model Of Pilgrims' First Settlement

BY JOHN KNOX

Plymouth, Mass. — On a low hill near this ancient little town stands a rough, unpainted meeting house overlooking a huddle of four I-grim fathers, shoe buckled room huts near the sullen gray sea.

The walls are weathering to a dull gray and the sloping roots are thatched with bums of marsh reeds.

This is Plimoth Plantation, the beginning of a painstaking reproduction of the Pilgrims' town — the first settlement on the bleak, forbidding Massachusetts coast.

The cost of these meager houses would make the Pilgrims' fathers, shoe buckled curl. The plantation program would not know how death is starting with funds of $120,000 — a small sum these days.

It was from cramped houses such as these that the Pilgrims marched 337 years ago to celebrate the first Thanksgiving. There were only 50 of them.

The other half of that little New England winter, the colonists died by the dozens of exposure and malnutrition.

When that terrible winter was over, only 50 of the 102 Mayflower passengers were left to prepare for another. But the Pilgrims were a hardy breed, grimly willing to suffer and die for the right to worship as they pleased.

They sowed their seed — saved for spring by the triumph of iron wills over gnawing stomachs — and hunted and fished.

Had Feast

And the next fall, they dressed in their best and marched in procession to the meeting house to thank God for the fact that they were still alive — and free.

Then they settled down to a feast of the foods they had: corn, beans, and squash. They are found in this new land, inviting the round-eyed Indians to share their bounty.

The residents of this town of 20,000 will re-enact again this year that Thanksgiving procession of long ago — and the procession will show the visitor that his mind picture of Pilgrims dressed all in gray is not the true one.

Actually, the Pilgrims were a gaily colored band on that first Thanksgiving morning. The women wore white caps with blue, red, green or brown dresses. Deep yokes with bright-striped shoulder tabs framed their faces.

The men wore colorful tall hats with wide brims and bright buckles. Their trousers were varying colors and most coats were green or brown. The shoes were dressed with buckles.

Ornate Age

This was an ornate age in dress and the Pilgrims would have appeared quite drab in court company — but very gay in contrast to a present-day crowd.

The idea of re-creating the first Pilgrim village has been bouncing around for 100 years, but it did not become a reality until 13 years ago when members of the Pilgrim society gathered a nest egg of $20,000.

The Hornblower family gave land for the project. The gift stemmed from the excitement of a small boy years before when the great 300th anniversary of Thanksgiving was held in 1921.

President Harding came to Plymouth for the great event, and there was a parade and an impressive model of the Mayflower. Watching it all was a breathless youngster, Henry Hornblower II.

Hornblower decided then to make a career of preserving historical objects. He went into business instead, but kept a warm spot for the past. He is now governor of Plimoth Plantation.

A $100,000 gift this year from the Lilley Fund put new fire in the Plimoth project.

Meeting House

When the Pilgrims landed, they built the meeting house first. It served as a fort — with its old guns bristling at the sides — and as a common dormitory as well as for worship.

The present meeting house is an exact copy as are the four little homes. They are models of the Bradford, Brewster, Howland and Warren houses. Three more are being completed now.

The houses have one large room about 18 by 14 feet, with great square chimneys rising from fireplaces that stretch across the entire back wall. The floors are of wide boards. The nails are sunk into the rough wood and wooden caps are inserted into the holes to make the carpentry look as though wooden pins were used. The marsh reed thatching is 14 inches thick.

The plantation plans to furnish the houses with authentic antiques but furnishings then were scanty and it is likely reproductions will have to be used.

The Plimoth folks plan to erect an Indian village with a squarerofed lookout and a Plymouth's downtown business area.

Many Musical Toys Available

Automatic Drum Plays Rat-a-Tat Of March Rhythm

Musical toys have come up in the world these days to spell quality as well as hours of enjoyment for small fry.

There are some unusual ones in Fox Cities toy departments this year and the miracle of them is that they really play well. They are melodic, well-built and surprisingly low priced.

One of the cleverest is a big drum for a little boy or girl. It comes equipped with drum sticks but it also has a handle that turns at a touch to rap out an authentic rat-a-tat march rhythm. It's called an automatic drum.

Xylophone Music

For the bigger boy there is a set that will delight him. It's a big bass drum set with snare drums, cymbals, bells and triangle.

A xylophone that gives out with a tremolo effect is played

Mayflower II — a replica of the original ship — will be moored near the plantation. The plantation itself is two miles from the original Pilgrim landing. That area is now right in the heart of squarerofed lookout and a Plymouth's downtown business area.

An amusing set called tap-a-rub has eight colorful rubber bulbs on its 8-note keyboard. The bulb may be squeezed or tapped to play many a merry melody. # Integration Controversy At Stalemate

Pupil Assignment Law Gives Authority To School Board

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—There's a new "law of the land" today on the integration problems of public schools. Local school boards henceforth are authorized, as a result of a supreme court decision, to assign pupils to whatever schools they please without revealing any reasons for their action.

While the case concerned an Alabama law, it applies throughout the nation where ever states now may pass admission of new pupils upon "pupil assignment" laws. These statutes, however, will be held unconstitutional if they deny entry on account of race or color or are enforced as a part of a scheme of legislation that requires segregation.

The reason the "pupil assignment" law is held constitutional is because the denial or grant of the pupil's request is not based on any proved discrimination because of race or color.

This may mark a turning point in the whole controversy over integration. It could help solve the Virginia and Arkansas problems. In a sense, it is not a reversal by the supreme court of its historic decision of 1954 which said that classification by race was unconstitutional, but it is an affirmation of the principle that wherever there is exclusion or inclusion of a pupil in a particular school, it must be based on that individual's personal qualifications.

The Alabama law sets forth the basis on which the local school boards may act, as follows:

"In the assignment, transfer or continuance of pupils among and within the schools, or within the classroom and other facilities thereof, the following factors and the effect or results thereof shall be considered, with respect to the individual pupil, as well as other relevant matters: available room and teaching capacity in the various schools; the availability of transportation facilities; the effect of the establishment of new pupils upon the above-quoted paragraph relating to 'psychological qualification of the pupil for the type of teaching and association involved' and also to the sentences referring to the 'threat of friction or disorder among pupils or others' and 'breaches of the peace or ill-will or economic retaliation within the community,' as well as to the sentence referring to 'the maintenance or severance of established social and psychological relationships with other pupils and with teachers.'"

Object in Vain

The attorneys in the lower court proceeding in behalf of the four Negro children who had made application to enter a particular school objected in vain to the portions of the above-quoted paragraph relating to "psychological qualification of the pupil for the type of teaching and association involved" and also to the sentences referring to the "threat of friction or disorder among pupils or others" and "breaches of the peace or ill-will or economic retaliation within the community," as well as to the sentence referring to "the maintenance or severance of established social and psychological relationships with other pupils and with teachers."

The supreme court, in its brief order affirming the judgment of the lower court, did so "upon the limited grounds on which the district court rested its decision."

But the lower federal court had said frankly that it couldn't tell what reasons had influenced the school board and that the plaintiffs had not been able to prove "that they cannot attend the schools of their choice because of their race or color."

Large Loophole This gives the school boards quite a loophole and an opportunity for circumvention. It means that in some communities in the south local school boards will order "token" integration. In others, they will find it easy to ignore requests for transfer of certain white and colored pupils and will act as they please about "integration."

It may be doubted whether the supreme court did this deliberately. Rather it found itself caught with a statute that was so broad that it permitted almost any kind of action. It, therefore, upheld the lower court which had ruled that the law is constitutional "on its face." Certainly if the school boards cannot be held accountable for the way they

Madison Mayor Plans County Board Reform

Plan to Redistrict on Population Basis Applies Only to Dane at Present Time

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The city of Madison and its mayor will probably precipitate a legislative review of the adequacy of county government arrangements in areas with large cities and spreading urban populations.

Mayor Ivan Nestingen says he has drafted a plan for the reform of the Dane county board that will be presented to the new state legislature soon after it convenes in January.

He is organizing a broad-scale civic committee representing Madison metropolitan interests to back the proposition when it reaches the legislative halls.

Nesting says he proposes to introduce a reform bill that would, under present conditions, apply only to Dane county, of which the capital city of Madison is a part.

The reorganization bill would permit counties that have attained a population of 200,000 but less than 500,000 to reorganize their county boards to equalize the representation of the city and non-city areas of the counties.

Nesting said that as far as he knows other urban counties of the state have not yet reached the aggravated under-representation problem faced by Madison, and that Milwaukee county, the only one with more than 500,000 population, can be handled with special legislation because of its special character.

He indicated, however, that if other localities of the state wish to include their counties in the reorganization enabling act, he would not object.

Nesting, an active Democrat, is hopeful that the Madison handle student applications, the whole integration controversy has come to a kind of stalemate that might bring, for a time at least, a truce.

Incidentally, the record of the Little Rock school board, disclosed in court last September, shows conclusively that, had such a law been in effect in Arkansas without any other laws that involved segregation, the board could have failed to act on the applications of certain Negro pupils along with those of certain white pupils. There would have been no way to go behind the reasons for the "inaction" by the school board. "Pupil assignment" laws mean slow-moving, "token" integration based on local opinion and the whim of local school boards.

Going on a Trip? Check Your Luggage

Leather Goods
Real Luxury Item
For Travelling Man

It's the season for traveling — who can stand this Wisconsin weather all winter long?

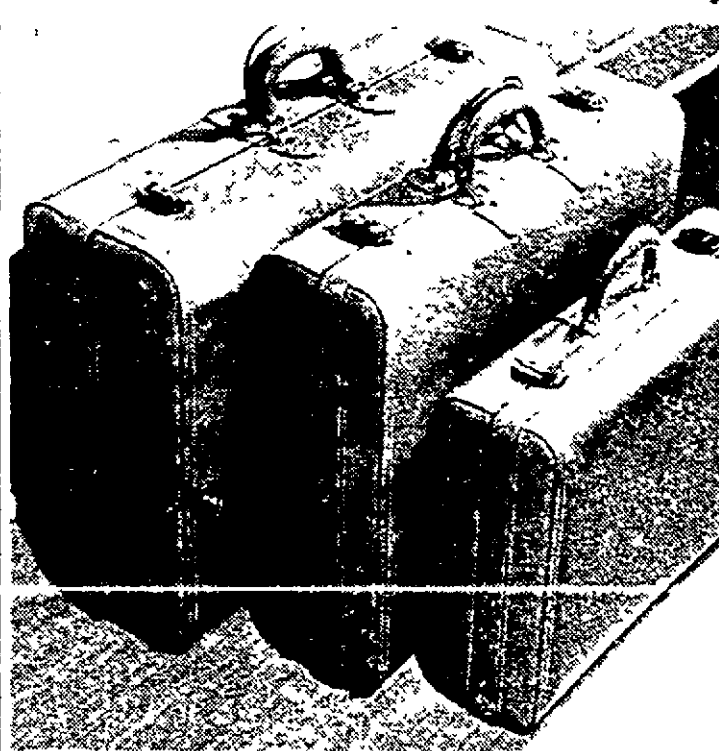

If you're a man, choosing what to travel with is simple — men's luggage isn't half as complicated as women's. Besides, it's fashionable for the male to have simple luggage.

So, the luxury of leather is always a safe bet and always high style. Light, natural-type tones have predominated for the last few years and promise to continue.

Airline Travel
For airline travel — notably hard on luggage — it might be more practical to investigate some of the new molded plastic and aluminum pieces. It sometimes causes luggage owners acute pain when their new leather bag comes through the claim window with a serious wound. The possibility of damage is less with plastics or aluminum, and they are lighter.

One of the newer gimmicks in luggage is the dustproof seal along the opening edge. Only one maker has the original trick, but many have tried to duplicate it, resulting in tighter seals and cleaner packing.

Modern men's luggage has come a long way from the cardboard and tin monstrosities of the past.

Mother Says Son Was Home On Day Bank Was Robbed

St. Paul, Minn. — A woman from Marinette, Wis., testified Tuesday that her son was in their hometown last July 18, the day a bank was robbed in St. Paul, 295 miles from Marinette.

Mrs. William Darland was the first defense witness in the U. S. District court trial of her son, Robert Leon Darland, 34.

Darland is charged with robbing the Hillcrest State bank of $3,059 at 1 p.m. on July 18.

In Room
Mrs. Darland testified she heard her son in his room in their farm house near Marinette at 5:30 a.m. that day and later saw him downtown.

She testified that a 9 a.m. she saw him leave a Marinette real estate office and go next door to a tavern. The mother said she did not see her son again that day.

Darland was identified as the bank robber Tuesday by a government witness, John R. Frenzel, a Minneapolis salesman.

At Desk
Frenzel said he was sitting at a desk of a bank officer when the robber approached the teller's cage.

Three bank employees earlier identified Darland as the robber.

Jean Pecotte, Menominee, Mich., had testified Monday that Darland telephoned her at her apartment early in the morning of July 19.

Miss Pecotte testified Darland told her:

"If anyone should ask you if I was here, say I was here between 11 and 1 o'clock."

Meeting Set On Changes to Bridge Plans

Empey, Works Board To Talk Dec. 16 of Closing 3 Streets

Changes in the College-Candee high bridge contract will be discussed by State Highway Engineer L. W. Empey and Appleton's board of public works Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 16.

Closing of Catherine street, Green Bay road and Alton court intersections with the north approach of the bridge is the main topic.

Whether to leave part of the north section of the present John street bridge, scheduled for demolition in the contract, for a truck turning area for Badger Plug company also will be discussed.

Contract Permits Changes
The state highway commission contract with Wunderlich Brothers and Wiesler Construction companies provides for work on a materials and time basis in areas where changes are made.

Closing of the intersections of the three streets would eliminate need for safety islands and narrow the roadway width on the north approach. It would improve safety, Empey has said.

Aldermen during an informal meeting Tuesday night said they favor closing off the intersections.

Grand Chute to Back Planners

Grand Chute will go along with the Fox Valley Regional Planning commission in hiring a consulting firm.

Town officials took the action Tuesday night after a meeting with commission officials.

The town at one time balked at the proposal to hire Metropolitan Planners, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind., insisting the commission take other bids.

The Indiana firm's bid was finally accepted.

Burglars Smash Door But Take Nothing

Burglars smashed a door to enter the Center Valley Cooperative Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning but took nothing, Sheriff Donald Heinritz said.

The door was smashed by prying the portion containing the lock from the rest of the wooden door. Lt. Jack Zuelke said the burglars apparently were frightened away before they could take anything.

Modern Range Cuts Clutter In Kitchens

New Stoves Many Appliances in One; Offer Flexibility

If you're one of those householders with a kitchen that's cluttered with an assortment of single-purpose cooking appliances and you couldn't add another without a shoe horn, then hear this:

The new automatic gas ranges have 'em all — built in, so that your shelves and cabinet space can be used for utensils and other essentials. Let's run down the list of "auxiliary" cooking functions so you can check:

Plug-in frying pan? Automatic deep fat fryer or broiler? With the top burner heat control that's standard equipment on new gas ranges, you're in a position to kiss the "special" appliances goodbye. In fact, this control makes any pot or pan in your closet into an automatic cooking appliance. A Dutch oven or chicken fryer takes a new lease on life when you can pre-set your gas cooking temperature and know positively that the heat won't vary more than two degrees through the whole cooking operation, unless you re-set it to automatic simmer or high heat.

All Work the Same

What's more, it makes no difference what size your utensil is or whether it's made of porcelain, stainless steel, iron, oven-proof glass or aluminum. They'll all work the same, because the dial for the top burner control can be set to compensate for any kind of utensil and the flexible gas flame will spread to contact the whole bottom of the pan without going to waste up the sides.

Does the new gas range give you the advantage of a combination broiler and rotisserie?

Naturally, and you can't beat the flavor your radiant heat gas broiler imparts to steaks, while your rotating rotisserie makes a delicious meal without heating your entire kitchen. Your range ofers carefree cooking as a "plus," for you can leave the house while your roast is being barbecued to perfection, knowing that your oven control will take care of it, safely.

Roaster, Too

Automatic roaster? Of course, and yours has a foolproof device for arriving at the exact degree of doneness you want — rare, medium, well-done or any shade between — simply by setting a dial on the probe that goes into your roast. And, as the Gas Appliance Manufacturers' association points out, you can cook a complete meal, roast a turkey or bake puddings, cakes, pies and casserole dishes at the same time in your extra-wide oven.

Toaster?

Yes, your broiler also serves as a king-size toaster that can supply everyone in the family with toast at one fell swoop and it takes all sizes and thicknesses of breads.

Cardinal Gives Lift to East German Catholics

Berlin Prelate's Diocese Stretches Behind Iron Curtain, Foe of Reds

BY HANNS NEUERBOURG

Berlin — Selection of the bishop of Berlin as a cardinal is giving a spiritual lift to Roman Catholics in communist East Germany.

Church circles say the naming of the Most Rev. Julius Döpfner underscores the importance Pope John XXIII attaches to this diocese on the Iron Curtain.

Bishop Döpfner took over here last year. He has already become a target in the communist drive against the church and against religious education.

His diocese spreads beyond the divided city's borders, far into East Germany. More than half his flock lives under the communist regime. Moreover, he confers with prelates from all East German dioceses.

Attacks Reds

In many sermons and pastoral letters, the bishop has spoken against what he calls the communist restraint of conscience. He keeps urging red leaders to permit full religious freedom.

A son of small farmers in the Rhenish mountains, he studied at the German college in Rome and was ordained a priest shortly after war broke out in 1939.

Less than nine years later, Pope Pius XII named him bishop of Wuerzburg.

He first became widely known in West Germany in a much-discussed Catholic-Protestant controversy. This started when he refused to attend joint religious ceremonies to dedicate a factory.

Common Defense

In Berlin, however, Bishop Döpfner has repeatedly stressed that common defense against communist atheism requires fraternal collaboration among churches.

The prelate is known for an unorthodox approach in church architecture. When he ordered an abstract painting, purportedly depicting the gospel of St. John, for a Wuerzburg church, he created a stir in more conservative church circles.

He became widely popular by insisting that housing have precedence over churches.

"If we build houses, we build a cathedral," he said in setting up a church-run housing company for underprivileged people.

As a consequence, 1,000-year-old Wuerzburg cathedral, heavily damaged by British bombs, has not yet been completely repaired.

Furniture Often Fine Yule Gift

Home Furnishings Available in Contemporary Traditional Design

Christmas shoppers who are looking for a family-type gift can't go wrong with furniture.

Home furnishings are available in both contemporary and traditional designs, so Fox Cities shoppers will have plenty of opportunity to choose what suits them best.

Some may be looking for a single piece to complete the general room motif. Others will be seeking that important first time that starts a complete new furniture set. In either case it's always wise to consult with an expert before buying. Furniture that doesn't go well with the rest of the room is almost as bad as no furniture at all.

Easy Chair

A favorite for the man of the house is the reliable easy chair. Furniture designers have given the traditional piece of furniture a new twist. A new model offers a comfortable low back and features a built-in foot rest that gives full leg support even in the sitting position. The back reclines—perfect for that snooze after reading the evening newspaper. Its low-swept contemporary design makes the chair a gracious piece of furniture and a charming addition to any home.

An added advantage of the new easy chair is that its back can be raised to any height, or declined to any angle, including horizontal, perfect for sleeping that extra guest.

For those who own spacious ranch-style homes, multi-purpose groups are popular.

One of the most interesting groupings this Christmas season includes a sectional sofa in textured fabric. The buyer can choose between either end or curved corner section. The center section is armless.

The 4-piece group can be pushed together into a single unit or remain in separate units. Either way its foam rubber cushions provide solid comfort for family or guests.

Relaxer Chair

A relaxer chair now on the market has a seat cushioned with foam rubber and an electric vibrator.

Those who prefer traditional furniture around their Christmas tree have a variety of choices. Traditional furniture lacks the sleek urbane look of its modern counterpart, but is handsome just the same.

Beds and dressers and cabinets are particularly popular traditional items.

Colonial design tops the traditional line. Done in finished autumn, tan, a northern hard maple "old-fashioned" bedroom set has a warm rich color that brings out all the beauty of the solid wood.

Senate May Clamp Down on Filibuster

Some Liberals Demand Alteration To End Long Talking Sessions

BY WILLIAM S. WHITE

Washington — Three sets of men are preparing now for the most important and the least understood struggle of the new congress. It is a struggle of immense complications — tradition, emotion, political ambitions — will bedevil the great conflict, to open in January. It will bear on the 1960 presidential election. It may result in a profound change in what for nearly two centuries has been our most nearly changeless institution, the U.S. senate.

The probable greatest personal winner is Vice President Richard M. Nixon. As the senate's presiding officer, he may well decisively shape the outcome. The probable collective loser, at least to some extent, is the Democratic party. Possible eventual losers may be all future minorities — economic, religious, racial or sectional — to the immediate gain of the currently mistreated minority, the Negroes.

The argument will involve a dusty thing, the senate anti-filibuster rule — "rule 22." A filibuster is endless talking to prevent a vote. It can be halted now only by decision of two-thirds of the entire senate membership — or simply by wearing out the filibusterers.

A faction of advanced liberals is demanding an alteration so extreme that its adoption would end the senate as a unique deliberative body. This group is led by Sens. Paul H. Douglas of Illinois and Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Democrats, and Clifford P. Case of New Jersey and Jacob K. Javits of New York, Republicans.

Beyond This

They wish to make it possible for two-thirds of those senators voting to clamp down on a filibuster by a process called cloture after two day's notice. But they would go much beyond this moderate reform — and this is the kernel of it — to permit the barest senate majority, or 49 members, to put on cloture after 15 days.

This would make the senate only a somewhat slower house of representatives. The slimmest senate majority, after 15 days, could adopt any kind of bill under public pressure, informed or uninformed. The house already can do so.

The third and probably the largest of the senate groups wishes to harden the cloture rule by permitting two-thirds of those actually voting (instead of two-thirds of the entire membership) to put on cloture — but never less than this two-thirds in any circumstances.

For many years, the liberals have blamed the filibuster for their inability to enact legislation in behalf of Negro rights. Last year a bill was passed — the first in eight decades — without any change in the rules. This, however, has never satisfied the liberals, who think it did not go far enough.

Liberal Implement

But the filibuster in senate history has been more often a liberal than a conservative implement.

The senate is fundamentally a non-majority institution; the smallest state has equal representation with the largest. But so, indeed, is the bill of rights. That unlimited debate has been much abused is undeniable. But the fifth amendment, under which a single man can refuse to testify against himself, however guilty, also has been undeniably abused.

Some conservatives would destroy the fifth amendment for its shortcomings, forgetting its towering nobility. Now, many liberals forget that the filibuster weapon, deemed by them to be in unworthy hands, has many times halted vindictive legislation that a thoroughly "Democratic" house was all too ready to approve.

Finally, civil rights legislation in plain fact has suffered most of all, not because of rules, but because far more rank and file senators have had it on their lips than in their hearts.

New Bicycle Good Christmas Present for Any Youngster

There are few Christmas gifts a youngster enjoys more than a shiny new bicycle. Available to Fox Cities shoppers this year are bikes of every size, shape and color. Prices suit the pocketbook from $30 to $50, with the average around $45.

For the tiny tots there are bright little 3-wheelers. Some have imitation headlights, others with small propellers mounted on the handlebars for the air-minded youngsters.

Keyed to Safety

One model this year is keyed to safety. A bucket seat keeps the rider firmly in place. A bar encircles the entire bike to prevent spills.

For the youngster who is fits over the wheel and produces a motorbike sound, there are chain-driven models. The bike, although much like the standard 2-wheeler, is smaller and has removable tiny wheels mounted on either side of the large rear wheel.

English Models

Most interesting of the standard size 2-wheel models are sturdy, good-looking English bikes. They have three gears, first as forward drives on a car, and handsome leather seats and saddlebags.

American 2-wheel models come in a whole galaxy of colors and designs.

The newest thing in accessories is a contraption that is fits over the wheel and produces a motorbike sound.

The Time has come to consider decorating the Christmas tree. The family can have a lot of fun choosing ornaments from a wide variety of tree decorations now in Fox Cities stores. Forming the outline of a Christmas tree is a new import, a string of small round lights from Italy. Each string has one color light, either violet, red, blue or azure white. The tall ornament to go on the tree top is a Christmas elf with a tall hat. The other ornaments include a little horn, an animal figure and small figurine, some delicate pastel ornaments decorated with sequins and silver cording; a common round ball made into a Santa Claus head; a pine cone figure; balls which have a carved design and others which refract light.

Luggage for Women Comes In All Colors

Travelling Gear Can Be Bought in Nearly Every Size and Shape

If you're taking the little woman on a trip this winter, maybe you can brighten her Christmas with luggage.

Women love luggage. There's just no doubt about it—check any luggage store or department, you'll see lovely colors and more different shapes and sizes of luggage than in any men's luggage department.

A favorite of the last few years and still a stylish item is the hatbox type. It has grown from a hatbox to a bag which will serve the lady for an overnight or 2-day trip.

As a matter of fact, a hatbox type and a vanity case, are nearly a set of luggage these days. And colors—you can buy women's luggage in navy, light blue, light green, light grey, natural shades or just about anything desired. Even plaids for the hatbox types, or the car-packs.

That's an idea for the whole family—the car-pack. It's handy to pull out of the car for an overnight stop when you don't want to unpack the whole trunk.

The new plastic and aluminum luggage pieces are ideal for the traveling woman because they're light.

While you're shopping around, you might consider one of those traveling bags for baby's things. With a shoulder strap for carrying, these have space for plenty of diapers, a couple of bottles, a change of clothes and some odds and ends.

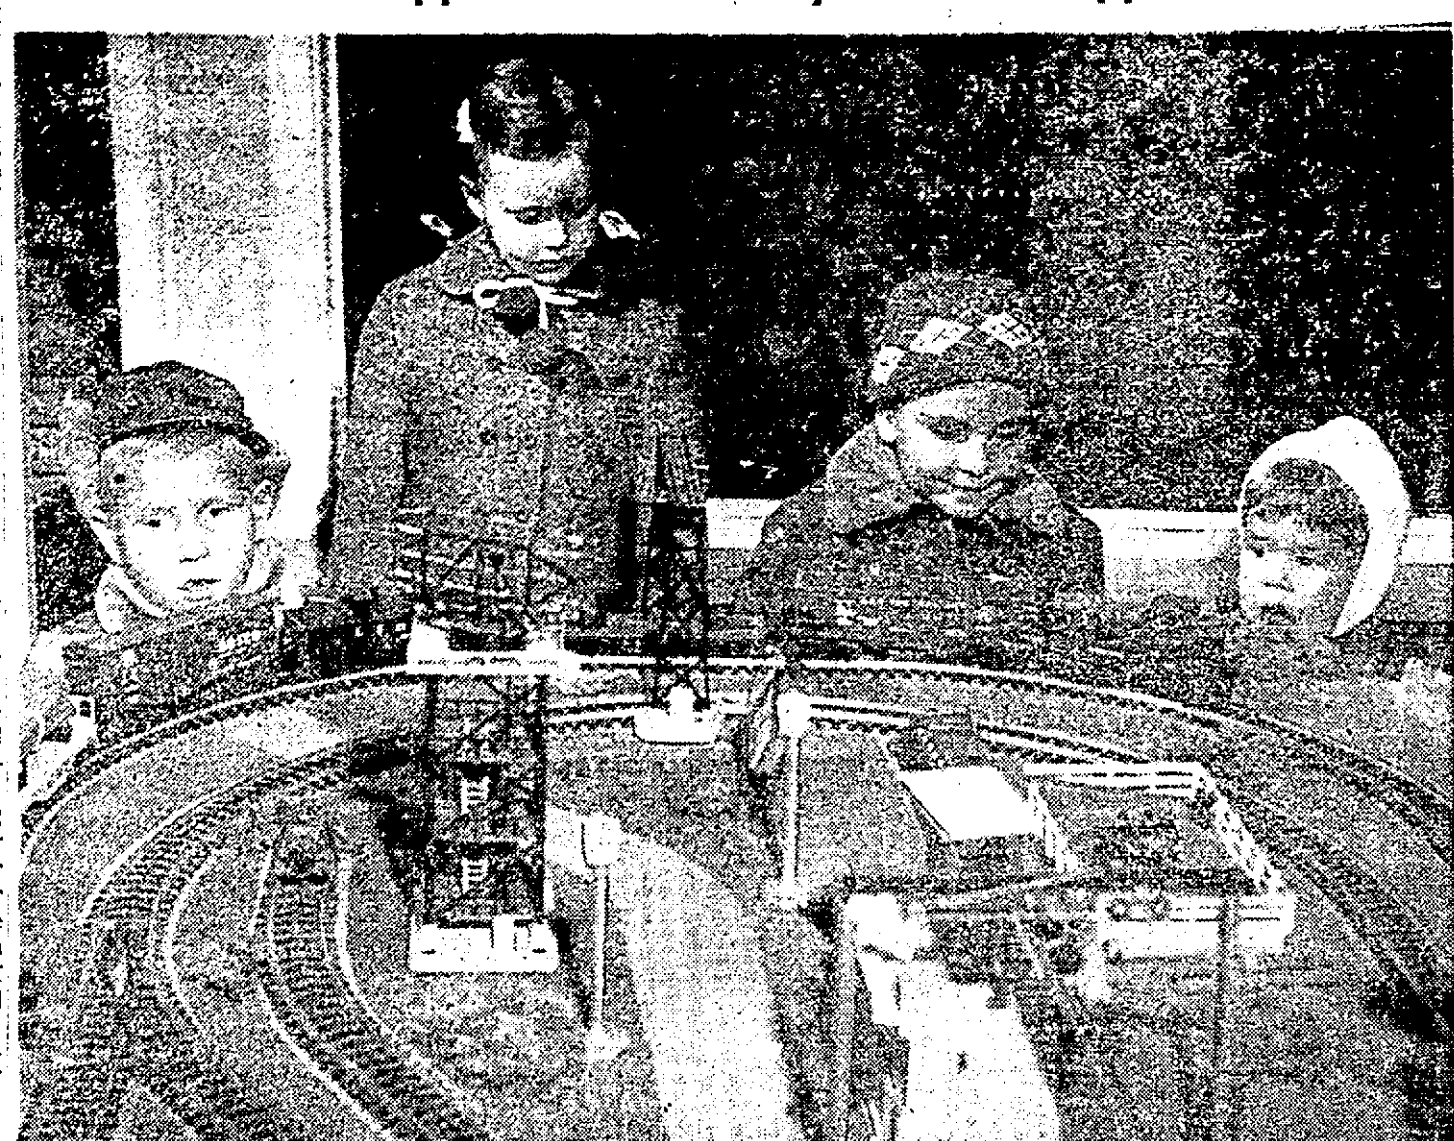

All in all, if you're planning a trip, a new piece of luggage for the Mrs. may be just the thing to make the journey perfect.

Christmas Tree Can Be Sparkling With Gay Ornaments

Candy Tree Centerpiece

Also Could Use Partially-Blown Ballons in Decor

A teenager's decoration book at holiday time is always chockful of parties, dances, skating dates, and almost always, at least one party she is hosting. You will have no trouble with the theme—Christmas—but what to do for a simple-to-make but different centerpiece?

A hard-candy and balloon-decorated tree for a conversation piece, and plenty of chocolate to nibble on, will answer the question nicely. Candy is as much a part of Christmas as Santa Claus, but your hard-candy tree is for decoration, not for eating. And so remember, those assorted chocolates are a "must" if you don't want your guests untrimming your tree as they munch.

How to make tree: Purchase an inexpensive tree from the dime store and spray the base white with artificial snow. Hang peppermint candy canes and bright-colored ribbon candy in place of balls. Finish off the tree with four or five partially-blown balloons which can be tied to the tree with thread.

If you want to add even more decoration, add a garland or two of popcorn and cranberries. These can be made by threading a needle with a long piece of thread and alternating cranberries and popcorn.

As popular as ever are the tradition plain ball ornaments in the solid red, blue, green and gold colors. However, this year, they have a new twist—the original ball has the look of being carved, intricate designs give the ornament a new look and an added beauty to the decorated tree.

A great favorite with the American family is the star or angel placed atop the tree. With this perennial ornament comes a different approach. There are lovely decorated odd-shaped, ornaments out of nylon, angel hair, plastic, gold and silver cording, and tall tree-top gadgets, the center being a pixie face that has a tall peaked cap.

One last suggestion, not an ornament, but a tree itself. Handsome initialed handkerchiefs perfect for dressy occasions. Silk pocket kerchiefs, too, make a thoughtful gift. Sets are attractively match with these miniature trees.

Save Money This Christmas By Building Own Train Set

So Junior wants an electric train for Christmas! A good idea is a do-it-yourself train kit which is less costly than ready-made models and gives the child an opportunity to develop patience, ingenuity and coordination.

Fox Cities electric train dealers point out more and more families are building their own sets.

All it takes to construct a set are the parts, glue, a little time and effort.

First Stage The first step in building an electric train set is putting together the tracks. The rails and ties can be constructed at many different angles and curves.

Next comes the engine and cars, which are more intricate and harder to build. Plastic cathedrals, factories, airports, hospitals and

All that glitters on the Christmas tree this year is not gold, but equally attractive in creating a pretty holiday effect.

Lights are first on the tree and this year, imported from Italy, are new lighting ideas. The bulbs, a single string each of violet, azure white, blue and red, are small, round and with facets, strung on a delicate white cording.

Also new in the tree light category are the regular small flame-shaped bulbs on bend strings and individual round bulbs with fine crystals which sparkle when lighted.

Fox Cities stores are also featuring many novelty tree ornaments which have a hand-made look to give Christmas trees an old-fashioned appearance. Little pine cone figures can be hung on the tree or used as table decorations. There are regular solid colored balls made into Santa Claus heads by using paints, glitter and paper.

Snowflakes Other items with the home-made appearance are fluffy pipe cleaner snow flakes which have tiny balls on the pipe tips. These come in white, red and blue.

Another imported novelty, which looks especially nice on a pastel flocked tree, is a decorated ornament available in a variety of shapes and pastel colors. These are decorated with gold and silver beads, sequins and fine cording. Some are hand-painted.

For the individual who might want an unusual Christmas tree, there are a variety of little angel figures, very delicate and airy. These are white, with filmy wings, velvet bodies, bead faces and angel hair. One Christmas idea would be to decorate a tree with nothing but these angel figures.

Youngsters will have fun decorating the tree with shiny ornaments in a variety of unusual shapes, such as horns, cars, motorcycles, little dolls, elves, and on and on. They are available in the same colors and materials as the regular plain ornaments.

Glow-in-the-Dark A new product on the market are glow-in-the-dark ball ornaments. In daylight they appear to be white with some decoration, but at night they glow on the tree with an unusual light.

A clear plastic ball with a figurine inside and a solid half-ball with an inserted ornament are being displayed on Fox Cities store counters. Also being shown are ornament figurines in tradition red, blue and green.

As popular as ever are the tradition plain ball ornaments in the solid red, blue, green and gold colors. However, this year, they have a new twist—the original ball has the look of being carved, intricate designs give the ornament a new look and an added beauty to the decorated tree.

Adult School Classes Aid Mother of 10

Vocational Courses Help Woman
Care for Family; Learn New Ideas

BY EDWARD VAN BERKEL
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Kaukauna — A Kaukauna mother of 10 children has found the Kaukauna School of Vocational and Adult education an important place for picking up household hints and helps.

Mrs. Edwin Vanevenhoven has enrolled in several classes over the last five or six years. Some were short term courses, while others were full semester classes. She enrolls only in a course which will benefit her or her family. Her husband also has taken advantage of courses, learning to make some furniture for their home. Vanevenhoven is service manager at the Gusman Chevrolet sales

First Enrolled
The first class Mrs. Vanevenhoven took was in sewing about six years ago. Although she had been sewing for several years, she was interested in learning the latest methods and shortcuts. Corduroy suits for four daughters resulted.

When a friend gave her a fur coat, Mrs. Vanevenhoven enrolled in the fur restyling class. She cut out worn spots on the coat and remade it. Last year when styles changed, she again enrolled in fur restyling, learning how to eliminate bulky sleeves and put a collar on the coat.

Enrolling in the lampshade covering and drapery class enabled her to recover shades of lamps and to supervise the making of drapes for the St. Mary school gymnasium and cafeteria. The drape-making project took 10 women about 12 sessions to complete under the direction of Mrs. Vanevenhoven.

Other Courses
Typing and shorthand were added recently — the typing to help her with correspondence and shorthand to freshen what she learned in high school. At the same time, she could help her daughters, who may take the subject in high school.

Home nursing was another course taken by Mrs. Vanevenhoven to help her learn better ways to help bedridden persons and learn more about family first aid and civil defense responsibility rests on her

This year Mrs. Vanevenhoven and her husband's shoulders

Much Time Has Been Spent behind the sewing machine by Mrs. Edwin Vanevenhoven, Kaukauna mother of 10 youngsters. She has enrolled often in the adult vocational school to learn things which will help her and her family. Looking on are two of the children, Mark and Helen.

With her work at home, Mrs. Vanevenhoven is a member school band mothers' association, Evening Home-makers club and the high school band mothers.

Raising such a large family prevented Mr. and Mrs. Vanevenhoven from going out very much in the evening, since neither wanted to give a baby-sitter the responsibility for such a large group. Now with a few youngsters grown, things are a little easier.

She serves as treasurer of the band mothers, was a member of the baby-sitting clinic sponsored by the Home-makers and calendar and hospitality committees. Her hobby is entering contests and she has many small prizes to show for her efforts. The best is a 19-cubic-foot upright freezer.

The children are David, 18; Carl, 15; Mary Ann, 14; Janet, 12; Patsy, 10; Rita, 7; Helen, 5; Mark, 4; Alan, 3 months and Rose Ann, 3 months. The oldest boy is a senior at Kaukauna High school and is working part-time to raise money to continue his education.

5 Grains of Corn

The Puritans after they were established in this country always placed five grains of corn beside their plates at their Thanksgiving dinner to remind them of their early days when starvation threatened and five grains of corn were their daily ration.

New Travel Slipper Kits for Men Popular

Latest Styles Offer Compartments
Storing Pajamas, Shaving Articles

Men who travel, extensively or infrequently, are finding the new type of travel slippers an item to put down on their Christmas gift list.

The new travel slippers are a welcome addition to the standard line. They usually come in kits that can be tucked away into a corner of a suitcase. Usually they are soft-soled, pliable deerskin leather slippers that can be folded over or rolled up for compactness. Some of them have padded soles.

New this year is the deerskin kit which contains compartments on each side, one for slippers and the other for toilet articles. A large area in the middle holds pajamas or underwear.

Operas, Roméos Popular
Deerskin slippers with a hard sole also are available. Standard opera and roméo type slippers still are popular and come in tan, black or wine. Some of the opera slippers have suede uppers and are lamb lined. Red suedes are new in this line. They have hard soles and rubber heels. Slippers come with plain or moccasin toe, with felt lining, lamb lining, cloth lining or leather lining, with hard leather, soft leather and cushioned soles, with elastic goring on the instep, zipper fronts or plain fronts, with high vamps and backs.

Natural tint is becoming a mainstay, along with black and tan. Many slippers are suitable for wearing outside. Some slippers have the instep lining treated to glow in the dark, making it easier to find them at night.

Besides these varieties, slipper socks still are as popular today as they were when first introduced several years ago.

Teenage Beer Sale Protest Drive Starts

80 Persons Making
House-to-House
Canvass in Neenah

Neenah — Close to 80 persons are making a house-to-house canvass in Neenah for an expression of sentiment on a proposed ordinance to restrict the sale of beer to persons under the age of 21.

Letters also are being prepared which will be sent to members of the council and city officials in support of the proposed ordinance. The council deferred to Dec. 3 action on the ordinance.

Spokesman for the group opposing a teenage bar for the city and urging passage of the ordinance is Jack Casper, Boys' Brigade coordinator.

Casper pointed out over 150 municipalities in the state already have ordinances prohibiting the sale of beer to persons under 21 years of age, one of which is Milwaukee county. Others are Racine, Kenosha, Marinette, Sheboygan, DePere and Antigo.

Meeting Held
The drive for signatures has been gaining momentum, he said. A meeting was held at the Brigade building last Sunday as the result of several calls since the council meeting last week at which Casper appeared in protest of a teenage bar in the city.

The papers being circulated for signatures are not a petition calling for passage of a specifically worded ordinance but are an expression of the sentiments of people in Neenah on the matter of teenage bars.

The signer indicates he does not favor sale of fermented malt beverages to persons under the age of 21 in the city of Neenah.

Casper said the drive for signatures has received "mushroom" growth as some of those asked if they care to sign the statement have asked if they could circulate the statement themselves.

Neenah Schools Look At Science Program

Publication for Parents Reviews
Kindergarten Through 12th Grade Plans

Neenah — With the current emphasis on science and the nuclear age, the Neenah public schools took a look into its publication "From Our Schools" distributed to parents of pupils in the schools this week.

He pointed to the need for a fine balance and the whole curriculum as he said "we must not make the mistake of concentrating on science and mathematics at the expense of social studies and humanities."

"In the next two issues, we are emphasizing science and mathematics because we want our people to know what the public schools are doing in these important areas," Supt. of Schools Harold B. Mennes said.

In separate articles, the publication tells of the work done in the grade schools, from kindergarten up, in the field of science and the added emphasis given in the high school.

"The large number of courses being offered and the great number of students electing science and mathematics is indicative of an age of science. The outstanding record of students pursuing advanced courses in colleges and universities is further evidence of the fine preparation and quality of work done by the departments of mathematics and science."

On standard testing last year over half of the eighth graders ranked in the top 10 per cent, while 15 per cent in that bracket would be normal, the article mentions. There were 78 students in that top 10 per cent bracket. Other articles deal with the science programs at the high school level, merit scholarship semi-finalists which included three Neenah High students among 10,000 select-

Slashed FROM $29.95 TO $9.95

Also ITALIAN, GERMAN, & HEBREW

Thanks to the miracle of long-playing records, you can now learn to speak French or Spanish from NATIVE INSTRUCTORS, quickly—at home and in your spare time—and not for the $29.95 this Course has always cost, but for only $9.95—a saving to you of exactly $20.00. Give her a nurse set complete with little cap, a toy watch to take doll's pulse and other simple equipment and the little girl is transformed into a nurse.

A miniature physician's kit can effect a similar transformation with the would-be medical man.

The sewing cards consist of cardboard squares upon which scenes are printed and into which holes are punched. The child can thread brightly colored yarn through the holes to outline the pictures.

One of the most colorful of the applique sets utilizes pieces of Turkish toweling onto which the appliques, already cut, may be sewn.

Painting by numbers is offered youngsters in a variety of scenes but probably the most popular will be the space travelers set, through which the child can roam among the planets once all the numbers are colored.

With Santa's Help Youngsters Travel In New Realms

BY BETTY KILICH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

What little girl hasn't dreamed some time or other in her young life of being a nurse? Or what little girl hasn't watched her mother hemming a dress and sighed that she'd like to know how to sew, too?

Or what little boy hasn't been fascinated by his family doctor and expressed hopes to become a doctor when he grows up?

Well, Santa can't see to it that the child gets the required schooling or passes the state board, but he can help fulfill the fancies on a childhood level.

A child's do-it-yourself world is entirely different

An Individual Touch to the Tradition of Christmas card sending is added by the homemade card. Mrs. LaVerne Benjamin, route 1, Omro, pasting a church outline to colored construction paper for one type card, finds other card material sources in evergreen twigs, pipe stems twisted into wreaths, crocheted candy canes and commercial materials, such as glitter, seals and stars.

Simple, Attractive

Homemade Christmas Cards Can Express One's Creative Touch

Competition has aroused the Christmas card companies somewhat for one way has a card on the market this year with a small scissors poking gentle fun at "do-it-yourself" yuletide card makers. Each holiday season increasing numbers of hands wield scissors, colored paper, glitter and glue and turn out attractive home-made holiday greetings.

The creative touch can be expressed in innumerable ways — photography, silk screening, block printing or simply cutting and pasting.

Mrs. LaVerne Benjamin, route 1, Omro, makes simple, attractive cards in which the entire family can share in the "do-it-yourself" project. Glue is used for a writing base on multi-colored construction paper, then glitter is sprinkled on the glue to complete the greeting. She uses the same method for trees, bells, angels and other Christmas symbols.

from felt by the rural homemaker. She cuts two outlines, such as a boot, bell or mitten shape, from different colored pieces of felt. One shape is cut larger than the second. The pieces are either hand stitched or machine stitched together with a slit cut to hold the bill.

Pen, Ink

An easy pen and ink card is made with black paper and white ink. Fill in a pencil outline of an evergreen tree with the white ink or just outline the same tree shape. The message inside written with the same color ink, might read: "Holiday greetings from John and Mary Smith."

A design, such as a church or Santa figure, can be cut from one piece of construction paper and placed on a card for another easy-to-make variety.

For those with needle skilled fingers, candles or candy canes can be crocheted and tacked to a folder. Red ribbon, cut in flame shape, can be tacked or pasted at the candle tops.

A wide selection of materials can be purchased for the card craft. Many colors of glitter, sequins, stars, ribbon, rick-rack, seals and foil are available. Other material sources might be evergreen boughs, sprigs of holly, pictures from last year's Christmas cards, bits of net or burlap or poster paints.

One woman constructed an original card by cutting green heavy paper in the form of a tree with the photographs of her four children pasted to the design for tree ornaments.

Mrs. Gordon Morrison, route 1, Omro, paints water color scenes to adorn her cards.

Another type card can be made by fringing a rectangular piece of burlap, cut smaller than the folded card size. Glue a message with letters cut from contrasting paper to the burlap.

Linens, Quilts Make Excellent Christmas Gifts

Stores Showing Colorful Sheets, Many Blankets

New housewives or veterans in the business are practically unanimous in their feelings — a Christmas gift of linens or blankets is a welcome one.

Even if you prefer bestowing a more personalized present upon the woman of the house, linens or blankets could be a good house gift — a gift for the entire family.

Fine, but sturdy percale sheets no longer are limited to white. More and more families seem to prefer more color in the bedrooms and sheets now can be purchased in solid pastels or colorful stripes and prints.

Often a housewife will yearn for sheets to match the decor in her bedrooms but won't indulge in what she considers a luxury. Christmas is the perfect time to fulfill those whims and prove to her that colored sheets are as sturdy as the white ones. All have pillow cases to match, as well.

Contour sheets which come shaped into wreaths with holly berries cut from red felt. Pressed ferns substitute as card-size yule trees.

For the beginner, experts advise keeping the design simple. Materials with different textures, metallic paper, heavy yarn and sparkling tinsel all add interest as decorative trims.

in sizes to fit almost any bed also can be a popular gift. And they make housework much easier, since the contours keep the bottom sheet always in place, simplifying the daily task of bedmaking.

Newest look in blankets are the dacron-quilted varieties. They're close to the ultimate in sleeping comfort — extra warm yet extra light.

They're also available in a wide selection of colors and patterns and only one is said to provide plenty of warmth for cold Wisconsin winters.

Another conqueror of Wisconsin winds are electric blankets, an appliance gaining entry to more and more homes. They're reasonably priced — some of them less than $20 — and they have long lives.

Many of the double blankets have separate heating controls so husband and wife can slumber in peace in the degree of warmth most comfortable to each. Controls usually offer about six varieties of warmth.

Educational Toys Abound For All Ages

They Include Kits, Craft Sets, Bright Wooden Playthings

If you know the approximate age of the child on your Christmas list, there will be no trouble this year finding an educational toy that will delight him.

The shops are bursting with this type of toy. Some are for learning, others are for hobbies — playthings, building toys, crafts and games.

In the toddler to 5-year-old range there are all sorts of toys that teach manual dexterity. Huge, jumbo colored beads will delight the child up to 18 months.

Pull toys for the youngster 1 1/2 to 3 1/2 include a dairy wagon with six wooden milk cans to load and unload. There's a rural mailbox with a flag that goes up and down, a play telephone that can hang on a door-knob. This telephone toy is of wood and comes equipped with a coin return, slots for nickels, quarters and dimes and wooden slugs for money. Another idea for this age group is the peg board that can be pounded with a mallet.

Wooden Toys

An auto jack that cranks up and down, a camera that clicks and a take-apart clock are among the wooden toys for the 2 to 5-year-old group. A wagon full of blocks and a clever work bench complete with wooden screws, nuts, bolts, wrench and hammer, are available for children of this age.

There are play telephones for all ages in all sorts of designs. One is an old-fashioned upright phone, another is a wall phone with the old-time crank on the side. There are many variations of the dial telephone, some ring when being dialed, others have a recording device in the receiver.

That says hello, others are interesting articles. There's an replicas of modern phones other on terry cloth applique with numbers, letters and even push buttons.

Science Projects

For the older boy, most of the toys lean to science projects. These include transistor radio sets that really work when assembled. They include battery, headphone and component parts. There also are crystal radio sets easy to put together.

Erector sets are available for the youngster who enjoys building things. Microscopes, chemistry sets and tool chests are also popular.

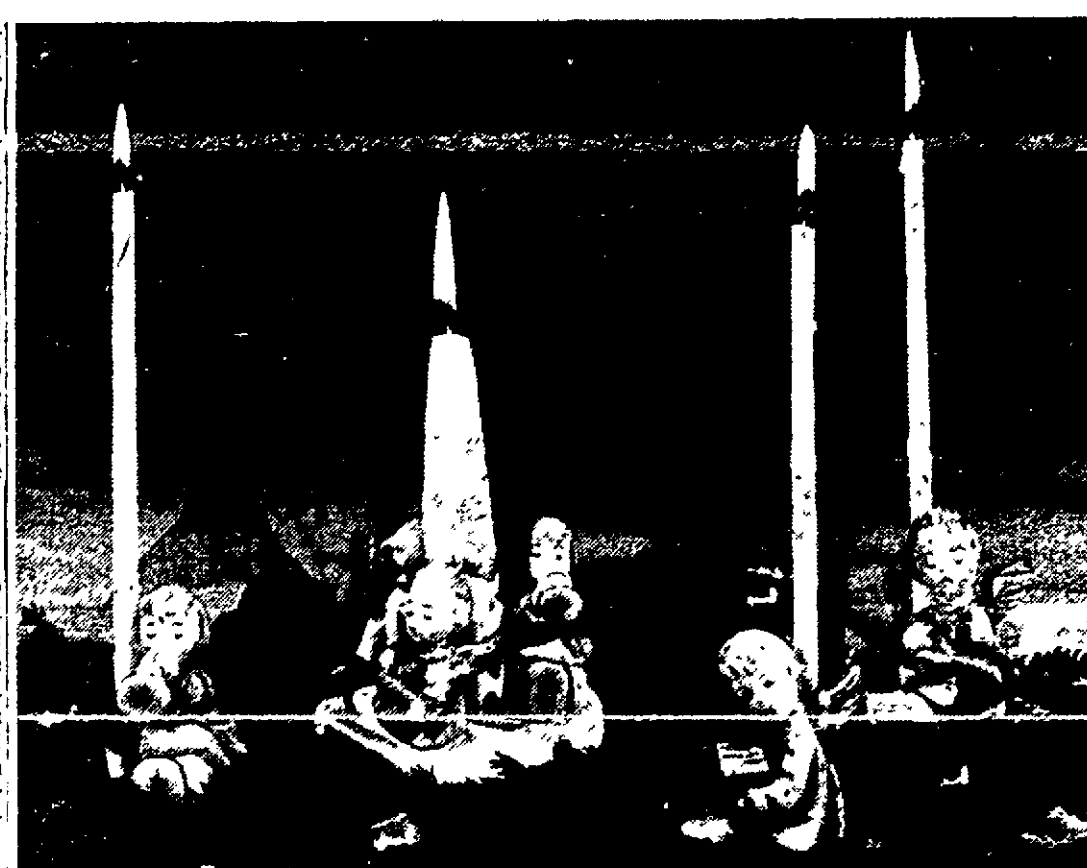

For girls who enjoy making things there are some outstanding gifts, such as a sturdy weaving loom complete with yarn, a flower craft kit from which pretty, usable artificial flowers can be made.

Other Craft Sets

A jewelry kit includes the makings for necklaces, bracelets and many ornaments. Another new craft set is the one with sequins that has directions for fashioning many into 18 months.

Investigate Fight

Oshkosh — Winnebago county police were called at 12:39 this morning to the Payne's Point tavern on County Trunk A as the result of an altercation between Henry Vander Hyden and Clarence T. Hesselman, both of route 1, Neenah. Vander Hyden received a cut lower lip and a cut above the eyes.

German Made Figurines with candleholders add a bright and merry note to the Christmas scene. Ideal as gifts, they can be put to use immediately, and will continue to be appealing, decorative accessories throughout the year.

Pilgrims Opposed History of Arguments Precedes Thanksgiving

The Pilgrims would have been shocked to their shoe buckles on Dec. 13, 1621, if they had known their day of thanks was to become a yearly national holiday celebrated by millions of people in the United States and Canada.

For the Pilgrims were dead set against annual holidays, and refused to celebrate even Christmas and Easter.

According to research experts, the Pilgrims referred to the religious holidays of the Church of England as "Roman corruptions." They believed in celebrating only when providence granted them a particular blessing.

As if to prove their disdain for yearly calendar-fixed celebrations, the Pilgrims did not have a thanksgiving celebration the next year. However, other New England colonists picked up the idea and held "thanks days," usually around the end of November.

Historical Arguments

The Pilgrim-inspired holiday is today a joyous family day celebrated with big dinners and happy reunions, but the history of the holiday in the U. S. has been fraught with argument.

In 1789 a resolution was presented by a member of the new congress proposing that a day be set aside to give thanks for the constitution. The resolution was finally adopted, but there was much opposition by those who believed the federal government was meddling in a matter that should be the concern of the individual states. Thomas Jefferson called such government-proclaimed holidays a "monarchical practice" and ignored Thanksgiving during his eight years in office.

Mrs. Sarah Hale, editor of Godey's Lady's Book, worked for 30 years to promote the idea of a national Thanksgiving day. Mrs. Hale had a double-barreled attack — she printed editorials promoting the idea and also included tempting recipes for Thanksgiving delicacies.

In 1863 Lincoln proclaimed the last Thursday in November would be Thanksgiving day. Each year afterward.

Electric Razor Useful Gift for Either Sex

Affiliated Items
Christmas Giving

If you want to give your best guy or gal a Christmas gift that is useful, inexpensive and can be used almost anywhere in the world, you need look no further. Buy that special someone an electric razor.

What could be nicer for hubby than an electric razor to give him fast, smooth shaves? What wife wouldn't be overjoyed when she opens a gaily-wrapped package and finds a glamorously designed, beautifully colored and jeweled woman's electric razor?

Shaving A Snap

Merchants point out electric razor manufacturers have kept pace with increasing demand for their products by developing better units and more articles to make shaving a "snap."

A partial list of items that includes a shaver cleaner, pre-shave powder stick or lotion, after shave lotion, shaver holder, service kit, coil cord extending six feet or longer, and cleaning brushes.

One of the features of an electric shaver is that it can be used at home, in an office or hotel, on planes, trains, ships and cars by just plugging a cord in a socket. Many electric razors are adapted for use in AC or DC electric currents.

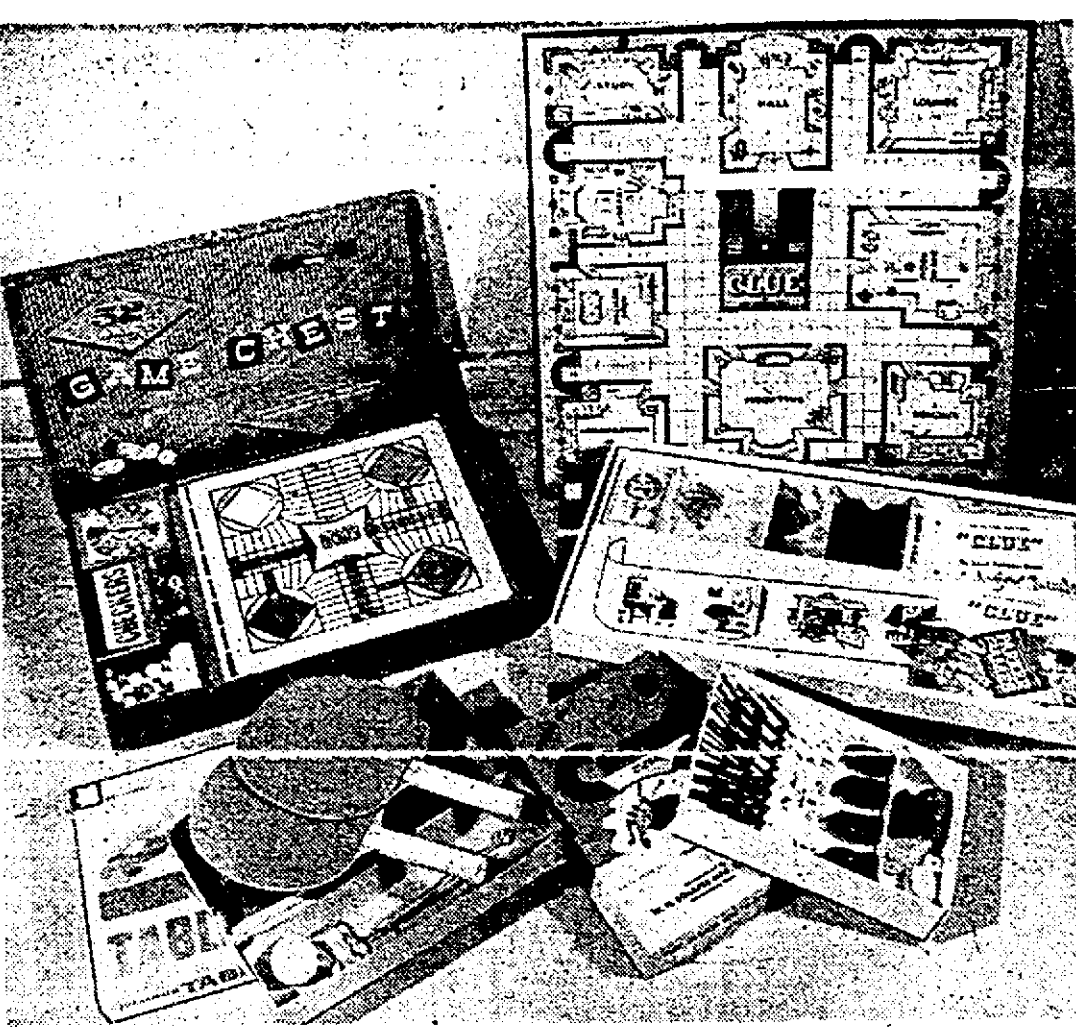

Electric razors are made in double and single head models, with any number of cutters. One of the newer models is a 2-wheel rotary razor made to fit the hand.

Six Cutters

One company says its product has six cutters with 1,512 cutting edges which can perform over 24,000,000 cutting strokes a minute.

When using an electric razor the face should be dry. Whiskers grow in different directions and turning the electric razor in a circular motion will give maximum whisker pickup.

Electric razors are effective in trimming sideburns and mustaches. Razors should be cleaned, oiled and sharpened every three or four months.

For Family Recreation Almost Infinite Variety Of Games Available

Family games — intriguing to both children and adults — are found in almost infinite varieties in Fox Cities stores. They run the range from the old standbys of monopoly, bingo, lotto and old maid to the newer games of name-that-tune and spill n' spell, a dice game featuring lettered dice rather than numbered ones.

If the household is lacking the perennially popular games — chess or checkers sets, a Chinese checkers board, a dart game or table tennis equipment — Christmas is the time to fill the gap.

Evening Entertainment

As almost any father or mother will remark, it's difficult to keep away from the games once the youngsters have started playing. And they're an excellent means of providing winter evening entertainment for the entire household.

A new cribbage game is cribbage derby, played with a board laid out in the manner of a race track. Scrabble and its variations still are going strong. Fox Cities merchants say, as are dominoes, miniature pool and other old favorites.

One game chest comes provided with equipment for 52 games — enough to offer new recreation throughout the year — while a baseball game with magnetized darts might keep young Braves fans happy during the winter.

Puppets always are fascinating and among new ones available this year is Zorro, who comes complete with a black cape and other identifying articles.

Leisure Time

What will the woman do with her leisure time? There are as many answers to that as there are women. But it's a sure bet that sooner or later the family itself will benefit in one way or another. That's why, when you give your wife a modern appliance, you're giving the rest of the family a gift, too.

Silver, China Rank High on Yule Gift List

Christmaside Over
Many Seasons

Meticulously-made gifts of sterling silver, delicate glassware and fine china continue to reflect the spirit of Christmas over many seasons. Selections include innumerable small items to fit any holiday budget.

Sterling silver sipping straws, a silver ring holder, cocktail picks, demi-tasse spoons, a bon bon dish and sculptured candle holders are among the variety of smaller gifts.

Sterling gifts are ideal for new home owners or a young girl adding to a hope chest. They're suitable, too, for those having established homes and an appreciation of "the finer things." For someone with a flatware service, select from the extra pieces—dessert spoons, cocktail forks, butter knives, sauce ladles, pie servers or sugar tongs.

Multiple Uses

A silver pitcher will serve as a decorative accessory as well as for beverages or the bowl for fruit or flower arrangements.

Crystal clear glass presents of sparkling decanters, small plates, punch cups, goblets or glittering bowls will grace any home. For those who prize fine vintages, select a half dozen wine glasses.

Colorful earthenware bowls will enhance buffet tables and other informal dining events. Decorative accessories, such as candy dishes, sterling ash

Center Club Shows Toys By Children

Neenah — Toys for children — and by children — were shown by the Eureka center club at the Christmas Fair held by the Winnebago County Homemakers in Oshkosh.

Simple bean bags in cat, dog, tomato and football designs, can be constructed by young children for their very own Christmas gifts. Simply find a pattern in a coloring book, cut two pieces, allowing enough for seams, stuff with dried beans and decorate with buttons for the face.

A huffing-puffing choo-choo train is cut from small cardboard pieces, glued together, and after it is painted, decorated and some cotton added to the chimney for smoke it's hard to differentiate from a professionally manufactured item.

A toy octopus of soft, pastel yarn requires one large hank of yarn, two buttons for eyes, ribbon for bows on the feet and neck and a crumpled piece of tissue paper to stuff the head.

The yarn is braided to form each leg and then tied with a bow. The head is a circular piece of yarn, stuffed and gathered at the base with a bow.

Use Left-Over Holiday Fowl In Casseroles

Oshkosh — Left over turkey or chicken from the Thanksgiving day dinner can be used in a variety of ways. Refrigerate the left-over meat, stripping the meat from the carcass and storing in small carefully wrapped meal-size units.

Hot turkey or chicken sandwiches can be served with cranberry relish. Creamed turkey may be served on hot, buttered rice or in a noodle and mushroom casserole.

Couple Says Marriage Vows in Catholic Rite

Mrs. Erhart Lang was matron of honor for the daughter of Mrs. Vernon Safford, Omro, and the late Mr. Safford, and Mr. Lang was the best man for the bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Wagner, Edgar, Wis. Kenneth Lang seated the wedding guests.

A family dinner at the Club Terrace followed the ceremony and after a honeymoon to Milwaukee the couple will live at 84 1/2 Milwaukee street. # Resident of Neenah Gives Modern Look To Christmas Tree

BY PATRICIA SCHULTZ
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Neenah — Decorating a Christmas tree is a somewhat frantic adventure in hanging glittering tinsel, rainbow-hued ornaments and twinkling rows of little multi-colored lights on an evergreen tree for the majority of Yuletide observers. This year's tree will be similar in appearance to that of last year, since it is a traditional rather than artistically creative endeavor.

For one Neenah resident, the annual Christmas tree is indeed an artistic production.

Ideas for its design are gathered long before the snow flurries, materials are purchased hither and yon and long hours are occupied by detailed work on the modern ornamentation. Each year the tree surpasses the ones preceding it.

"It has always been my hobby to have a different tree each year," says Fred Heidtke, 709 Congress street. Friends attest that his trees are creations and await his latest decoration, which is kept secret until a week or two before Christmas.

Misty Effect

Last year, Heidtke created a misty effect on a heavily flocked white tree. Red fabric roses were attached to leaf scrolls, constructed from florists' wire. Several pieces of aqua net were fluffed for the background of each rose. The net from the 75 to 80 rose clusters decorating the Scotch pine, created the over-all filmy illusion.

Trees in other years have included a gold sprayed evergreen decorated with heavy green ornaments and a white flocked tree adorned with clusters of pink grapes.

This year Heidtke also will decorate the tree in the lobby of the Marathon corporation, where he is employed. His position in the Floratope division of the corporation brings him in contact with cones and imported rose leading florists throughout the country and presents an opportunity to gather decorative materials for the trees on out-of-town business trips.

The job has stimulated his interest in creating modern design Christmas trees and from business associates ideas and suggestions are collected for possible future holiday uses.

Holiday decorations of della robia is another diversion of the talented man. Little artificial fruits, berries, nuts, and imported rose leaves are sealed with florists' tape and secured to a styrofoam base with a pick. Highlights of white on out-of-town business trips.

The styrofoam is available in slab, cone or circular form and can easily be cut with a sharp knife into various shapes. One della robia decoration of the Neenah designer is a tree which was displayed within a picture frame

PTA Holiday Fair

Neenah — Aprons, potholders and bonnets, Christmas caners, doll clothes, stuffed toys, table decorations and candy will be among the items offered for sale at the first "holiday fair" of Taft school Parent-Teacher association it co-presidents, have announced.

The fair and chili supper will be conducted from 5 to 7 p.m. that evening, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. O'Meara, PTA announced. Co-chairmen of the event are Mrs. Irving Peterson and Mrs. Don Wasinger, who head the unit ways and means committee. Sub-chairmen are Mrs. John Franchini, sewing; Mrs. Harold Taylor, knitting and crocheting; Mrs. Orville Keller, stuffed toys; and Mrs. Marshall Hanke, Christmas decorations. Mrs. Lawrence Kossel is in charge of the kitchen committee. The supper and bazaar is open to the public.

on the wall Heidtke is adding magnolia leaves to the tree edges this year to display the arrangement in a different manner.

Another tree was formed from a circular styrofoam shape covered with the miniature fruits and sprigs of lycodium, an evergreen material, and then anchored to a stick stalk. The "trunk" was secured in a flower container with florists' clay. Small della robia wreaths or cone trees are festive table centerpieces for the season.

Della robia "lasts forever," says Heidtke, although he advises the ornamentations should not be placed outdoors as low temperatures will crack the glaze on the tiny fruits.

Oklahoma Visitors

Neenah — Mr. and Mrs. William O. Dederling, Oklahoma City, Okla., visited for the past week at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Dederling, 605 Chestnut street. William is a geologist with an oil company in the Oklahoma - Kansas area.

Informal Rules Comprise Christmas Card Etiquette

Neenah—Now that Thanksgiving day turkeys are roasted and, for the most part, reduced to leftovers, addressing and mailing Christmas greetings is one of the important tasks facing most people.

Christmas cards will be more fun to write and to receive if a few simple rules of etiquette are followed. If writing personal notes, make them really personal. Tell friends about trips or projects being planned, new cars or homes and family news.

Cards with hand-written messages, however, require a four cent stamp and will be sorted and delivered first and forwarded or returned if the addressee has moved.

Red or green ink adds warmth and a holiday gaiety to Christmas messages and authorities say any color ink is right if it is used in harmony with Christmas card color schemes.

Careless handwriting can ruin the nicest and most thoughtfully selected cards. The so plenty of time should be set aside for writing and addressing yule salutations. Nothing in the address should be abbreviated except "Mr. and Mrs." as abbreviations are one of the chief sources of confusion to postal employees.

Vary Signatures

Signatures can be varied and given spirit to match that of the season. Names should be informally signed but complete enough to distinguish from others who have the same first names. If youngsters are included in a signature, and they should be, mention Dad's name first and the children's according to age.

Titles as Miss or Mr. are not correctly used in a signature unless the card is formal and the names engraved "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith."

Young children love to receive their very own Christmas cards and their names should be prefixed with "Miss" or "Mr." It is both proper and considerate to send holiday greetings to people in mourning. Religious cards or those emphasizing the spiritual values of the season are most appropriate. Courtesy and good taste dictate the manner in which a widow's or divorcee's name should be used, both in signing and addressing cards. It is customary for a widow to use the same name as when her husband was alive, as "Mrs. John Smith" however, a divorcee is known as "Mrs. Mary Smith" or "Mrs. Maiden-Name Smith."

And people who receive cards on Dec. 24 from friends whom they have forgotten or omitted from their mailing lists need not be embarrassed. Simply send a thoughtful little note or a gay New Year card.

Pair Repeat Promises At Rectory

Neenah — Texan L. Wojahn claimed Miss Patricia Ann Schultz as his bride Wednesday evening in a single ring ceremony in the rectory of St. Margaret Mary Catholic church. The Rev. James Craanen officiated at the rites for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Schultz, route 1, Neenah, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Wojahn, 717 Lincoln street, Menasha.

Maid of honor was Miss Janice Huhn and Frederick Jaehnig served as best man. A reception from 7 to 9 p.m. was held at the Whiting Boat house.

When they return from a southern Wisconsin honeymoon, the newlyweds will live at 993 S. Lake street.

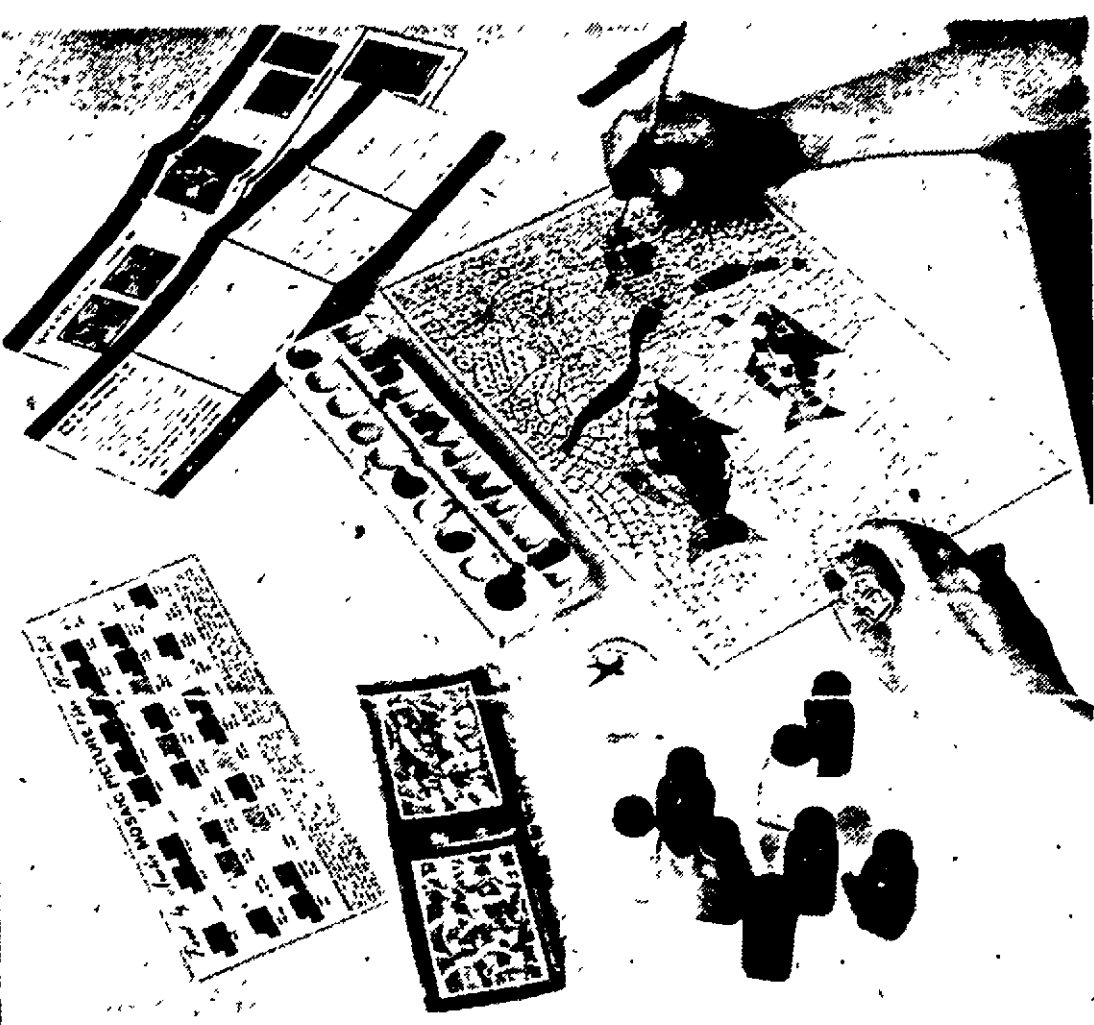

The former Miss Schultz is a graduate of Neenah High school and Prospect hall Secretarial school in Milwaukee. She is employed by the Bergstrom Paper company and the bridegroom, an alumnus of Menasha High school, works for the George Banta company.

Arlene Wyman, E. E. Schmidtke Are Married

Menasha — Trinity Lutheran church was the setting for the wedding at 10:15 a.m. today of Miss Arlene Wyman, 812 Broad street, and Elroy E. Schmidtke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Schmidtke, Plummer Harbor, Neenah. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wyman, 128 E. North Water street, Neenah.

The Rev. Walter E. Lichtsinn read the double ring rites in a private ceremony and the couple's only attendants were the bridegroom's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Westphal. A dinner is being served at the home of the bride and the newlyweds will live at 312 Van street, Neenah.

The former Miss Wyman is a graduate of Waupaca High school and the bridegroom attended Neenah High school and is employed at the Hardwood Products corporation.

Mosaic Art Is Enjoying popularity in this country and especially during the pre-Christmas season. Smart gift buyers have placed mosaic tile sets for children and adults, too, high on the shopping list. The gifts present an opportunity to express creativity and a delightful way to spend leisure hours. For a very personal gift at Christmas time, an already completed mosaic tile in one of numerous available patterns will show your interest to please. This picture illustrates the easy method in which designs are painted.

Tape Recorder Adds To Family Albums

Capturing Occasions Is Easy With Modern Machines; Materials are Tough, Durable

Memories of home life have a new dimension when sounds as well as snapshots and souvenirs are collected for the family album. The Christmas season is one when families appreciate most of all the ability to capture and preserve sound.

That's a discovery thousands of families are making with home magnetic tape recorders.

Playing back a recording of the joyful noises of Christmas morning re-creates the scene with a vividness and depth that bring back the actual spirit of the occasion.

Capturing family occasions in permanent recordings is simple with modern recorders and tapes. The machines are easy and inexpensive to operate. Microphones are sensitive enough to catch everything that goes on in an average room, and reproduction is lifelike.

Newest tapes—those made with a base of polyester film—are tough and durable enough for amateurs to use with ease. And they won't deteriorate regardless of storage conditions—a big advantage to the collector who looks forward to hearing 20 years from now today's tapes of his children's voices.

LP Tapes

Long - playing tapes with excellent performance are now on the market. Some of these will record or play back for over two hours without interruption at the 37-inch-per-second speed at which many machines operate.

A family's imagination is only a minute or two, they report, and after that his conversation is natural. Recording units are unobtrusive and silent.

Use of the recorder for family-album purposes doesn't interfere with the many other ways in which it provides enjoyment. Music lovers who bought the instruments because of their interest in that field find an added dividend in using them for storing up the family memories.

Recorders bought for educational or speech training purposes can be used for pleasure as well. Many recordists extend their interests beyond the family to preserve folklore, dialects and sounds of all descriptions.

Laundry Tip

Use the top of your clothes dryer as a folding and smoothing surface. The heat of the dryer aids in smoothing the clothes.

Your suits may be proper...but are they always fitting? If not, you need a "SPECIAL ORDER" from

Capps Clothes
FOR YOUNG MEN

For those who search for a suit which fits correctly, Capps has brought new hope in the form of a Special Order service. Face it! Some of us just weren't ready-made for ready-made clothing. Similarly, many men know what they want in a suit yet are never able to find it. Special Order is the answer. Pick from an extensive collection of fine fabrics and Capps does the rest, tailoring it to your exact measurements. Another "wonderful difference" is that the cost is very little more and it takes only two to three weeks. It's your finest assurance of being both "fitting and proper".

Every Dog Has His Day So Don't Forget Your Towser on Christmas

BY ALLAN EKVAL
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Every dog has its day, according to the saying, and it might as well be Christmas day.

When out shopping for presents, don't forget Fido, Prince, Champ, Queenie, Towser, Buttons, or whatever name you have given that purebred or "all-American" back home. Pet shops and others stores with a section devoted to the animal trade have a wide range of possible gifts, ranging from toy bones to deodorants.

If Fido needs a new leash—and leashes are necessary when walking the dog—they come in leather, chain or plastic. You can tie the puppy outside with a long chain and a wedge-shaped rod or a thick spiral picket pin that won't pull out during chases after the neighbor boy.

Dogs are unable to read, but they can have their own personalized towels, rugs, beds, coats, mats or dishes.

Heated Dog Houses

Dog houses can be bought that are standard, collapsible and disposable or heated. One company offers a heated dog house with an electric cord that can be plugged into a socket to keep the dog warm on winter nights—assuming the dog is one that sleeps outside.

If the dog sleeps inside and on the davenport when the rest of the family is in bed, there is a spray for the davenport to keep him away.

The collapsible dog houses are built of strong corrugated paperboard, easily set up, giving the dog a place to stay

Industrial Loop Champs Upset In First Tilt

Company I Wins in Overtime; on Gift Tosses by Wisneski

Neenah — Defending champion Bergstrom Paper was upset in an overtime by Company I 42 to 40 as the industrial league got underway at the Roosevelt gym Wednesday night.

Neenah Paper bested Headquarters Company 49 to 43 and Main Office topped Lakeview Converters 49 to 35 in a first tilt.

when the family goes visiting. When setup, it looks like a cabin.

There are various size travel cages for the dog in case it should go by train or plane.

Doggie also could be given booties to keep his feet dry on winter days when going for a walk. The booties are helpful for the dog, but even more so for keeping the rugs and furniture free from wet, muddy footprints.

The family pet may be kept clean in a vast number of ways by using Christmas gifts. There are pressure foam sprays, dry powders to brush on the dog, flea bombs, cloths impregnated with chemicals that clean the dog while wiping him, brushes of various types, combs and chlorophyll pills to hide that doggy odor. Towser even can have his own bath tub.

Rhinestone Collars

After he is cleaned and dried with his own special towel, he can have a rhinestone studded collar, put around his neck—all ready for the dogshow.

Toys always make a good Christmas gift for that extra member of the family. Chewy dog shoes, rubber cats, rats or rabbits with a strong impregnated smell or a squeaker inside, sterilized natural bones, rubber crackle bones, dumbbells and cat heads that say "meow," web animals and an indescribable number of other playthings are in Fox Cities stores.

Share Honors

Smith and Kosorek each had 17 points for Neenah Paper in its win over Headquarters. Headquarters led 8-6 and 24-20 but at the end of three periods the lead was shaved to 33-32 and the Paper team rolled for 17 points in the last quarter to 10 for Headquarters. Headquarters scoring was well divided.

Main Office got off to a 12-3 lead over Lakeview Converters but at the halftime rest the score was tied at 16-16. Main Office pulled away handily in the last half. Brisco had 22 points to lead Main Office and pace all scorers for the night. Burghardt added 15. Page had 13 points for the losers.

British Laborite Concerned About Advertising

London — British advertising has come through its first parliamentary test. But the man who worries over the way it goes about selling everything from soap to minifature trees is disappointed.

Laborite Francis Noel-Baker had hoped for a government inquiry into what he terms "the increasing power of the advertising industry and its influence on our national life."

He called for it in a formal motion in the house of commons.

The motion set off five hours of talk but no vote.

The lack of a vote meant the motion was shelved at least temporarily. But as far as Noel-Baker is concerned, it meant Britain is threatened with "what happened in America," as he put it.

"Do we want to become a nation boosted by drugs in the morning, tranquilized in the afternoon and put to sleep by hypnotics at night?" he asked.

Mediator Delays Chicago Strike Of Pie Bakers

Chicago—A federal mediator who never eats pie delayed a strike of 450 pie bakers Tuesday.

So, nearly a million pies, mostly pumpkin and mince, will be available for Thanksgiving dinners in the Chicago area.

Peter Carbonara, bakers union president, said after 15 consecutive hours of negotiations in the wage dispute with five major companies he decided to go along with the membership vote and call a strike.

But, he said, William G. Murray, a commissioner with the federal mediation and conciliation service, interceded.

Carbonara said Murray convinced union officials that "Thanksgiving would be just another day without pumpkin and mince meat pie on the table," and the walkout was delayed.

"I'm surprised to hear that Murray doesn't eat pie," Carbonara said. "From the way he drooled when he argued against a strike at such a crucial time, I thought he must love pie."

He said the union and company officials would resume negotiations Friday—the day after Thanksgiving. The pie bakers, Carbonara said, want their wages increased from the present scale of $1.85 to $2 an hour to $2.10 or $2.27 an hour.

As dazzling as the lights on a Christmas tree are the holiday jewelry pieces being displayed in Fox Cities shops.

The fashion-conscious Christmas belle will love a multi-strand gold chain with a matching bracelet. Both have wide buckle-type closing and gold-colored stones and can be fastened interchangeably.

Many narrow silver bracelets are joined together to form a smart bracelet, which will enhance sports or street clothes. Wide, silver slave bracelets, some with hinged closings, are popular with college coeds as well as career girls.

Shantung Finish

Crystal earrings, bracelets and chains are sure to please any feminine names on Santa's list. The cut of the beads determines the sparkle and one particularly fine cut reflects so many light rays it looks like a rainbow in motion.

Shantung-finish gold jewelry pieces are popular this season. The metal is dulled, giving it a fine, silky appearance which lends itself to beautiful designs, such as bow pins, link necklaces and earrings and wide bracelets.

Cultured pearl, 10-karat gold chains are a much-cherished gift and are available either with a single pearl or the add-a-pearl style. Cocktail rings of synthetic blue, rose, green, yellow and tan stones are a welcome addition to any woman's jewelry collection. Pearl and gold rings are the best-selling style and are versatile enough to be worn with almost any ensemble.

A must for a grandmother is a bracelet with discs engraved with the name and birth date of each grandchild and any doting "grandma" who doesn't already proudly wear one would be happy to receive it at Christmas.

Xmas Edition
Pins are an adaptable and attractive jewelry selection and are designed in a number of striking shapes and sizes. Leaf designs, some of brushed or shantung gold, silver plate, or white gold encrusted with marquis and round rhinestones, are lovely and look equally well on a suit or black jersey dress.

Inter-twined circle pins, called engine-turned jewelry are usually designed and sure-to-please gift choices. Charm bracelets of heavy colored pieces, dangling from thick, silver link chains are popular among the younger set especially.

Watch Gifts

Lucky the lady who receives a Christmas watch to cherish for many years to come. Newest in feminine time pieces are watches with lightly colored crystals and tinted bands to match. Swiss produced watches available in white or yellow gold are jewelry pieces and have fine, efficient mechanisms.

Sport watches are popular with active, outdoor women

Model Kits Welcome Toy For Children

Youngsters Able to Construct Anything
With Plastic Models

Model-making has become a major sport over the last few years. It's apparently the advent of easy-to-build plastic kits which swung the mass of children into it, although there have been model-making kits for sales for years.

You can build a model of almost anything, including people. You can have a World War I, II or III air force, navy or weapons. If your youngster wants guns that can't possibly hurt anything, even when swung like a club, there are plastic gun kits.

Gone are the days of long sanding to templates to get an airplane's parts to the correct shape. Plastic model kits are so simple to assemble that even adults can do it. And the plastic models are more realistic than any of the results from balsa wood some of us built in our younger days.

Realism, Too
For instance, along the sides of a plane you can see rivets, but we could never get them very real-looking on wood. In the plastic kits, the rivets are there and so are lots of other details.

You can build models of the family car, boats, sailing ships, rocket ships of today and tomorrow — just about anything.

It's an inexpensive gift and one which will keep the young-and nurses or other professional people who require a second-hand on their jobs. Even these are designed with more of a feminine touch than they once had and are shown with a variety of bands.

Rhinestone link watchbands clip easily onto dainty watches and can be worn to the most elegant dinner or cocktail parties. A black and gold combination link band expands to fit the wrist.

One newly styled expansion watchband holds the watch at an angle for easy time-viewing and is shown in yellow or white gold.

sters occupied. And, as often as not, father may join the building, which really makes model kits almost a family affair.

Complicated Kits

Of course, there are still wood kits and gas models, planes, boats and cars, for youngsters who want to get their teeth into a project.

These get more expensive, but the kits can teach principles of flight and propulsion.

You can even buy rocket and jet motors for models.

If your youngster has a train, he might find it fascinating to add to his string of cars or engines by building them from kits. Many are easy, and instructions are clear.

Probably the strongest field for railroading models is in the HO size, where kits abound. This is a real size anyway, since it takes up less space. Until the layout spreads over the house that is.

What They Say

Here's what automatic dishwasher users say: Fewer dishes and glasses broken, fewer tea towels needed, hot water saved because dishes are done fewer times a day.

Ann Replies to 'Suspicious' Reader Who Knocks Column

ANN LANDERS
 DEAR ANN LANDERS: Kind of a column are you writing anyway? What sort of man does son have before he wrote in the paper? I wrote a very le letter weeks ago signed it r r i e d e w l e . I get into Ann Landers per? No, it did not. you print silly stuff a teenage girl who $10 on a sport shirt for y friend. When I read tier from the girl who f-to know who should e glasses when kissing, y or the girl, I really l up. why do you ask readers ir names and address- hat do you do with? Why not give all the in the paper? While at it, will you tell me you do with the letters- you've finished reading- -Suspicious or Suspicious: It would ively if everyone who wrote could get his letter and answer in the paper, but it isn't possible. Would you wade through 600 letters and answers daily in your paper? Well neither would anyone else. And of course no newspaper could print this load.

 This means I decide which letters are to be printed and the others must get their advice in the mail. A letter needn't be earth-shaking to get in print. I often select a letter because it has wide appeal or one that illustrates a good moral principle.
 I don't ask people for their names and addresses. I request that they enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope so I can send the advice in the mail. All letters are destroyed the moment I have finished with them. Relax.
 DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a widow with two small children. I've been dating a divorced man who also has two little ones. Last Sunday I had a dinner party and invited the gentleman. He asked if he could bring his children and I said yes.

 When he arrived I was shocked. He also brought his housekeeper—a brassy-haired woman who was embarrassingly overdressed for the occasion. I did my best to be gracious but I know I failed to conceal my discomfort.
 She sat with the invited guests and I didn't know how to introduce her or whether to bring her into the conversation. She made no attempt to watch the children, and with four of them, they could have used some supervision.
 I like the man and I don't want him to think I'm a snob. At the same time, I don't wish to be put in this position again. Did he commit a social blunder or am I being supercritical?—Del D.
 This was more than a social blunder. Your friend displayed a frightful lack of judgment.
 If the gentleman enjoys the housekeeper's company, he should entertain her himself and not bring her, uninvited and unannounced to a dinner party. By all means

Jap Critic Expresses Sympathy for U. S. Race Problem Plight

Tokyo — A caustic Japanese critic of the United States has expressed sympathy for America's efforts to solve its Negro problem.
 Ashihei Hino, Japanese novelist just returned from a 2-month trip to the United States, said he saw improvement in the status of Negroes in many places, including Little Rock.
 In an article in the news-record for crime, ignorance and uncleanness, is bound to exist and sisters in Okinawa. He also ridicules punishment of low ranking Japanese soldiers writings that the United States diers for war crimes.

Girl in Iron Lung Attends College, Asks for No Favors

Winston-Salem, N. C. — To some of her Wake Forest College classmates Martha Mason is the "intelligent, responsive" voice in the little gray box that sits on the professor's desk.

To others she is a gracious girl with more courage than a daylight burglar; a girl who can do practically nothing with her body but an "awful lot with her brain."

To thousands of North Carolina she is simply "the scholar in the iron lung."

Until 1948 Martha had no claim to distinction. She lived in the small town of Lattimore and walked or ran the several blocks to school with the other youngsters.

In 1948 — just after finishing the fifth grade — infantile paralysis killed her only brother and left her an invalid, dependent for life on a throbbing, cream-colored cylinder.

Whatever pieces were left for an 11-year-old girl and began willing her way toward an education. Today she is two years away from her bachelor's degree and she hopes not too many years away from a career as a writer.

Since 1948 she has gone to school the hard way, helped by a devoted mother and father, a number of Lattimore school teachers and the miracles of modern communication.

Grammar grade and high school teachers in Lattimore came to her room daily until she's feeling above par. Otherwise it's for a shorter time. Some days she's in it all the time.

With an iron lung her permanent home, she picked up

South West North East
1 D 1 S 2 D Pass
2 S Pass 3 C Pass
6 D Pass Pass Pass

The slam contract was not ideal, judged on the precise spot cards in the North-South heart suit, but criticism of the bidding would be capricious. Each individual call made by North and South was logical.

West selected what seemed to be the safest, his top club. The ace was played from dummy; then declarer drew two rounds of trumps and cashed his other clubs, discarding a spade from the board. He next cashed the ace of spades and ruffed his low spade — then had to decide how to attack the heart suit.

There was a temptation, of course, to play West for both of the missing heart honors, since he had done the only bidding on his side. If West had the guarded K-Q of hearts it would be easy to hold him to one trick: South could simply lead the heart ten and pass it, or lead low to the jack. After West took the trick he would have to return a heart to the North-South tenace, or a black card which would give declarer a ruff-and-discard.

After long thought, however, South concluded that West did not have both heart honors. If he had held them, South reasoned, West would have opened the heart king instead of leading a club into what might be a solid North-South suit. So South used a different maneuver: he cashed the ace of hearts and led the deuce — and the defenders were helpless.

More Appleton Women Work; Hold Positions In Many Industries

Post-Crescent News Service

New York — Year by year, more women in Appleton are taking jobs in industry, challenging the old adage "Woman's place is in the home."

In stores, in factories, in restaurants, in the professions, and in virtually every other occupation, "women at work" is the order of the day.

Latest government reports show that 32.4 percent of the local female population above the age of 14 is in the labor force.

This is high in comparison with the proportion of working women elsewhere in the United States, an average of 23.9 percent. In the east north central states it is 29 percent.

In Appleton, the latest official count showed, 31.4 percent of all jobs were held by women.

For the United States, the ratio was 27.4 percent and, for the east north central states, 26.9 percent.

"Womanpower"

The data is based on a survey called "Womanpower," made by the National Manpower council, as well as on studies by the department of commerce and by the department of labor.

The last census showed that there were 4,450 women in the Appleton labor force out of a total female population, over 14, of 13,719. Since then there has been a marked increase, chiefly in the proportion of married women with outside jobs.

This large-scale entry of married women into the labor market is seen as a social revolution—a clean break with past restrictions.

Modern Devices

What caused it and what made it possible? Because of modern labor-saving devices, she no longer requires as large a part of the day for her chores. Running the home and preparing the meals, thanks to ready-cooked foods, go quickly.

As a result, with time on her hands, she will take a job. In many cases it will be to help meet increasing family expenses. In other instances, it will be to live a little better—to afford those extra luxuries.

But often it is merely because she wants to. Working satisfies her vocational urge and gives her stimulus and companionship during part of the daytime.

The public acceptance of labor force.

The Christmas stocking, hung on the mantelpiece, is usually the first thing to be opened on Christmas morning, before the serious unwrapping begins. Though Christmas is traditionally for children, it's only fair for Mom and Dad to have their own stockings, too, gaily decorated and filled with silly surprises.

Here's a gift to give ahead of time, or to make up for Christmas bazaar. Felt Christmas stockings couldn't be easier to make, and a pattern isn't necessary, say local sewing center experts.

Just cut red felt to stocking shapes, using a pair of pinky shears and making Dad's the largest, with others graduated according to size. The real fun comes in decorating the stockings. Put a Christmas tree on Dad's or decorate it with felt cutouts of pipes, guns or whatever he likes best. Also, you can sew on strips of rickrack and squares of contrasting felt to simulate an overgrown argyle sock.

Correction

The call letters of teenager Rick Priebe's 1-boy neighborhood radio station are WAPY, not WAPL, as incorrectly printed in Wednesday's story of the Appleton boy's trip to Nashville, Tenn., and the annual Country Music Festival.

Women's Luggage Is More stylish than men's styles, as these bags trimmed in lighter colors show. The shapes differ. Witness the semi-hatbox type atop the medium bag. Shape of women's luggage, as shown by the rounded contours of this matching set, adds interest to the traveling wardrobe.

Designing Woman

BY ELIZABETH HILLYER

Plot Washability for the Teen-Ager's Room

Both you and your teenager like washables for her to wear, the more easily washable and least iron-demanding the better. Plot the same easy care for her room. It isn't enough that her curtains launder fresh as a party dress. There's the much harder-to-handle bedspread to think about, and it must be one that has style enough to suit her. There's a rug to consider, and covers on upholstered furniture.

Never miss a chance to take advantage of the easy care of the latest fabrics serve up so handsomely. There's even encouragement for the young girl's budding homemaker instincts in seeing how pretty her room can be without drudgery to take care of it. In this room, the snarled striped dachon and cotton bedspread as well as the white curtains wash easily and drip-dry with no ironing. The nylon rug and the nylon tweed cover on the armless chair, both sturdy enough to stand up to all teenage traffic, can be quickly spot-cleaned with warm water and soap or detergent suds. (Bedspread by Nettie Creek Industries, DuPont nylon rug by Cabin Craft. (Copyright, 1958)

Say 'Merry Christmas' With Books at Yuletide

BY LILLIAN MACKESY

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Books are a Christmas shopper's best friend.

The family who owns a collection always wants more... the family who has none will be flattered to get one... buying a book for a child is giving him a ticket to the moon or a nudge to his future.

There are books full of good words; there are books to make one merry and books to make one wise. There are chuckle books for entertaining reading, books to treasure and fact books to reply upon for information when it's needed.

Here are but a few titles from which to choose, including special holiday issues that are oversized and especially illustrated to make a wonderful Christmas gift.

"Great Historic Places," tells in words and pictures the story of America. "Life Picture Cook Book" will delight the woman who likes her kitchen work. For the art lover, there's the "Treasury of Art Pieces" and the young scientist in the grade school set will like "Exploring the Universe" or one of the many other books with a scientific bent.

For Teenagers
If there's a teenager on the list don't pass by this new one that will be welcome, "Twist Twelve and Twenty," by Pat Boone. Another special Christmas edition for young readers is Rachel Carson's "The Sea Around Us."

"Wedermyer Reports" is an objective examination of World War II, post war policies and grand strategy as seen by an army man. Peter Buckley's "Bullfight" is a re-creation of the action, theory and drama of the bull ring. Six books are in the "Story of Civilization" series by Will Durant. Each book may be purchased separately and the series include "Our Oriental Heritage," "The Life of Greece," "Caesar and Christ," "The Age of Faith," "The Renaissance," and "The Reformation."

A 3 - volume set for the sports loving man is a collection of classics in sports fiction—from Kipling to Hemingway, Maugham to Runyon, Tolstoy the Thurber. These are the best, with every sport accounted for in 32 stories, excerpts from 12 novels, three complete novelettes and the complete novel on baseball, "Bang the Drum Slowly," by Mark Harris.

Humorous Books
Among the many humor titles is "Bed and Bored," by Lawrence Lariar. This is a collection of 1,000 picture puzzles for impatient patients.

Annulment, Two Divorces Granted In Circuit Court

Two divorces and an annulment have been granted in circuit court.

Mrs. Marion Smith, 30, 519 Whitney street, Kaukauna, was granted an annulment of her marriage to Harold B. Smith, 34, Chicago, on the grounds that he was not competent to contract marriage. She was allowed to resume her maiden name, Belongia. The couple was married Oct. 14, 1950, in Kaukauna.

Raymond Christensen, 32, 102 E. Northland avenue, received an absolute divorce from Elizabeth Christensen, 27, Racine, on his grounds of desertion. ### Stores Scurry To Retrieve Voodoo Dolls

City, State, Federal Health Authorities Warn of Dangers

The few Fox Cities stores which sold the dangerous Haitian voodoo doll novelties have been scurrying the last several days to retrieve them.

A Neenah businessman said he'd collected all the dolls sold in his store and, in each case, they were being used to decorate flower displays.

The dolls are carved from cashew nut shells on the island of Haiti and generally are used as beverage swizzle sticks and novelties.

Bulletins earlier this week from state and federal health authorities caused Appleton Mayor Mitchell to order his city's health department to notify all novelty shops and taverns of the danger.

Lethal 'Eyes'
Federal public health tests at Cincinnati, the health officials said, showed cashew nut shells produced blistering skin within 35 to 50 minutes of contact. They contain a liquid similar to that which produces poison ivy.

"Possibly even more dangerous," says one bulletin "are the dolls' 'eyes,' which are believed to be lethal jequirity beans."

Tests at Atlanta, Ga., resulted in assurances from the Haitian government that no more of the novelties will be sent into the United States.

Trouble is confined to dolls made of cashew-nut shells, not those made of coffee beans, which look similar.

Holidays Occasion For Display of Art, Skill in Culinary

By Evelyn Stollenberg

Scandinavia — The holidays are nothing if not an occasion for festive eating. The display of culinary arts and the preparations Scandinavian families make to create the display are, in no small part, the reason for their importance.

In this Waupaca county village, as in many communities of predominantly Scandinavian citizenry, annual suppers serve to whet appetites for Old World — flavored holiday meals.

The Norwegian supper at the Scandinavia Lutheran church is a community occasion each year, drawing visitors from afar and enlisting most of the village cooks.

The menu of lutefisk, lefse, potatoes, meatballs and Norwegian pastries has a strong Norwegian flavor, but its drawing power has been proved—since 1917 and in each of the last several years more than 1,000 persons have taken advantage of the annual affair.

The Norwegian supper has been an annual affair for 41 years with the exception of the war years, when butter shortage and rationing prevented the cooks from doing their best and the suppers were cancelled.

Dishes served at the supper have special holiday importance to Scandinavians and some of the dishes, such as lutefisk, actually disappear from the butcher shops after Christmas.

Massive Undertaking Of course, cooking for the supper is a massive undertaking. Seven women spent three hours cutting the 900 pounds of fish into serving pieces and some 200 pounds of meat were used for the meatballs.

However, the cooks failed to get their fill of handling the dishes and many of them are busy preparing less ambitious quantities for their families and selected, lucky friends.

lease for memories. The traditional manner in which the dishes are prepared is a matter of family lore.

Not Cod Fish

One woman, whose mother was a caterer in Norway, debunks any idea lutefisk is made of codfish.

“Why, when the lutefisk wasn't exactly as it should be,” she recalls, “Mother would scornfully say, ‘This is only codfish!’”

The proper material for the prize dish is torsk, found in the far northern ocean waters around Norway. It is not a white fish but has a yellowish tinge to its flesh.

For the literal minded, lutefisk can be translated to lye fish and that ingredient is used in treatment of the dish. After the extensive preparation, the fish is cooked in water and then served with melted butter which connoisseurs claim gives it its special flavor. Like popcorn, they say, lutefisk depends on the quality of the melted butter.

Use Dairy Products In fact, butter and other dairy products, such as eggs and cream, are the basis of Norwegian cooking, which uses little if any spice or flavoring.

Although substitute spreads are not legislated against, real Norwegian gourmets frown on their use and can detect the difference in flavor.

One exception to the anti-spice attitude is found in the preparation of Norwegian meatballs. For the supper the butcher prepared 200 pounds of meat, 190 pounds of beef and 10 pounds of pork. The morning of the supper 16 women divided the meat and finished the preparation for cooking with 14 quarts of milk and 14 quarts of ‘half and half’ and eight loaves of bread.

Norwegian Meatballs 5 pounds of meat (mostly beef with a little pork) ground three or four times.

1 quart milk.

Small amount of clove and ginger. (Some prefer all-spice and nutmeg)

Mix together, form into balls, brown slightly and drop into boiling beef broth and simmer until well done.

Some cooks feel it is not necessary to brown the meatballs before simmer. The simmer for the big meal took from 2 1/2 to 3 hours.

In the staple department for the supper the women prepared seven bushels of rutabagas and peeled 500 pounds of potatoes.

Lefse

3 cups of rice potatoes

1 cup flour

1 teaspoon salt

The ingredients are mixed together and dough is rolled into large flat cakes. The Gurholt sisters alternated two rolling pins to keep the surfaces from sticking. They baked the flat, pancake on an old wood range. They say their children can tell when they use an electric range and they prefer the wood range because they can make the lefse bigger.

For the supper the lefse sheets were cut into serving pieces.

The real attraction at the Norwegian supper and any Scandinavian table during the holidays is the array of “real” Many of the pastries are made in irons or forms that have been handed down in families for years. The krum kaka and sandbakkell are examples of these form made cookies.

Krum Kaka

1 cup sugar

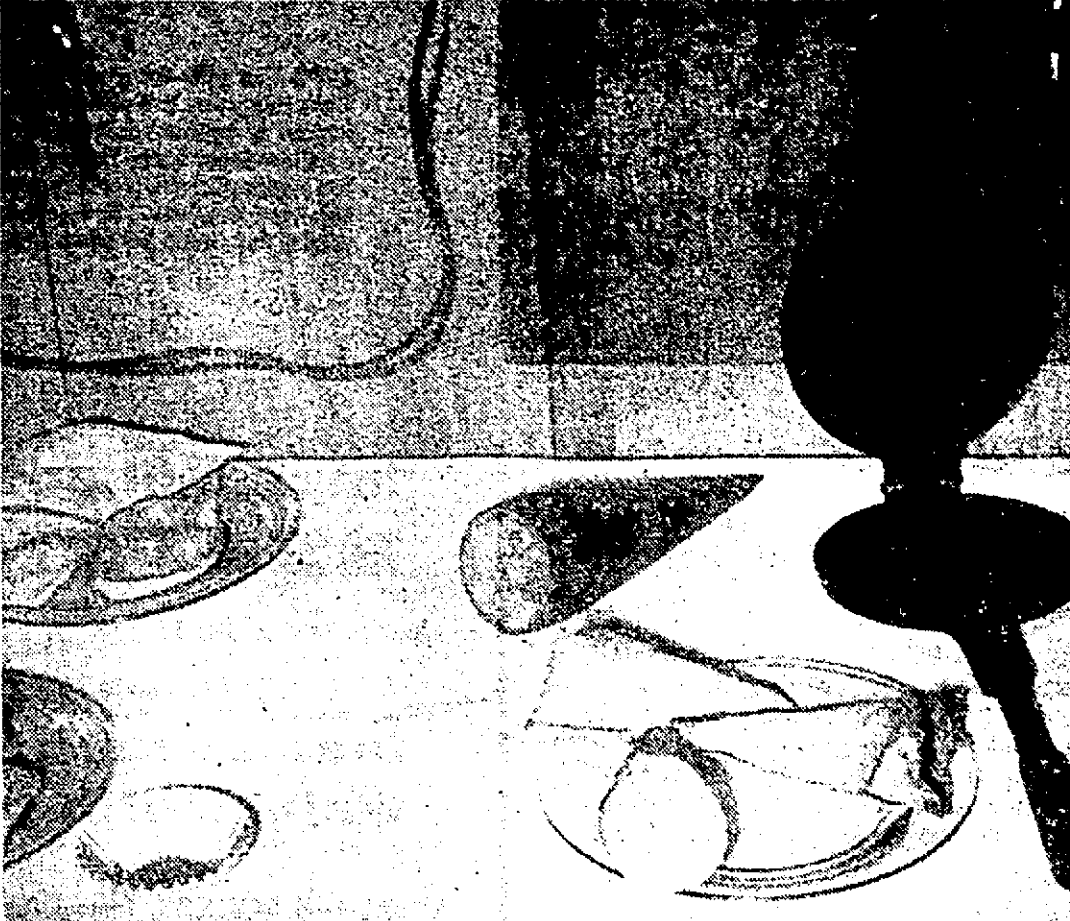

1 cup melted butter

1 cup sweet cream

1 1/2 cups flour

Beat egg yolks, add sugar, butter, cream and flour, then whites of eggs. Drop small amount of batter onto Krum Kaka iron to bake and shape into cone or cylinder while still hot.

Sandbakkells

1 cup brown sugar

1 cup white sugar

1 cup lard

1 cup butter

1 egg plus yolk of another

2 cups flour

Beat slightly, pat into sandbakkell tins and bake in moderate oven.

Fattigmand

4 tablespoons rich cream

4 tablespoons sugar

1 teaspoon brandy

Pinch of salt

1/2 teaspoon cardamon

Flour, enough to roll thin

Chill dough in cool place, add egg yolks and flour and roll thin, cut into diamond shaped pieces and fry in deep fat and drain on paper.

Rosettes

1 cup sifted flour

1/2 teaspoon salt

1 cup milk

2 eggs

1 scant tablespoon olive oil

1 tablespoon sugar

Mix and sift dry ingredients, gradually stir in slightly beaten eggs, milk and oil, beating only until smooth. Strain and let stand one hour. Dip rosette or patty iron into hot lard then into batter, careful not to allow the batter to come over top of iron. Then dip it into hot lard to fry until brown. Remove from iron and dip into sugar. Be careful not to beat eggs too much.

Berliner Kranser

1 cup butter

1 cup sugar

2 egg yolks

2 cups flour

Cream butter and sugar, add egg yolks and flour and chill thoroughly. Roll a small piece of dough to the thickness of a lead pencil and shape into small loop. Dip into unbeaten egg whites then into cinnamon and sugar and bake.

Sports Gear Popular Gift For Women

For the true sportswoman, perhaps no other gift will arouse her enthusiasm more than additional equipment or tools in her interest field. Sporting goods stores have a wide stock of items this season, including imported articles in clothing.

Skiing, fast becoming a sporting pastime for more and more people, affords many ideas in the gift department. Ski goggles with interchangeable lens for varying snow conditions, warm scarves, bright hued mittens and hoods, are part of the necessary equipment.

Bulky knit sweaters with decorative stitching in plain or geometric designs meet the needs of all winter sports pursuers.

Archery, rapidly gaining favor in this area, provides gift opportunities, too. Arm-vested in fishing or hunting equipment and tennis rackets and target faces are suitable. Plastics and other new materials are found in the bow selection.

Looking ahead to warmer weather, select fins, oxygen tank or a mask for the skin balls and bags, badminton and croquet sets, table tennis equipment and tennis rackets guards, shooting tabs, arrows, sporting goods departments and balls.

Eyes Sparkle at Gifts of Lovely Lingerie

Choose Matching Sets
In Slips, Nightgowns,
All Deep Color Tones

BY SUSAN PARKER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A Christmas gift appreciated by the young Miss or the Mrs. is lively lingerie. A woman oftentimes will not delve into the luxurious in lingerie when she is buying for herself, but notice how her eyes sparkle when she opens a Christmas gift to find dainty slips, filmy nighties and peniors or smart looking robes or lounging sets. With continental influence in fashions for outerwear, lingerie designers have created slips and petticoats to match new style lines. For the trapeze they produced the cami-sole top and flared petticoat from net and pella. For the majority of the sheath and straight-lined dresses, a chemise slip or tailored slim-lined slip and half-slip are available.

Marvelous for the winter season—particularly around holiday time—are coordinates in the slip, half-slip, panties and bra. The slips for the most part are very trim-looking in the usual pastel shades, but for holiday wear dark tones of red, blue, brown, black and green are featured.

The full-length slip has a lovely lace embroidered top and simple lace below, eliminating the usual ruffled or flounced lace hemline. With the new styles, it is very important that the slips do have this ungarthered lace hemline.

Color Contrast
The pastel tones or deep tones in nylon tricot or taffeta feature a contrast in color with embroidery a shade lighter or darker than the slip material. What could be prettier under that red cocktail dress than a red slip with a deeper red border of lace?

Another feature in lingerie is that the lace or other embroidery is now backed. The trend is away from extremely sheer in slips or sleepwear, which is ideal for the more conservative woman.

The latest fashion news in negligees is the "shift." Popular are the 2-piece baby doll sets for the high school or college girl or the knee-length, waltz-length or full-length styles.

A matching set in night-time lingerie would go to the top of any husband's list. It includes the 2-piece baby doll set, the waltz or knee length gown and the peignoir. These ensembles come in nylon tricot or lace in the pastel shades or in black. However, for holiday time the new shades of red would offer a particularly delightful gift.

Lounging Sets
For the sophisticated female, Fox Cities stores are showing numerous lounging outfits which include jackets in a chiffon quilted fabric, polished cotton, tulle, corduroy and satin finished cottons. There are an infinite variety of jacket styles to meet any taste. The pants are either, mid-calf or full-length, tapered, below the knee for maximum comfort.

One of these new lounging sets in corduroy is designed for around-the-house wear and for very casual outdoor wear or morning coffee break at your neighbor's house. Strictly for lounging and sleeping are the new quilted carcoats in the deep tones in nylon tricot. The boxy jacket is completed with matching pajamas.

From the short lounging coat the styles lengthen to the duster and long robe, the latter just coming back into style. These feature the straight-line front, detailed or full back in the chemise and trapeze lines.

Novelty P.J.'s
A smart-looking duster is one in a fleece material, striped in the brown shades, straight-lined, pointed collar and three-quarter length sleeves. Best of all, it can be belted and then has the appearance of a very casual dress. This would be a marvelous gift for the woman who wants to look her best in the early morning.

The young miss and college girl like the new and the novelty in p.j.'s. Anyone can

Stockings Part Of Tradition At Christmas

Size Not Factor With Socks Made From Stretch Yarn

The stocking hung by a fireplace is part of the great Christmas tradition, and socks placed under the Christmas tree are an equally well observed rite.

Size is no longer a factor in the giving of men's socks now that those wonderful stretch yarns are being used, so you can select his favorite colors and patterns with complete confidence.

Select subdued color ribs for wear with business and dress outfits. These may be decorated with colored clocks or even small patterned side panels.

Bolder Patterns
For sportswear, choose the brighter colors and bolder patterns such as diamonds and argyles. Spiral stripes and big bulky knits for wear with the very popular big knit sweat-ers, are good casual socks.

Full length socks that are self-supporting and rise to a height just under the knee are becoming more and more popular. They are warmer and don't reveal any leg when a fellow is seated. Other high socks are specially knitted to give support and these are a boon to the man who spends much of his time on his feet. They come in a full range of colors, too.

have fun making a selection for a Christmas gift from the wide range of pajama sets. The bermuda short bottoms are topped with all sorts of snappy looking blouses, pull-overs and jackets in cotton, corduroy and cotton flannel. There are midly tops, ivy-league shirts, sailor collared tops, ski sweater fashioned pull-overs and the more feminine blouses with ruffles at the neck and wrists.

Coming in many colors and figures, these p.j. ensembles are sure to make a hit with any fun-loving and fashion-conscious young lady. Whether your gift selection is in slips, nightgowns, lounging sets or pajamas the ideal choice is a matching set in the new holiday colors:

Lovely and Delicate-Looking Lingerie will be the delight of any woman who receives it as a Christmas gift. At left is a fleecy wool duster in beige and brown stripe. The wide cinch belt can be removed to let the house coat hang in a boxy fashion. Next is a lounging set which can be worn outdoors. It has a striped corduroy midly top and black tapered slacks. In the center is a tricolored blue lace penior in the "shift" style. At the bottom left is the knee-length lace shift nightie and above it is the waltz-length lace nightgown to complete the ensemble. At the upper right is a matching half-slip and pantie set with the lace in a deeper shade of gray than the gray nylon tricot. At right is the new style in slips, which features a straight border of lace. The slip can be purchased in a variety of deep tones, such as red.

Amazon Forests

Delectable Brazil Nut Difficult to Harvest

Royalton — The ease of harvesting nuts in Waupaca county and the apparent joy of the task as immortalized in Elizabethan song is a far cry from the gathering of that Christmas favorite, the Brazil nut.

The delectable white meat of the orange-slice shaped nut is made available only after extreme hardships. The Brazil nut is found only in the forests of the Amazon river in that country in South America. Only a few of the millions of the trees are accessible for harvesting. The rest are in impenetrable forests.

Monarchs of Forest

Even the harvestable trees pose problems. They are monarchs of the forests, growing to heights of 150 feet. The tree base measures some six feet in diameter and there are no limbs until the giant ground for oil for cooking and towers above neighboring burning.

trees. It is impossible to climb.

Close Packed Segments

High winds bring down the pods in showers deadly as a fusilage of bullets for anyone unlucky enough to be caught beneath the trees.

So tough is the Brazil nut pod shell, native Brazilian Indians use the pods for cooking and eating utensils.

Each pod contains from 12 to 25 nuts packed closely together like segments of an orange. The meat is also used for oil for cooking and towers above neighboring burning.

The harvester also must brave the vicious reptiles, to Europe since the 16th century, but only recently have fowl, animal and even fish been found in the forest and Brazilian markets been found for the nut.

Jays Nip Terrors, 66-64, In Two-Overtime Thriller

Ristau's FG Breaks Deadlock

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Menasha High basketball fans were giving thanks today for one of the most thrilling wins in the school's long and noble cage history, a 66-64 double overtime triumph over Appleton Wednesday night.

Sophomore Dave Ristau poured in a rebound basket with seven seconds to go in the second extra period for the winning margin in the sizzling 1 hour, 45 minutes marathon.

The smallest crowd in some time at the Terror gym, far below capacity, saw an affair which—for sustained excitement—it will take a long time to duplicate.

Shave Deficit In capturing their first victory in three 1958-59 starts, the Jays shaved their deficit in their modern-era rivalry with Appleton to 8-6. Menasha opens its Mid-Eastern conference campaign at Kimberly Friday night.

The Terrors have over a week to regain their strength before opening the Fox River Valley conference campaign at home against Sheboygan Central Dec. 5.

For a while Wednesday night it looked as if the Jays were going to sink themselves by blowing a big second half lead in their third straight game.

They were on top by seven points (51-44) with 3:10 left in regulation time and by six markers (53-47) with just 1:45 to go. But somehow they couldn't hold that advantage and the Terrors had a 56-48 deadlock at the end of the regulation 32 minutes.

Takes 6-4 Lead After some preliminary skirmishing, Menasha grabbed a 6-4 advantage with 3:10 to go in the first quarter and never trailed for the rest of regulation time. The visitors were in front, 9-6, after a cold first period and 25-20 at the end of an equally unspectacular second segment.

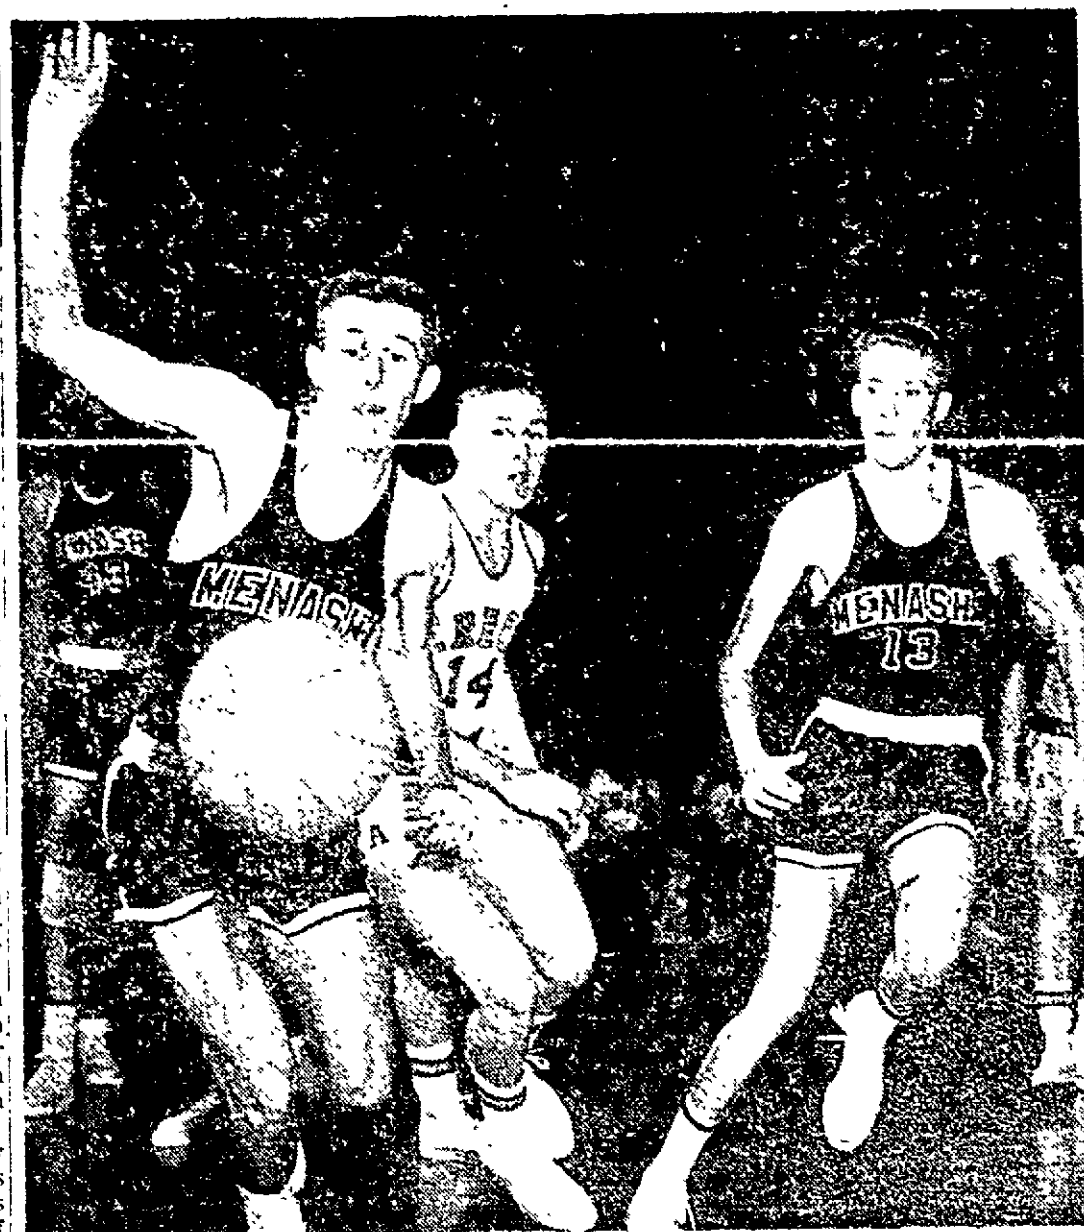

Appleton gained a 34-41 deadlock late in the third quarter but then the winners spurred in front again till

Johnny Druze Resigns After 3 Years as MU Grid Coach

Declares He Has Reached Saturation Point

Milwaukee — Coach Johnny Druze has called it quits after three years of trying to return

Marquette university to the status of a major independent football power.

The resignation was accepted Wednesday night by the school's athletic board of control, The Associated Press learned.

"There's no remorse," Druze said. "I did the best I could."

His three years were plagued by loss of players and injuries which almost never permitted him to field his best players at the same time.

Refuses to Alibi However, he declined to blame his coaching trouble on injuries, saying, "I refuse to alibi."

"If Marquette can find a better man to do a better job, I'm for it—100 per cent."

During his three years, Marquette has won two games, lost 25 and tied one.

The Warriors finish their current season Saturday night against Arizona State at Tempe. Ironically, a victory this weekend would give them a 3-5-1 record, their best since 1953 when Lisle Blackburn coached them to a 6-3-1 slate.

There were reports this fall that Blackburn now at little Carroll college, might be of-

Packers May Get First Draft Choice

Seem Likely to Go After Quarterback In Monday's Philadelphia Meeting

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service

Detroit—The Packers stand a good chance of getting the first choice in the preliminary draft in Philadelphia Monday.

They could "lose" the first pick by winning today, tying with Philadelphia and Chicago Cardinals (providing both the Eagles and Cards lose Sunday), and then losing a flip of the coin for the right to pick first.

The Packers are "in" for the top choice if they lose today and their record then (according to the dopsters, mind you) would be 1-8-1. A Green Bay win and losses for the Eagles and Cards would give each a 2-7-1 mark.

Don't Reveal Plans Enough of that hash, who and what will the Packers draft—first, that is? Coaches, including Packer Ray McLean, generally don't reveal their pre-draft plans, but it's no secret that our quarterbacks haven't been ruining other teams in the league. Also, the Packers haven't been getting any particular mileage in the rushing department, which points up a question: Do we need that good running back? Also . . . and this could go to any position with a loser! Quarterback, the key to any team's success, seems to be the logical suspect.

3 High Choices So who's for quarterback? The experts figure this isn't a hot-quarterback year, meaning that the topsters (according to the dopsters, mind you) are juniors and won't be available until after the 1959 college season. Some of the juniors are eligible for draft, since their classes graduate this year.

The Packers are due for a bit of quarterback luck. They selected three real high since

Total Assets Increased to $16,850.26; Ray McClone and All Other Officers Reelected

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

The Fox Cities Baseball club is in sound financial condition to begin its second season in the 3-1 league.

Club stockholders learned Wednesday night that despite much unfavorable weather and a losing ball club, the corporation made a profit of $2,377.33 in its first season of operation (1958).

Increases Assets This enabled the corporation to increase its total assets to $16,850.26, the balance sheet for the annual meeting revealed.

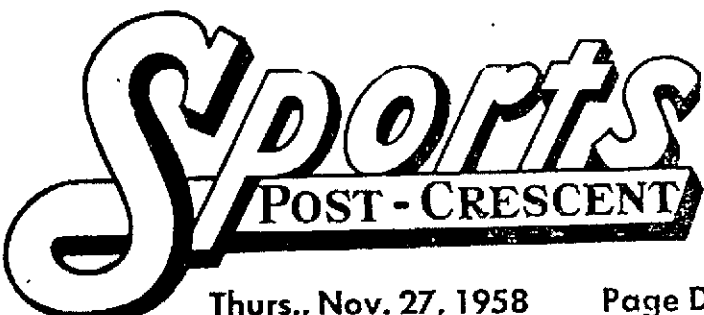

Two new directors—Frank Briske and Dick Schouten—were chosen, and all the officers were reelected.

The ball club now has a cash equivalent of about $12,000 to begin 1959 operations. Secretary S. M. Timmers pointed out, "The cash in the bank totals $7,564.06. In addition, the league equity of $2,000 and the guarantee (for players' salary) fund of $2,300 which were disbursed last year are still intact and need not be duplicated for '49. Also, the baseball, concessions and office equipment—totaling $5,833.82 in value—need not be duplicated next season."

Anticipate No Problem Club President Ray McClone said, "We don't anticipate any financial problems next year." He revealed the club hopes to increase its scorebook advertising from $7,685 to around $10,000; that it anticipates keeping its fence advertising revenue at about $4,000; that it hopes to sell at least as many opening-game booster buttons ($3,000 realized from this source). Those together with concessions sales ($21,211) and working agreement funds should keep the club operation in good shape.

Total operating expenses in 1958 ($70,524.47) exceeded income ($67,940.61) by $2,583.86. However, the basic working agreement appropriation accounted for an extra $4,900 ($5,000 less 2 per cent retained by the National association). This brought about a

Green Bay Picked as Site for 1959 National Men's Curling Tourney

BY HARRY MAIER
Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Green Bay has been selected as the site for the third annual play-downs for the U. S. Men's national curling championship, sponsored jointly by the National Curling association and Marshall Field and Co., Chicago.

The games will be curled across five sheets of ice at the Brown County Veterans Memorial arena, March 31, April 1, 2, 3 and 4. State winners from Michigan, Minnesota, New York, Wisconsin, Washington, Massachusetts, North Dakota, Illinois, New Hampshire and Alaska will compete in the event which will crown the 1959 United States curling championship rink.

Played in Chicago The playdowns were inaugurated two years ago in the Chicago arena, and last year played in the Milwaukee arena. Final plans for bringing the tournament to Green Bay were made at the Midwest Curling association exhibition curled here last Friday.

The announcement of the selection of Green Bay as the host city was made by Walter Selck of the Chicago Curling club and president of the national association; and Paul Moreland, Detroit, who will serve as general chairman of the executive committee which supervises the event.

Joint sponsorship has again been pledged by Hughton McBain, chairman of the board of Marshall Field.

The newly-formed National Curling association will assume entire operation of the event from preliminary play to the final playdowns.

Elimination Tourneys State winners will be selected from a series of elimination tournaments among all clubs in the respective state.

The first national curling title was won by the Harold Lauber rink of Hibbing, Minn. The 1953 title went to the C. Douglas Fisk rink of Detroit.

NOTES and NOTIONS

Maybe Wisconsin should seek a special dispensation to have its freshmen play this season's Big Ten basketball schedule instead of the varsity. The victory scored by the frosh over the varsity the other night—only about the fifth time it's been done in 46 games at the UW—was no fluke. I got myself a sneak preview of the players that could put the Badgers back on the basketball map next season. These boys have it! I'd say that probably three of the frosh starters—Frank Burks, Jack Ulwelling and Tom Hughbanks—could make the varsity starting lineup right now. And, there are a number of other excellent players.

Burks, termed the best freshman prospect the UW has ever had, is every bit as good as advance notices claimed. He is one of the most amazing performers I've seen on any court. The 6-4 Chicagoan (who, we understand, was kind of a lucky find—coming in on his own instead of being recruited). He's lithe and springy, on the order of Michigan State's Johnny Green—but he appears niftier than Green. Burks gave away 3 inches to John Stack and Ray Gross, yet outjumped and outbounded them—going up as if he were equipped with a built-in pogo stick. He's a great shot, a dazzling faker and a good dribbler. His ball-handling has a tinge of the Globe-Trotter about it.

1st Fieldhouse Appearance Since '56 Tourney

Appleton's Ulwelling, whose shooting, passing and general floor play caught the crowd's fancy second only to Burks', was outstanding in his first fieldhouse appearance since playing on the Terror 1956 state tournament team as a sophomore. Even at that tender stage of his career, they were saying he "couldn't miss." And, Jack proved it again Monday. The cool-headed Ulwelling's court sense—anticipating the right play and being in the right place—overshadowed that of most of the juniors and seniors on the varsity. Recently, Coach "Bud" Foster called Ulwelling "the kind of player that make a coach's mouth water."

Hughbanks—who along with Ulwelling gives the Fox River Valley conference 40 per cent of the starting lineup on a squad that has a flock of all-state talent from Wisconsin and Illinois—also impressed. His rebounding was sharp, and his southpaw fade-away jump found the range in the second half. Shawano's Marty Gharriy, who played with the second unit, and Manitowoc's Bill Nelson, who played with the third team, got in for about 10 and 4 minutes, respectively.

Meanwhile back at the fieldhouse—there's "this" season and not "next" to think about. Unless the Badger forecourtmen—especially Stack, Gross and Bob Barneson—improve a lot over their Monday's performance, this could be another rough one for Foster and company. By the way, if you plan to take in Badger game, why not get there early. We understand the freshmen will play some intrasquad games as preliminaries—and it could prove quite a treat to see Burks, Ulwelling and their cohorts in action.

The 3-1 league's decision to retain Winona was one of the surprises at last weekend's meeting. But, it was pretty hard to ignore the town's enterprise even though the sponsoring Kansas City A's wanted "out" because of sub-par facilities. Winona has all but promised it will build a new park for the '60 season and has already sold several hundred season tickets for next year.

CAIN

"And Adam knew Eve his wife: and she conceived, and bare Cain..."

—Genesis 4:1

Cain, the first murderer, was also the first-born of Adam and Eve.

He was a tiller of the soil. From his earliest childhood he had labored in the fields. There he became skillful in husbandry; and he was proud of the abundance he produced from the rich earth, to feed his parents and his brother Abel.

But, though he lived near the eternal life of the earth that pushed upward to the light with each spring shoot, it was anger, envy and death that grew within Cain's mind.

Because Jehovah accepted the offering of Abel the shepherd and rejected his, Cain lured his brother to a lonely field and struck him dead.

Why had God accepted Abel's offering and rejected Cain's? Perhaps because God searches the heart, and in that of Abel He found purity and truth.

Cain, on the other hand, was vain, greedy, and selfish. Some Old Testament commentators say that he probably offered God only the worthless part of his produce or the remnant of his flaxseed meal.

Whatever the cause, Cain represents the hatred and jealousies that have divided man from his brother ever since.

As he looked upon his terrible deed, fear gripped his heart. What had he done? Why did his brother lie so still, his blood upon the ground?

Cain was sorry for what he had done, but repentance did not bring Abel back to life. With a final horrified look at his brother's crumpled body, he fled.

He ran as swiftly as he could from the place of the crime. But he could not outrun God, nor his conscience.

"The voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto me from the ground," God whispered to him as he ran.

For his crime, Cain was cursed and banished from his familiar fields. But before he left for the land of Nod (wandering), he asked God to place upon him a mark as a sign of God's protection against the vengeance of men.

And thus God did, as an act of mercy, because Cain was humbly contrite.

Mufflers Can Be Reversed

One Side Silk,
Other Wool in Selection of Colors

Some fellows may get it in the neck from a "2-faced" friend this Christmas, but they'll like it. These lucky lads are the ones who will get one or more of the handsome new mufflers which have been created as much for style as for warmth and comfort.

The "2-faced" friends are among the newest of Yuletide scarves—wonderful and practical 2-faced reversibles. On one side they may be silk, on the other wool. Or they may change in color from side to side. Some switch patterns and some flip to a completely different fabric, color and pattern.

Gorgeous silks in both plain and fringed reefer styles and magnificent squares set the

Classical Releases Are Firsts, Reissues

Much that is exciting, interesting, unusual and just plain pleasing-to-the-ear will be supplied by new classical record releases.

Among the noteworthy record events are these: issuance of the first recordings of an orchestra of Hungarian refugees (Mercury); release of a 3-record Golden Jubilee album by Andres Segovia commemorating his 50th year on the concert platform (Decca); Otto Klemperer's recording of the Beeethoven Ninth Symphony (An-label's famed conductor of the gel); first recordings of Sir Minneapolis Symphony, made Eugene Goossens and the London Philharmonic orchestra the first recording on the Urania label, and of ords are devoted to Kodaly, English pianist Denis Mat and Bartok.

Operas Available

Opera fans are in for a great season. RCA Victor, with its outstanding roster of talent, has recorded operas aplenty. Co-length versions.

The Philharmonia Hungaria is the name assigned to the large group of Hungarian refugees which Mercury recorded fairly wide berth for several years, is now sailing full steam ahead into the operatic torrent. And London, as is to be expected, will again be strong on the operatic front, with several new releases as well as repeat performances for stereo.

Angel, Epic, Mercury, EMI-Capitol and Urania will also release operatic records this season, many of them full-length versions.

Following are some of the high lights from the comprehensive list of this fall's mafor productions — Experts: with Tebaldi, Cerquetti, Di Stefano and Siepi (London).

Other releases include the London Symphony under Antonio Fistoulari performing the famous Delibes' ballet Sylvia (Mercury); a first recording of Schumann's Concertstuck for Four Horns and Orchestra (Monitor); a 2-record reissue, "The Art of Lily Pons" (RCA Camden); Eileen Farrell in the Immolation Scene from Gotterdammerung (RCA Victor); "Neglected Masterpieces of the Vienna Waltz" by Anton Paulik and the Vienna Volksoper Orchestra (Vanguard); the twelve Concerti Grossi, Op. 5, arranged by Geminiani and performed by Gli Accademici di Milano under Dean Eckertsen (Vox); the complete orchestral music of Ravel by the Paris Opera Orchestra under the baton of Manuel Rosenthal (Westminster); and Handel's Messiah, complete, performed by the London Philharmonic Orchestra and Chorus under Walter Susskind (Stereo Fidelity).

Needless to say, all manner of recordings will be issued in stereo. These will include both new, previously-unrecorded versions as well as repeat performances recorded again, this time specifically for stereo reproduction.

This Bowling Set Fills With Water

One of the cleverest of new games for youngsters is a bowling set.

Made in miniature, the black bowling balls and white pins are of lightweight plastic. But the child can really learn to play the game, since both balls and pins are made to be filled with water. This gives them the feel of a grown-up game.

The set is made to be played on floor, grass, cement, dirt or similar surface.

School Board To Ask Opinion Of City Attorney

Wants to Settle Property, Money of Attached District

New London — Members of the school board have decided to ask an opinion from City Atty. Sigurd W. Krostue on the division of monies and property of the Fountain Valley school district effective as of Sept. 30.

A part of the school district was attached to New London and the remaining portion will be attached to the Fremont school effective July 1. New London's share of the school district is about $162,000 equalized valuation. Fremont will operate with the remaining $796,800 valuation.

The board also voted to buy a station wagon for $1,600 from the 1959 budget. Members voted to replace the doors on the boiler room at Lincoln school.

New Furnishings
Vernon Truesdale, president, appointed Mrs. Fred Bernegger, Jay Mattick and Dr. L. J. Kilken to serve on a committee for the furnishings at Lincoln school.

The board of trustees of the First Congregational church sent a letter to P. M. Loofboro, superintendent of schools, upon receipt of a check for $300 for the use of the basement of the church to house the kindergarten classes while the Lincoln school was in the process of remodeling.

The letter disclosed, "if the opportunity should ever present itself again, it would make us most happy to welcome other groups of school children in our church."

"They were extremely well behaved and excellently supervised," it continued. It also commended the teachers for the care given to church property and to the janitors "for the standards of cleanliness which prevailed."

Game Manager Speaks

Predict White Lake Improvement Will Make Water Clear, Productive

Waupaca — Is the much de-bated White lake improvement project going to make the lake a place of beauty and game haven, or is it going to result in a costly mud basin?

According to Harold Steinke, Oshkosh game manager, property owners on the lake can look forward to a productive, clear and beautiful lake in several years.

Located about three miles north of Weyauwega, the lake, was drained and exposed to the sun to help dry silt which made the lake water "too wet to plow and too mucky to drink." The outlet was closed this fall after all remaining fish in the lake netted or poisoned. Through compaction due to exposure, removing fish, especially carp which stirred up the bottom, and slow filling, Steinke said he believed White lake will turn into the same lake it was many years ago. It was once known as the prize fish and hunting lake in the area.

Normal Level
Steinke said that with a good winter snow cover, good spring rains and a fair summer, the lake should return to its normal level in two years. It will be approximately 14 foot deeper since the compaction dropped the lake bottom by that depth.

Speaking during planning meetings for the SCS office, the game manager said 50,000 conifers and other trees were made available to farmers for habitat development this year. Steinke also released about 1,000 pheasants in public hunting grounds and established 3,563 acres as protected fur farm areas.

Geneva — The western powers put it up to the Soviet bloc today to keep the conference on prevention of surprise attacks moving.

The west reported it is through presenting technical studies on the problem. It now is up to the Soviet side either to respond to the western documents in detail or present technical papers.

The eastern bloc claimed there was nothing new in the three papers brought in thus far by the west.

The western powers—the United States, Britain, France, Italy and Canada—want to engage in a detailed technical study. The Soviet Union, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania and Albania want to include political issues which the western delegates say they are not empowered to discuss.

Kimberly High, Kaukauna to Meet Friday

First M-E Tilt For Both Teams on Papermaker Court

Kimberly — Two arch rivals of the Mid-Eastern conference will open the league season Friday night when Kaukauna invades the Kimberly court. Varsity teams will tangle at 8:15 while the jayvee teams are scheduled to meet at 6:30 p.m.

The Papermakers will rule the favorite on the strength of their height and all-round balance but the Ghosts have played outstanding ball in pre-league games and are not being taken lightly.

Beat Appleton Coach Gil Frank of Kimberly saw his cagers open with an impressive 74 to 44 victory over Appleton of the Fox Valley conference. Kaukauna, meanwhile dropped its opener to highly rated Fond du Lac 65 to 57 and then lost a heart-breaker in overtime to Wausau, 63 to 62.

Coach Jerry Hopfensperger of Kaukauna has five lettermen, four of whom will be probable starters. Tallest of the returnees are Myron Zuchowski and Leroy Weyenberg both 6-1 and they alternate at forward and center posts.

Ron Busse and Bill Borchardt, both lettermen, will be at guards, and the fifth starter will be Jim Slegar. Gary Vanover is the fifth letterman for the Ghosts and he is expected to see a lot of action.

Ghost Reserves Other reserves for Kaukauna include Cy Vander Horst, Harry Gast and Dan Lamers. Scoring honors in the first games have been split between Busse, Weyenberg and Zuchowski.

Starters for the Papermakers will probably be Don Hearden and Dave Minton at guards, Tom Ronaykiers at center and Darrell Jansen and Jack Lamers at forwards.

Reserves for Kimberly are Jeff Vander Velden, Dan Vanderveel, Dave Hamann, Jerry Binsfeld, Dave Kringle and Tom Peerenboom.

Chili Supper Planned At Immanuel Church

Cornerstone Ceremony Held at Nicolet School

Kaukauna — Brief cornerstone laying ceremonies were held Wednesday, at Nicolet, grade school where construction of an addition is nearing completion.

The program was prepared by fourth, fifth and sixth graders at the school under the direction of their teachers. May or Joseph Bayorgeon greeted students before setting the stone into place. T. H. Boebel, superintendent of schools, spoke briefly.

A plastic bag containing names of students and teachers, current newspaper articles on various events and stories on school construction were included in the cornerstone.

School Projects The addition to the school will serve as a gymnasium and all-purpose room. Additional work at the school consisted of complete remodeling of the interior of the old building. Similar remodeling was completed at Park school and construction of a gym and all-purpose room is still underway.

The building program was started early this year and cost of the two school projects is about $450,000. Although the remodeling work was completed in time for students to attend classes without missing too many weeks of school, it is unlikely the additions will be ready for use for several months.

Plans call for open house at both Park and Nicolet school when all construction work is completed.

Introduced at the ceremony were Marshall Bayorgeon, school board president, and Robert Beaugrand, Nicolet PTA president.

Kimberly Tips East For Second Victory

Forced to Stall For 63-58 Triumph Over Green Bay

Kimberly — Stalling off a fourth quarter threat, Kimberly hung on to defeat Green Bay East 63 to 58 here Wednesday night.

For three periods the game was all Papermakers but the Red Devils closed the gap in the final frame and twice crept within four points. However, Kimberly managed to preserve the margin and copied its second straight win of the season.

With the triumph the Papermakers warmed up for the Mid-Eastern conference opener here Friday night when Kaukauna supplies the opposition.

Cruise to Lead Coach Gil Frank's Kimberly cagers cruised to a 35 to 25 halftime lead and boosted the margin to 11 points by outscoring East 17 to 16 in the third period. The Green Bay club would not be denied as they fought back gamely.

With 5:17 left in the final period Chuck Hansford of East dropped a short one hander to make the score 54 to 50 with the Papermakers in front. Kimberly immediately called a time out to talk things over and when action resumed Papermaker forward Darrell Jansen was fouled while he dunked a bucket and he made it a three pointer to put the lead back at 57 to 50.

East rallied again late in the game as Hansford plunked two more quickies and Bernie Van Boxtel counted on a steal for the Red Devils to cut the Kimberly lead tot 62 to 58. There was 1:12 left to play when the Papermakers tossed the ball in and they stalled it out until 21 seconds remained.

Jack Lamers was fouled and he made one of two tries to make the final tally 63 to 58 as East failed to connect on two shots.

Hearden Sparkplug Don Hearden was the sparkplug of the game for Kimberly as he scored 24 points, high for both teams and was outstanding on defense.

Hearden had 10 successive free throws without a miss and he made seven of 14 field goal tries. Sixteen of his 24 points came in the first half.

Fouls hurt East as Bruce Krueger went out with five personals in the third period and both Bob Wittig and Gabe Big Leaguer's Mixed league at the Recreation alleys.

The Braves are in first place with a 13-2 record while the Dodgers are second, three games off the pace. The Cubs are third, a game out of second.

Biemoret left in the final quarter. Wittig was high for East with 18 points and Biemoret followed with 14.

Kimberly made 21 of 26 from the free throw line and that proved the difference in the victory. East had 24 field goals to 21 for the Papermakers but the Green Bay club had only 10 of 18 free throws.

Faded Faces Drop From French Politics

Two Former Premiers
Among Candidates
To Pull Out of Race

Paris — A number of faded faces dropped from the French political scene today as parties prepared for runoff parliamentary elections Sunday.

Former Premier Edouard Daladier, who represented France at the Munich conference, and former Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury, who headed the government at the age of 42, withdrew their candidacies. Both had run far behind in the first round of voting last Sunday and seemed to have no chance of catching up.

Andre Le Troquer, a former president of the national assembly, also withdrew. Pierre Poujade, who led tax-hating protest movement that captured 51 assembly seats in the 1956 elections, stepped aside after being badly outdistanced.

Long List
Among a long list of former cabinet members to give up efforts for reelection were Edouard Corniglion-Moliner, Pierre-Henri Teitgen, Edouard Bonnefous and Jean Masson. Masson also resigned as mayor of Chaumont, saying that he had apparently lost the confidence of his electors.

Former Interior Minister Francois Mitterrand and former Foreign Minister Christian Pineau announced that they were staying in the race, although both ran far back in the first round. Mitterrand and Pineau were among the small group of non-communists opposing Premier De Gaulle's new constitution.

The communists announced that they were withdrawing 16 candidates to help socialists or radical socialists against right-wing aspirants. All other communists will stay in their races, although most estimates give the reds a chance to elect only between 10 and 20 deputies. They had 145 in the last assembly.

Nelson Questions Hiring Attitudes

Thinks State May be Hypocritic In Minority Groups' Situation

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — Gov. - elect Gaylord Nelson thinks the state may be guilty of hypocrisy in attitudes toward employment of minority groups by private employers and itself.

He made the point Wednesday in reviewing a $30,000, 2-year budget request of the governor's commission on human rights, one of four budgets presented.

The other three departments: Department of agriculture, up about $500,000. Board of health, up $1.3 million.

Historical society, up $250,000.

Nelson said he learned a few years ago that scarcely any Negroes were in public service in Wisconsin, or in the employ of such private businesses as utilities, which "operate by the grace of the state."

Should Set Example "It strikes me that if the state is presuming to educate and enforce standards here it should set an example," Nelson remarked.

"An employer would have a right to be miffed if he is told to do something that the state itself doesn't do. My guess is that the situation has not changed much from the fact's Nelson. It was originally established by executive decree of the late Gov. Walter S. Goodland, about 15 years ago, and later was established by law by the state legislature.

Donald McDowell, director of the department of agriculture, appeared to support a 1959-61 department budget of about $7,200,000, an increase of some $500,000. He said the additional funds are needed to accelerate inspection of fruits and vegetables, for the weights and measures staff and for work on unfair trade practices.

He claimed additional men for these departments would help the consumer and seller alike.

Staff too Small McDowell explained that investigation and prosecution of alleged unfair trade practices now are handled by regular staff members who also have other work. He contended there should be a division of such work in order to do a better job.

McDowell declared that the staff handling weights and measures is too small to do the job asked by the legislature.

The budget hearings, adjourned until Monday, will continue through Dec. 11.

Clem Alsteen, 19, 420 Adams street, Neenah, received head cuts and undetermined neck and back injuries about 4 a.m. this morning when his 1957 car went out of control on Highway 41, between Appleton and Little Chute. ## Outlook of Business Men Favorable

They're Optimistic About 1959 Sales Prospects

Nearly three quarters of the 1,548 business men participating in Dun and Bradstreet's latest compilation of business men's opinions were optimistic about their sales prospects during the first quarter of 1959. With 72 per cent looking forward to year-to-year gains, and only 4 per cent anticipating declines, the average viewpoint was more optimistic than in any such inquiry since that for the fourth quarter of 1955.

During the current questioning, business men were cheered by numerous reports that over-all business activity was steadily moving upward from the recession low of last April.

Among manufacturing firms, those foreseeing increases outnumbered the decreases over fourteen to one. Seventy-three per cent of the makers of durable goods expected higher sales than a year ago and 71 per cent of the non-durables producers were of that opinion.

Profit Outlook Lower Although the hopes for profits were noticeably higher than in the preceding survey, the participants were a little less cheerful concerning profits than they were about sales. A shade less than half of all the respondents looked forward to increased profits and 45 per cent expected no change from the first quarter of 1958. The "ups" were most frequently found among manufacturers of durable goods, and least often among retailers.

Those executives intending to build up their inventories during the first quarter of next year were over twice as numerous as those contemplating reductions. Producers of durable goods were more interested in accumulating stocks than were any of the other business men interviewed, and the proportion expecting to hold them at year earlier levels was highest among retailers.

Foresee Steady Prices The majority of the executives interviewed expected to hold their selling prices at first quarter 1958 levels. This was especially true among non-durables manufacturers and retailers. Wholesalers and makers of durables most frequently expected to raise their prices over a year ago. This time 24 per cent of all the participants were considering moving up their price levels, while last quarter the figure was 17 per cent.

At the Outagamie county hospital, about 250 people will sit down to a meal of turkey, fruit salads, relish dishes, squash and pumpkin pie with whipped cream. Girl Scouts from Appleton have provided favors for the tables. Due to construction of the hospital's new center wing, the patients will eat in shifts under a cafeteria-type serving arrangement.

At the Grand Army home in King, no special program or observance has been planned with Thanksgiving viewed as a day of rest. All ambulant members will be served in the four dining rooms and tray patients in their rooms. No meals will be served visitors or guests because of the large number of members to be served.

The Thanksgiving menu includes turkey, mashed potatoes, dressing, baked squash, fruit cocktail, cranberry sauce, relish dishes, rolls, Waldorf salads and hot mince pie.

Instrument Society To Hear Speaker on Measurement of ph

Members of the Fox River Valley Section of the Instrument Society of America will hear an address on ph Measurement and Control at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Valley Inn, Neenah.

Herbert Feidler, Bechman Instruments company, will speak. He is a member of the Chicago section of ISA. His presentation will include a brief presentation of the theory of ph measurement, with most of his talk devoted to equipment selection, sampling technique and maintenance and trouble-shooting.

McDowell replied, "It's mostly all talk. So far as the public is concerned, there are no plans to move the state fair."

He pointed out that such a move would cost around $20,000,000.

Teamsters Make Film to Protest Rackets Hearing

St. Louis — The Teamsters union has made a movie to protest recent hearings by the McClellan labor racket committee.

The Teamsters have produced a 33-minute film called "Trial by Committee." It consists of excerpts of testimony before the committee by Harold Gibbons, St. Louis vice president of the Teamsters, and James R. Hoffa, Teamster president.

Edwin D. Dorsey, St. Louis Teamsters official, said "we feel 'Trial by Committee' demonstrates the unfairness of the McClellan hearings. The tactics and statements of the committee members prove how these hearings are a threat to organized labor and the rights of citizens everywhere."

At the end of the film, Rep. James Roosevelt (D - Calif) criticizes some congressional committees. He says they permit public testimony against individuals without giving the accused the right of cross-examination.

City Promises Updating of Official Map

Send Outside Street, Right-of-Way Matter To Regional Planner

The city planning commission Wednesday referred two problems to the regional planning commission and took on one other itself.

All three were presented at the last council meeting by Ald. Pointer.

They call for updating the official map of streets and alleys inside the city, completing a map of major streets within three miles of the city limits, and for establishing some future streets (through talks with town boards) with 70 and 90-foot right-of-ways.

The commission will take on the updating of the map itself. It involves establishing alleys on both sides of and parallel to Wisconsin avenue, extending S. East street to meet E. South River street, and creating a street parallel to S. Kernan avenue near what was recently the Estabrook farm. Changes in the official map require lengthy hearings.

Alley Problem

The Wisconsin avenue alley problem was raised and discussed two years ago when Building Inspector Walter Bogan revealed there was nothing in the ordinances or on the map to forbid construction in the path of existing alleys. Subsequent talk showed there are a variety of setback requirements along the street, so alleys go in an irregular line east-west.

Completion of the official map for out-of-city areas within city jurisdiction hit a snag several years ago when the Grand Chute town board refused to permit a 70-foot right-of-way designation in a plat near Butte des Morts Golf club because it would create more grass for the town to cut, it was said.

Bypass Road

Pointer wants the map completed now, it was said, to tie down land for a 66-foot right-of-way for a bypass road running east-west along the city's south limits. The bypass road is shown in the Barton street plan.

Pointer wants 70 and 90-foot right-of-ways because they would provide enough land for possible future thoroughfare needs. A 60-foot right-of-way, it was said, often has to be added to at great expense.

Special 3-Man Committee Cuts Ice Rinks by 5

Five fewer ice rinks will be maintained in Appleton this year, a special 3-man study committee said Wednesday.

Rinks will be discontinued at Telulah park and Wilson Jackson, Franklin and Morgan schools, leaving 17 rinks in the city.

The special committee, composed of Elmer W. Grover, recreation director, Harold Jerke, park superintendent, and William Pickett, school system physical education coordinator, was named last March by the recreation commission, park and school boards.

Remaining locations of rinks are Memorial, Pierce, Alicia, Linwood, Arbustus, Erb and Jones (two rinks) parks, Goodland and Interlake fields, Columbus, Whispering Pines, Edison, Lincoln, McKinley and Foster schools and W. Grant street site.

Kiwanis Told Thanksgiving Is Many Things

Pastor Lists Four Ways to Observe American Holiday

"What is Thanksgiving?"

The Rev. Karlton Wagner, assistant pastor of Trinity English Lutheran church, gave his answer by discussing four aspects of the American-origined holiday before the Kiwanis club at the Conway hotel Wednesday.

The pastor noted Thanksgiving was celebrated sporadically from the Pilgrim period to the time when Abraham Lincoln proclaimed the fourth Thursday of each November to be Thanksgiving. It is a time, he went on, when people may be thankful for living in this country rich in resources and manpower. Thankfulness, he said, also implies service and the responsibilities of obedience. On the national level this may be evidenced in a sincere effort to be a good, contributing citizen.

Time to Pause

Predominately a family holiday, the speaker said, Thanksgiving is a time for people to pause and give thanks for their homes and families. He said loyalty and greater love show sincere thankfulness.

Thanksgiving is also a church day, commented the pastor. Time is set aside for spiritual blessings to be counted and a time when God is shown thanks for his goodness. Our real appreciation, he said, is indicated through greater faithfulness and loyalty.

Lastly, the churchman

Lumber Industry Sees Good Prospects in '59

Business Outlook Picking Up After Recession; 23 State Mills Report

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Moving of stock during late months and lumbermen's own forecasts for their business next year presents an encouraging condition for the industry following the recession period earlier this year, according to word from the Northern Hemlock and Hardwood Manufacturing association.

"The lumber picture now is very optimistic," declares William A. McGraw, secretary-manager of the association here.

Lumber stock reports by 23 mills in Wisconsin and Michigan, McGraw said, "indicates that business is going up" following the recession.

Stock Depletion An indication that business is coming up is reflected in a stock depletion of 6,523,000 spoke of Thanksgiving as a holiday for the individual when each person may take time out to give thanks for the benefits bestowed upon him and to change Thanksgiving into meaningful "thanksgiving."

feet since mid-year. The association's figures show that the amount of unsold hardwood on yards, 26,823,000 feet on July 1, decreased to 20,300,000 feet by Oct. 1.

This is shown, too, in the fact that there is not as much sold stock on hand.

The increase in stock sales, McGraw said, is characterized by a demand for flooring and hardwood veneer.

More Building

McGraw said, based on information available now, the lumber industry expects more rebuilding starts in 1959 than in 1958 if mortgage money is available. He explained that if credit is tighter, there could be a slowdown in building a large share of the remainder what is foreseen now.

Production, sales, profits, and, to a lesser degree, employment all are included in the optimistic outlook for the new year according to the results of the association's poll of members.

Most optimistic expectations for 1959 were in gross sales where only 2.6 per cent of the replies felt that sales would be down.

would be down in comparison with this year, while the rest stated that sales would be the same as this year or better. A large majority, 62.9 per cent, foresees greater sales. Another 34.5 per cent expects volume to remain the same.

Greater Production

Expectations of greater production next year compared to this year were voiced in 42.1 per cent of the replies while 53.2 per cent thought it would remain constant. Only 4.7 per cent felt production would be down.

The faith the hemlock and hardwood industry has in business during the coming year, McGraw noted, because more replies indicate the mills intend new plant and equipment expenditures during the coming year than those who expect to spend less.

A similar viewpoint was shown in employment. While the largest share of the replies estimated the averages 1958 if mortgage money is available. He explained that if credit is tighter, there could be a slowdown in building a large share of the remainder what is foreseen now.

Slightly more than 55 per cent of the questionnaires reflected contained expectations for the turned greater profits after taxes in the industry next year while roughly a third felt that they would remain about the same as this year. Only 10.8 per cent think that profits will be down.
